

limited to subscribers, but arrangements have been made to supply additional copies to new subscribers, whose names will be duly embraced in a future issue, if it shall be demanded. And now I take farewell of my readers. If they experience half the pleasure in glancing over these pages, that I have had in writing them, my labour of love will not have been in vain.

ST. GABRIEL MANSE,
Montreal, July 15th, 1887.