world, but he is just like the average doubter, merely an expert at dodging, but unfair in reasoning—I requested snyone who might read the letter in question, which you were kind enough to publish on the 20th ult., to note the context along with the text quoted, and if "Hyper" had done this, he would find that the quotations used from the New Testament, cited from some portion of the Pentateuch, and make special reference to Moses as the following officers were elected: author of them—then "Hyper" falls to pay any attention to these very defi-nite portions of scripture which I quoted from Nehemiah, chapter eight, nine and thirteen; these latter alone are sufficient to convince any man who is blessed with an open mind, that it is merely idle assumption to deny the Mospic authorship of the first five books of the Bible. I commend to "Hyper" a thoro perusal of Ezra and Nehemiah, if he desires reliable and convincing information relating to the important subject at issue. One cheerful feature about "Hyper's" letter is that he says he has no concern "in the controversy re Rev.G Jackson or his theology." "Hyper's" changed attitude in this matter (for I think I know the sentleman who is hiding behind the nom de plume) is certainly commendable; for I like to see a man own up When he is beat; and we must not for-

That while the lamp holds out to The vilest sinner may return."
In conclusion, I would say that as far as apocryphal books are concerned, I have no desire or time to conjure with them, and it seems common sense to me instead of like "Hyper," wasting time over the 20th century New Testa-ment, it would be wiser to wait for something better which will be available soon now, in the shape of the tercentenary edition of the authorized version of both the Old and New Test-J. R. McLennam. Toronto, Feb. 2, 1911.

The Sunday World has been a consistent and enthusiastic supporter of Hon. Adam Beck. In a few weeks we in Toronto shall see the fruition of one of the greatest public undertakings in the history of the world, an undertaking with which Hon. Adam Beck has been identi-

Our big feature this week is a striking full-page article on this triumph of public ownership. This is done in four colors and shows in a striking way what Mr. Beck has done for the people of Toronto and of Ontario. The page carries a large full-length portrait of Mr. Beck, and the accompanying article gives a short review of the cheap power movement in Ontario.

The first page of our magazine section is something new and fantastic. It is a weird description in color of the impressions gained by a German visitor to the United States. This burlesque on American dress and manners is a wonderfully attractive conception of the can dress and manners is a wonderfully attractive conception of the artist. It is in four colors.

On the back page of the same section is a color editorial, the central idea of which is: "Could a wireless connection be established between the human derelict and those who might save him, how much distress and misery might be spared this world."

We have two pages for women: Lady Duff-Gordon's fashion article, dealing particularly with the new "partial eclipse" hats, and Madame Lina Cavalleri's hints on the preservation of beauty.

Flora MacD. Denison contributes an interesting article on the medical inspection of school children, illustrated with some photographs of the mark of the pures. graphs of the work of the nurses employed by the Toronto Board of

In the Illustrated Section we have a page of fur-bedecked girls caught at random by The Sunday World artist in the shopping district, a page of reproductions of Dutch paintings, scenes in Rio De Janeiro and New Zealand, flashlight pictures of the Eaton Athletic Association fee carnival, a grouping of views of the opening of the legislature recently and a lot of miscellaneous pictures and views.

Our full page of music is "I'd Like to Know the Combination of Your Heart," as sung by Ward & Vokes. Besides we have a page of interesting musical gossip, a page of editorial and semi-editorial comment, a charming nature story by Mr. Mosdell, a sketch by Nell Brinkley, a page devoted to literature and education conducted by Mr. French, two pages of stage news and views and two pages of automobile news.

The comic section is a laugh in every line, the first page showing what Jimmy saw in the moving picture theatre. Then there are the other strong features: Happy Hooligan, Foxy Grandpa, the Katsenjammer Kids and Howson Lott. Mutt and Jeff will be here as

The Late News Section will contain all events of the day, including the big hockey match in the Mutual-street Rink. Watch for the

The obtaining of subscriptions of about $100,000 before April 12 was to be considered satisfactory. Travers agreed that the expenses of the directors, provided they did not exceed $16,000 to date, should be paid out of the funds of the bank, and it was further agreed that literature, of fice rent and other incidental expenses were to be paid out of the funds of the bank. This agreement was signed by all the parties except Watson and Gallagher. Raised Travers' Salary

The agreement of the fourth of July khich recited it, cancelled it, but was very similar. In it the directors alowed Travers to sell all capital stock of the bank not sold up to that date. The first $500,000 was to be sold at par and the balance at such a premium as should be decided by the provisional directors up to the time when their outles should cease. They were to allow Travers 10 per cent. for expenses selling, to be paid as in the earlier

The clause dealing with his appointment as general manager was the same wave that the initial salary was $5000 instead of $4000. There was to be the same yearly advance and the same pension upon the same terms, if he should not be re-employed. C. H. Smith, who was declared to have certain rights under the earlier agreement to which he had not been a party, was to surrender "all his rights under said agreement and releases "all claims against the provisional directors," and Travers agreed to accept "the legitimate accounts as they now stand upon the books for the expenses of the or books for the expenses of the or-by the shareholders, and if they refused to ratify it, to be null and void."

In this agreement Travers agreed to procure four members for the permanent board of directors who would be acceptable to the provisional directors and to Thos. Urquhart one week from the date of the agreement.

The directors reserved the right to cancer the agreement any time after April 12. 1906, if Travers should not carry out his part in a satisfactory way. The obtaining of subscriptions of

It is added in the communications to the German press that many persons believe that Dr. Kotoku is no longer alive, and express their belief in such characteristically eastern allusions as "the west is mourning the loss of the great Tolstol, but the east does not know whether its most beloved son is alive or dead." This belief, however, seems to be ill-fonuded, as, only a few weeks ago. Dr. Kotoku had an interview with his mother.
