Fourth Day at Detroit

Note and Comment

Giants' Day at the ball park was a success from every angle without a disappointment. At one stage it looked as if Muggsy McGraw was about to succumb to the bush league college, Joe Kelley, but his batman saved the day by a timely double and single repeated in the eighth and ninth. It was a nice exhibition with everybody doing his best. The Leafs were full of ginger, knowing that they were on parade before John McGraw. Benny Meyer's work on the bases early in the game indicated that he was about ripe for the big show. But he collapsed woefully in the field when New York scored the runs.

Some of the grand stand critics thought that the Giants were not trying, but it was simply a case of too much Rudolph. The regulars on the field did all that was asked of them, but they failed to get more than a couple of scattered hits up to the ninth. Hartley, behind the bat, worked like the Wilson that the Leafs used to own.

Marquard, after the first two men, moved us down in order. McGraw and the Rube tossed up one to O'Hara for a sacrifice, but Bill crossed him with a liner past Herzog.

The Giants' fielders seemed especially to satisfy the fancy. How they know the men! When Merkle made first in the seventh a dozen back of the bag admonished him to be sure and touch second. Merkle gave somewhat of a "Dad" display on third, running up the line on Herzog's fly to O'Hara, and he had to go back and die there.

The result of the game and the size of the crowd will cause McGraw to look on Toronto as a big money-maker. There were very few deadheads, and when the Philadelphia Athletics come next month it is proposed to make both the official scorer and Sgt. Miles cough up.

President McCaffery, under the impression that McGraw was trying out a recruit, the first three innings, sent over to Kelley on the bench to try and lead the elongated left-hander for the Leafs. The president put himself on knowing a ball player.

And while the Leafs were dallying with New York they were also drawing up on Baltimore and Rochester, thanks to the efforts of Montreal and Newark.

The New York Giants came to Toronto for a holiday, but they had to work hard. They still have a big lead in the National League in spite of a losing western trip, but they are expected to sweep all before them and to have the pennant nailed to the mast by the time Labor Day rolls around. The Boston Red Sox, according to numerous reports, are expected to be the team to back their options with gold, will capture the American League pennant, and break down under the terrific strain. The Washingtons are having trouble with the Detroitis this week, while the Red Sox are losing at Cleveland. The Athletics are gradually losing ground. It seems that even Mack's friends appear ready to throw up the sponge. If the Giants and Red Sox meet in the final series the old-time rivalry between Gotham and the Hub will be revived.

Rugby Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, is waiting for a second place in the American League race. He thinks the battle for the pennant will continue to be a struggle between Boston Red Sox and the Yankees, favoring the latter.

A baseball player cannot borrow money from another player and play under the national agreement, long as he refuses to reimburse the lender the amount borrowed. This was the sense of a decision handed down by the National Baseball Commission. The case is that of Pitcher Salles of the St. Louis National League team. This player, the commission states, while he is not stony in forming on the mound, is a desperate gambler. He has been suspended until he makes good.

Should the alien contract labor law be enforced at Fort Erie as suggested in a dispatch from Buffalo, there will also be a share among the officials at Woodbine Park and other Canadian tracks. In place of the versatile horseman, viz. Ald. Sam McBride.

The fighters have an exalted idea of their ability at the box office, especially the one who holds a title. For a series of years the prizefighter has been the underdog, of course, that he should continue to be. He wants a guarantee of $45,000 and the receipts from accepting a percentage of the receipts from the promoter's only $20,000. For Joe Rivers, a guarantee of $20,000; for Joe Rivers, a guarantee of $20,000.

Motor Boats for the Exhibition. Some very fast motor boats are coming to the U. S. take part for the races at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. Among the more the U. S. U. V. is owned by William Brown, and has a record of 42.5 miles per hour, while the latter had a record of 41.2 miles per hour, and is owned by "Fingy" Connors. The boats are also under way to the race of 50 miles at Detroit, with a record of 37.5 miles. The boats have met once, when the Kitty Hawk, which has sailed nearly 100 miles, was defeated by the victory of a boat to prove that his boat is the fastest in the world.

Pride of Gotham Held to a Tie Leafs Play Big League Ball

Toronto Holds New York Giants to a Tie for Ten Innings—Rudolph Pitches Grand Game—Story of the Play.

"Muggsy" McGraw and his Giants, pride of Gotham, runners-up in the world's series last year and leaders in the National League, paid their initial visit to the Queen City yesterday and were handed the surprise of their lives. The big city squad came per the invitation of President James McCaffery and McGraw's old team mate, Joseph Kelley, expecting to have an easy time with the local Class A outfit. The Leafs were then scared and near beating. The battle waged for ten innings, and the Giants were lucky to leave town with a tie and a score of 2-2.

Richard Rudolph, pride of all Toronto, and by the way who has been on with John McGraw, Edg. threw them up the line and performed for the full ten innings in grand style. Rudolph has pitched few better games than the one he did against the "Muggsy" artists yesterday, and it isn't his fault that Kelley's pets didn't land the bacon. Scoreless for Seven Innings. Rudolph held the Giants scoreless for seven innings, but in the eighth a miscue high fly gave Doyle two bases, and the game was turned into a tally. The New Yorkers tied it up in the ninth with a double and a single.

Canadian Government May Force Out Prominent Officials, Starting Saturday at Fort Erie.

Buffalo, July 25.—A sensational announcement became public property yesterday afternoon at Fort Erie, when it was learned from an authoritative source that the Canadian Government would enforce the alien contract labor law on the opening day of the Niagara Race Association's meeting across the river. Should this be true, the majority of the officials acting in various capacities will be ousted and only in the event that they are Canucks will they be immune.

Should the drastic edict of the government be enforced on Saturday it will wipe out the present mandatory of the Niagara Race Association, taking in its wake the following list of officials: Horace Dade, E. W. Mills, and numerous other lesser lights. It has all along been contemplated that the alien contract labor law was being violated on race tracks, but no effort was made to carry out the statute. That a legal battle will ensue to determine the correct status of the affair goes without saying.

Everything is in readiness for the opening of the second meeting of the Niagara Race Association across the river at Fort Erie. Fully seven hundred horses are now quartered on the grounds of the association, and the racing season is well advanced. The meeting of the Windsor Fair Grounds and the Niagara Race Association came to a close on Saturday last.

Scoreless for Seven Innings. Rudolph held the Giants scoreless for seven innings, but in the eighth a miscue high fly gave Doyle two bases, and the game was turned into a tally. The New Yorkers tied it up in the ninth with a double and a single.

White Sox in Overtime Down the Highlanders

At New York.—In an exciting ten-innings game, Chicago defeated New York here by a score of 6 to 4, bunching four hits on Warhop in the tenth. The game was the first of the season in which the White Sox won a game in overtime. The game was a close one, with the White Sox leading 3-2 in the ninth inning. The Highlanders were unable to score in the tenth, and the White Sox won the game.
