PUBLIC HAS NO RIGHT OF ACCESS TO WHARVES

Startling Contention of E. Douglas Armour in Arguing the Bridge Case.

In continuing the railways at: Osgoode Hall, in the appeal against Judge Anglin's decision re the Yonge-street bridge, E. Douglas Armour, K.C., counsel for the G.T.K., claimed that it was intended that the whole waterfront of the City of Toronto should be shut off from the citizens. This rather startled Chief Justice Moss, but Mr. Armour replied that it was true nevertheless. He cited the case of the City of Vancouver v. C.P. k., in which, by a decision of the privy council it was absolutely settled that public had no right whatever on foreshore, or access to the sea. This applied to the foot of Yonge-street. The railway was built on a special embankment from Berkeley-street to Harbor-square. It had been built on land which had been covered by water, and the public had no rights

Mr. Armour contended that that access can be got to the wharves only with the consent of the wharf owners, who have a private agreement with the fallways. No person had a right to go to the wharves without the liability to pay toll.

Chief Justice Moss did not suppose it was ever thought that the waterfront was out off, but Mr. Armour thought otherwise, and said it was not a question of policy, but of law.

If the public had any right to access to the wharves, it was the right con-tained in the provision allowing the Street Railway Company is now sup-pa public to cross the Esplanade at any plying to Balmy Beach is giving anypoint, and not the right to go down a highway to the waterfront. Following Mr. Armour's argument the city's case was opened by Alfred H. Marsh, K.C., who argued that the crossings in question extended to the old Windmill line as far back as which contention was sustained by Justice Anglin at the last hearing. Corporation Counsel Fullerton will take up the city's side at this morn-

YANKEES IN CONTROL OF ONTARIO FISHERIES

American Markets, Says Provincial Report.

In the report of the provincial fisheries department for 1900, which has just been issued by Acting Deputy Commissioner Tinsley, the attention of the government is drawn to the difficulty of enforcing the fishing laws of the province, owing to the fact that while the province owns the fish in its own waters the Dominion government has the power to legislate regarding close seasons and in other important respects. Power Used Wrongly.

"This power," the acting commission-ex says, "is often used for purposes other than fish protection. In some districts under certain circumstances permission has been given to fish during weight or style of underwear that we cannot supply you with. part of the short close season for sal-mon trout and whitefish without even consulting Ontario's fishery department until after such extensions of open seasons have been granted. I venture to hope the time is not far distant when the province will have full power to legislate on and regulate what common-sense has decided to be an exclusive provincial matter. The immense extent of the waters of the province, in which commercial fishing is allowed, cannot possibly be patrolled to the extent necessary to ensure strict compliance with the terms on which the licenses are issued. It is well under-stood that most fishermen have consciences more elastic than their gill nots, which as a rule stretch out to several times the amount their respective licerses empower them to use. To even partially compel the fishermen of the province to use no more nets or net than stated on their licenses would rethan stated on their licenses would require at least two general inspectors to devote their whole time to the enforcing of the fishery regulations, and make fishermen in general realize that a thousand yards of net means a thousand yards. The inspectors should be sand yards. The inspectors should be authorized to have all or any gill nets sand yards. The inspectors should be authorized to have all or any gill nets at any time lifted for inspection. The impression prevails that statements made by fishermen, from which the yearly returns of catch and value are compiled, are inaccurate and unreliable, far less than the number of the catch and value of same being returned catch and value of same being returned for the alleged purpose of preventing license fees being increased to an extent commensurate with the value and amount of fish caught. These returns should be made, and correctness sworn to before a justice of the peace.'

The report strongly urges the import ance of establishing a home market for Ontario fish. This, it says, can be accomplished either by the Dominion government prohibiting export or by the people of the province being pre-pared to pay the price for Ontario fish which is realized in the United States. With American capitalists in control is emphatically of the opinion that the day has passed when fish can be pur-
