As the result of considerable experiment, he has devised a system which he believes will give splendid satisfaction. He uses 480 8 c. p. in candescent lamps, 120 on each dial, placed 17 inches apart, and fitted up with 22 gauge galyanized iron reflectors properly stayed and braced to the present wind braces. The lamps are 20 inches distant from the dial and each individual lamp is handled separately and seen from the inside, so that they can be replaced in a moment's notice in case of accident to any of the circuits. The holes in the reflectors thru which the lamps are inserted are 2 1-4 inches in diameter and will permit sufficient daylight to light the present room, also the necessary circulation of air inside the reflector when the lamps are lighted.

One of the features of this city which strikes the visitor with more than ordinary interest is the City Hall clock. Its brilliancy and the perfect clock. Its briliancy and the perfect illumination are commented upon by all who take trouble to look at it with more than a passing glance.

The citizen, too, the man who must pay for the erection and maintenance of the clock, is highly delighted with the result of Chief Engineer Bannon's scheme of illumination. Of the thousands of public timepieces thruout the continent there is none which shows up to better advantage during the dark hours of night than the one which adorns the tower of Toronto's civic pile. Lack Combination

The new lacrosse players are inuc criticized for their want of system is games, and some go so far as to say as played here, the game much re sembles the old time "shinney." John Dunn got his lip split in yesterday's game because he tried to carry the ball thru a bunch of opponents in-stead of throwing it to a player on his own side. The club is evidently in need of a good coach.
