SEEING THE WAR IN PERSPECTIVE

CAMERAS EVERYWHERE Record More Than Any One Soldier Can Hope to See.

Soldiers who have returned from the front in many cases find it very difficult to tell much about their experiences except in the cases of small details. The reason is simple. The operations in this war are so vast no one man can see them in perspective unless it be officers of the higher commands and the commander-in-chief himself. And a soldier's view of the war is very apt to be the things he saw going into the trenches and then a barren strip of No Man's Land, featureless except for some barbed wire and shell holes. He takes part in an attack, sees men fall, gets hit himself and comes home by stages marked by hospitals and convalescent stations. His adventures are of interest to his friends but they do not give a very comprehensive idea of the war.

Not so with the moving picture cameras employed under the auspices of the British army to take moving picture records of the war for the British Government. The camera machines see everything, record it all imperishably and truthfully on film. There is nothing more real than moving pictures of war but the war itself.

The latest production of the British military moving picture operators to date is being shown today and tomorrow at the Rialto Theatre, corner of Yonge and Shuter streets, and it tells more in an hour and a half than could be told by all the returned soldiers who have come back from the front. The film is not confined in its story to one place in the line or one short period in battle. It is a comprehensive review of the British advance resulting in the capture of Bapaume and Peronne. While soldiers could not describe what they saw in the way that this moving picture does, they are quick to recognize and appreciate the truthfulness of the film when it is shown to them, and are among the most enthusiastic of the visitors to the Rialto Theatre this week.

If there are any who have been intending to see this picture but have delayed visiting the theatre, they would do well to drop into the Rialto today, as after tomorrow it will be sent out of town. The doors of the theatre are open at 9.30 and the film from then on runs continually until 11 p.m. All seats are conveniently on the ground floor and all seats are at the uniform price of 15 cents. The picture is being presented by Messrs. Jule and Jay J. Allen under the auspices of The Toronto World.

Should Not Prescribe Liquor Says Chief Coroner Johnson

In the police court yesterday Chief Coroner Jukes Johnson took the stand and explained that liquor should not be prescribed by doctors except in exceptional cases. Dr. Johnson was called after Dr. A. J. O'Leary had given evidence in the case of James Clancy, charged with having liquor in his possession.

At a previous hearing Dr. O'Leary admitted having prescribed a quart of whiskey for Clancy, who was suffering from general debility. The charge against Clancy was dismissed. Dr. O'Leary regretted his error in prescribing whiskey for Clancy, and promised that it should not happen again.

INJURIES PROVED FATAL.

James Drabble, a bricklayer's laborer, aged 30, of 4 Sullivan street, who was struck on the head by a falling brick while working at the T. Eaton Company's building, Alcestreet, yesterday morning, died in St. Michael's Hospital yesterday afternoon from a fractured skull.

WILL ASK GOVERNMENT TO FIX COAL PRICES

After Private Meeting, Board of Control Says City Cannot Fill Citizens' Bins.

Altho it was intended that the city would provide a supply of coal for the citizens in an emergency, and civic officials have journeyed to the United States coal fields in search of a supply, the citizens have been told to look out for themselves. And it is up to them to fill their own coal bins. This announcement was made yesterday following a private meeting of the board of control.

The mayor stated that owing to the situation the city could not be responsible for supplies of coal for the citizens, but that he had been appointed with Works Commissioner Harris to confer with the federal authorities with the view of having the United States and Canadian Governments coordinate coal prices and facilitate the movement of supplies.

"The city will take every possible precaution," said the mayor, "to get a reasonable supply of coal for emergency purposes during the winter months. We have placed the matter in the hands of Property Commissioner Chisholm. He has obtained all the city requires, and will endeavor to obtain a supply for emergency purposes."

BROADVIEW BOYS' FAIR.

There was a large attendance at the second meeting of the Broadview Boys' Fall Fair directors last night. Many new ideas for improving the exhibition were considered, and as all the members have been taking a very active part in production work this year, the exhibitors of garden produce will likely surpass those of former years.

SOON COMPLETE LIMB FACTORY.

About 650 returned wounded soldiers are now patients at the North Toronto Military Hospital. The artificial limb factory at North Toronto will be completed in three weeks. When it opens the amputation cases now at the College street convalescent home will be transferred to the North Toronto building.

WOULD EMPLOY VETERANS ONLY

Board of Control Refers Back Appointments for Further Enquiry.

Owing to the adopted policy of the city council that none but returned soldiers be engaged in the departments, except in special cases, the civic heads have been confronted by a problem that is becoming daily more complicated.

At the meeting of the board of control yesterday Finance Commissioner Bradshaw recommended that J. B. Sinclair, a night watchman at the city hall, be transferred to the finance department to act as messenger, and he was told by the mayor to get a returned soldier for the job. Mr. Bradshaw explained that it was not advisable under the circumstances and that he must have someone he knew as the messenger would be trusted with large sums to take to the bank sometimes as much as a million dollars.

"A returned soldier can do that," said the mayor. A man who has fought for the empire is all right."

The finance commissioner insisted that his recommendation be adopted and the matter was left for further consideration.

Parks Vacancy.

"There's a department that it seems impossible to get a returned soldier in," was the mayor's comment when the board received a communication from the parks commissioner recommending the promotion of J. Wood to the vacant position of foreman at Exhibition Park. "Returned soldiers," he said, "seem to get only the menial positions."

Controller Shaw said that a returned soldier might not be qualified for the position and suggested that a veteran be placed in Mr. Wood's job, and the recommendation was referred back.

Commissioner Forman reported that he had engaged a stenographer in his department at $16.20 a week, no returned man being available.

The mayor advocated that women be employed in stenographic positions and the controllers agreed and sent the recommendation back.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

At the morgue last night a verdict of accidental death was returned in the case of George Mastawa, of Roberts, near Chapin, Ont., who died as the result of falling from a handcar and breaking his back. The evidence showed that Mastawa, who was a section hand on the C. P. R., and a number of companions were returning home on a handcar when one of the handles broke, hurling the man to the tracks. Dr. Brand conducted the inquest.

ACTION AGAINST CITY.

Frederick A. Jifkins, a veteran of the American civil war, is plaintiff in an action for unstated damages before Judge Coatsworth against the City of Toronto. Jifkins slipped on the icy pavement at Clinton and Bloor streets on February 2, injuring his back and shoulder. He has been confined to his home and his evidence was read in court by his counsel. The city in its defence denied negligence.

THEATRE FOR SOLDIERS.

A theatre is being erected at Whitby Military Hospital to accommodate 1200 people. The officials of the military hospitals commission declare every effort is being made to provide entertainment for the soldier-patients. Two large billiard tables were shipped from Toronto to the Whitby hospital yesterday.

STREET RAILWAY MEN CONFERENCE.

A conference was held yesterday between Manager R. J. Fleming, of the Toronto Street Railway, and members of the Street Railway Men's Union. W. D. Robbins stated that all he had to report was "satisfactory progress," and another meeting will possibly be held in the early part of next week. Matters were freely discussed, but it is understood that no agreement was reached.

Superannuation Fund Problem for Solicitor

A special meeting of the superannuation committee of the board of education was held yesterday afternoon. Trustee W. E. McTaggart presiding. Altho the new government scheme has taken the matter out of the hands of the board, the latter still controls some superannuation, money collected under the old system. But today that altho legally the board is not bound to turn any of this over to the teachers, it is a question if they are not morally bound to do so. About 46 teachers have been superannuated since 1912, and regarding the matter of dealing with them it was decided to obtain the advice of the solicitor of the board. When this has been done, the committee will meet, the board of control and the city treasurer.

MUST PAY INSURANCE.

Judgment for $4,384 was awarded George Gabel by Justice Masten at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon in his action against the Howick Farm-ers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company. The company did not dispute Gabel's claim, but based their defence on the fact that while incendiarianism was threatened on the Gabel property, the sentence asking that question on the policy was answered by a dash merely.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

William Dore, 4 Austin avenue, was arrested last night on a charge of stealing a bicycle belonging to Fred Molia, 178 Manning avenue, which Molia had left on Adelaide street last Monday. According to the police, Dore was caught when he tried to sell the wheel.

RECEIVES MILITARY CROSS.

Lieut. Geo. V. Laughton, who is on sick leave suffering from shell shock, is reported to have been awarded the Military Cross for gallantry displayed at Vimy Ridge. He is a brother of H. V. Laughton of the National Trust Company. He went overseas last year with a draft from the C. O. T. C.

WOMEN ENROLLED AT WARD MEETING

Twenty-Five Became Members of Ward Six Conservative Association.

Twenty-five women enrolled for membership at the meeting of the Ward Six Conservative Association held last evening in Bonar Hall, College and Lansdowne avenue. Since the government has granted the women the privilege of voting in the provincial and municipal elections it has been decided to form women's ward organizations, which will be affiliated with the men's associations.

President Clark expressed regret at a number of the party representatives of Queen's Park being unable to attend. However, brief addresses outlining the constitution of the Conservative association were given by Tom Rooney, J. R. McNicol and J. Sweeney.

Mr. Rooney said that he was glad the women had been granted the privilege of voicing their opinions in public matters, and predicted that the time would be soon when the women would be granted a Dominion franchise. The speaker declared amid loud applause that Premier Borden had laid down a policy that Canada would send her last man and dollar to win the war, and that it was up to every true Conservative to back the premier to the finish.

J. R. McNicol cited the placing on the statute books of the Ontario Temperance Act and the Workmen's Compensation Act as two examples of the work of the Conservatives. He said that there never was a time when responsibility rested so heavily on the shoulders of any government than the present. Premier Borden had done all he could in voluntary enlistment of men for overseas, but the response was not enough to reinforce those who had gone over. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was criticized for not conducting campaigns in Quebec and using all his influence for recruiting.
