"THE SON OF WALLINGFORD"

Visualization of a Famous Sequel.

GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER, creator of the likeable vagabond, Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford, took many months to transfer to celluloid this great story. He made a picture which took many months, a small fortune and several thousand actors to produce. When he had finished he had something entirely different. Its human qualities hold. A simple scene between Mary Curtis and Jimmy Wallingford received as much attention as the magnificent pageant scene patterned after an old Indian durbur with gaily comparisoned elephants and camels and thousands of costumed participants. In addition to this there are big spectacular scenes on a lake of burning oil. These are the greatest fire scenes ever filmed. Ten tanks of oil were spread upon the especially constructed lake which cost over $20,000 to produce. It burned for ten days steadily. Every character selected with care and precision; every type faithfully portrayed and visualized as they had been in the original Wallingford stories.

Did you ever see a city built in the twinkling of an eye? What makes a boob? See "The Son of Wallingford." Have you ever seen a gusher? You'll see one here. Did you ever see a city burn up in five minutes? This is it. Could you raise a million dollars in a week? Get our recipe. Do you like circus parades? See our's, it's a corker!

What is the significance of the jobless car? Highbrow stuff. Did you ever see a lake of burning oil? We've got one. Can you picture a square mile of flames? We have the picture. Did you ever see a riot—a real honest to goodness riot? Can you imagine 10,000 balloons and two tons of confetti floating in the air? Do you know J. Rufus Wallingford? See "The Son of Wallingford."

THEN YOU'LL WAKE UP AND RUB YOUR EYES!

Leslie Boyd was second and Duke Donovan third.

BILLIARDS.
Hoppe Seeks 182 Title.
Willie Hoppe this week will move from St. Louis, where he has been engaged in a series of exhibitions, to Chicago, there in private to conclude his prepara-tion for his match with Jake Schaefer for the 182 balkline billiard champion-ship of the world. The match will begin next Monday, and will continue for three nights. The two cue masters have agreed to play 500 points each night for a total of 1,500 points. Seating arrangements have been made to accommodate 1,750 persons.
In all the long history of billiards never has more interest been displayed in a championship match than has been evinced in the coming contest. After ruling supreme in the balkline world for sixteen years Hoppe came a cropper last November, when in the first profes-sional international tournament to be held in the United States since 1906, he was dethroned by Jake Schaefer. Hoppe, immediately challenged, but under the conditions governing the diamond medal donated by the Brunswick-Balke-Col-ender Company to be emblematic of the world's championship, Schaefer was not compelled to meet Hoppe until some time between March 16 and April 1.
In the meantime both players have been engaged in exhibition work. That is, Schaefer was engaged in it until his health compelled him to cancel a num-ber of engagements and return to Cal-ifornia. He has been preparing for the defence of his title on the coast. Little has been heard in New York of Schaefer's real physical condition, but it is a foregone conclusion that he would not at-tempt to meet Hoppe unless he had com-pletely recovered and was sure that he would be able to play at top speed.
Word was received from R. B. Benjamine, who manages Willie Hoppe. He wrote that Hoppe is playing better than ever before in his career and is confident of defeating Schaefer and regaining the coveted crown.
Should Hoppe succeed in defeating Schaefer he has stated that he will come east almost immediately to begin pre-paration for the defence of the title against Walker Cochran, who, by virtue of having finished third in the interna-tional tournament, is next in line to chal-lenge. If Hoppe is successful it is be-lieved that his match with Cochran will be staged in New York about the end of April. Should Schaefer win it is doubt-ful whether he will attempt to defend

MOVIES IN ARGENTINA.
The United States has no monopoly of moving picture fans. There are 128 moving picture theatres running in Buenos Aires, with paid admissions averaging $200,000 a month. The theatres are run on a somewhat curious principle, according to our ideas. Al-though the pictures are repeated several times the patron buys an admission for a single picture or for the entire show as desired. There are two shows a day in all the theatres, but in a single theatre there is a continuous performance as in the United States.
Although the two Americas are popu-lated by different races with very different temperaments and tastes in many respects, the South Americans much prefer the films made in the United States to those manufactured in Europe. The American films are far more expensive than those of Europe, but the South Americans prefer to pay the additional price. A European film is occasionally introduced for the sake of variety, but the American pictures are the recognized standard.
The stars and other actors and ac-tresses appearing in the American films are very popular in South America, and their names are as familiar as at home. Although the population is Spanish or their descendants, popular taste does not approve the exaggerated emotional act-ing of the Spanish and French actors in the European made films. There are at present fifteen producing companies in Argentina, but their films are not popu-lar. The machinery used in the studios and theatres is almost exclusively from the United States.

Hoot Gibson in "Sure Fire"

"Sure Fire" is sure fire. It is filled with spirited action and spiced with clever comedy. There's plenty of romance and above all, there's suspense.
