That Honest Statesmen Suffer for Acts of Agents

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 17—Chief Justice Weatherbee and Judge Rus-bell comprising the court which tried the petition against the return of Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, when the Creamer children, he concluded to the this powers in an effort to solve the member for Queens and Shelburne at the election of November, 1904, tonight gave their decision at Liverpool disgrave of their disappearance. With this end in view he put two subjects fint a hypnotic trance last evening. One was a young man from Houlton, the other a native of Woodstock. They were subjected to the influence in different rooms, and each had no knowledge of the other being in the experience. Wanted—Competent cook, wages $5.00 per week; also general girls, Mrs.

Wanted—Competent cook, wages $5.00 per week; also gener and that the payment of $550 by the latter to John Seldon the week before the election was an illegal act, alough Seldon swore that the money was expended for legitimate campaigr purposes. The chief justice in deliver-ing judgment said that he was impressed with the hardship of making a statesman whose sole desire was to serve his country, responsible for the corrupt act of a few agents among so many persons who innocently assisted in securing his election. The rules of the agency were relaxed in the election cases and it was important for the judge to inform himself of the practice of election courts. He was sorry to relax the rules but he felt himself bound by decisions to hold that Farrell was

Mr. Fielding had to depend on these men, if not, on whom could he depend? The money paid to Seldon was paid without the knowledge of the Liberal Association and was evidently a sewithout the knowledge of the Liberal Association and was evidently a se-Association and was evidently a secret fund. Proof was clear that it must have been used illegitimately. Judge Russell reached the same conclusion, but read a lengthy opinion. He was Russell reached the same conclusion, but read a lengthy opinion. He was in doubt whether the other persons mentioned were agents, but it was unnecessary to decide if they were, as Farrell clearly was. It was clear that the respondent did not authorize the corruption of any person. And there was no evidence that he had any knowledge of such acts. Nevertheless he was bound by the authorities to decide that election was void. The order was taken dismissing the personal charges with costs and voiding the election. Mr. Ritchie, K. C., strongly contended for all costs, but the court though he was not entitled to costs of witnesses improperly subpoenaed and examined. The vacating of the seat will be of no political advantage to the Conservative party, as Mr. Fjelding will no political advantage to the Conservative party, as Mr. Fielding will probably be returned by acclamation and by a large majority if indeed opposition should be offered him. Mr. position should be offered him. Mr. Fielding has always been so scrupulously careful in complying with the provisions of the election is unseating on account of an unauthor-lized act of a supporter is regretted by the best men of both parties.

Mine Looking for Dead Ones

BRISTOL, Va., Aug. 17.—Fifty men hare entombed alive in the Clinch Mountain tunnel at Clinchport, Va., as a result of a cave-in which occurred totalay. It is not known whether the men hare dead or alive, but the work of rescue is being rushed as fast as possible. Air is being pumped into the tunnel and a large force of men is working in an effort toward rescue.

The cave-in occurred unexpectedly and it is not known who is responsible. The men entombed are chiefly natives of the mountainous section of South, west Virginia, and the excitement and anxiety is intense. Men, women and children tonight were at the mouth of the tunnel awaiting news of those dear to them. Having taken a PARK HOTEL. lively interest in the disappearance of the Creamer children, he concluded to test his powers in an effort to solve the edge of the other being in the experi-ment. Wonderful to relate, their accounts of the children's fate exactly coincide. Briefly, it is as follows: On the day in question the Creamer tots became lost in the swamp and finally wandered nearly a dozen miles, when death from starvation and exhaustion overcome them. The body of the little overcome them. The body of the little girl, so the medium states, was shortly afterwards devoured by wild animals. That of the boy was moved some distance by a bear, and the remains are yet intact. The hypnotist feels sure his subjects, or either of them, could under his direction solve the mystery.
