wick's death was as sudden as it was unexpected, he having been in his usual good health when last seen alive. After tea he went into his garden, but did not return. About two o'clock this morning his little niece and his young sister-in-law, who were alone in the house, awoke and not finding him in the house became uneasy and commenced a search for him. They found him in the sarden lying by a tree which he had been planting. Neighbors were called and medical aid aummoned, but life was extinot and Mr. Hardwick had probably been dead for several hours. Heart faflure was the cause of death.

About two years ago Mr. Hardwick married Miss Cummings of Shelburne, who at the time of his death was visiting in Granville, accompanied by her infant daughter. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. R. U. Parker of Kontville and Mrs. Charles Whitman of Lawrencetown, and by one brother, Ozcar of this town. Mr. Hardwick, who was about fifty years of age, was one of the bost known and most popular citizens of Annapolis. A man of sterling quality, absolute integrity and of genial disposition, he was held in respect and esteem by all who knew him. Always a worker for the good of the town for several terms a member of the bost known and most popular citizens of Annapolis. Always a worker for the good of the town of the Church of England, of which body he was ever an active worker. He belonged to the Independent Order of Oddfellows, by whom his funeral, which takes place on Saturday, will be conducted. For over thirty years the deceased was in the employ of the Charles McCormick and Sons.

lease from the Dominion government. The city claims the island as part of Stanley Park.

The Island Dock and Warehouse Co., on the strength of the Ludgate lease, began cutting timber on the island. At 8 o'clock this morning Chief of Police Chamberlain, Acting Mayor Prescott, Park Commissioner Bell Irving and sixteen policemen appeared on the island and arrested E. L. Kinman, managing director of the island company, on a charge of feloniously destroying trees and shrubbery in a public park. This is an indictable offense. At the police court Kinman was allowed out on ball of $1,000.

This afternoon Kinman, accompanied by William Smart and F. L. Dartley, returned to the island. Their landing was opposed by Police Officer Kurney. Kinman assaulted the officer with a heavy club, knocking him unconscious. Some and four men were arrested and lodged in the police station.
