A BRINSMEAD PIANO

As used by Royalty

This is the best piano built in Great Britain, and is used not only by Royalty but the most musical and best people in England. This firm was established during the reign of King Wm. IV. and is recognised as one of the greatest piano makers in the world. They ship pianos everywhere which are constructed especially for the climate for which they are intended.

One of the special features of this piano is a treatment of the strings which prevents them rusting in this damp climate and they have many other special features. You should call and see our samples of these superb instruments.

HEATED PASSAGES BETWEEN COUNCIL, THE ONLY FEATURE

Little New Evidence Brought Out in the Currey

Separation Suit Yesterday—Court Threatens to Adjourn if War of Words is Persisted in—

Willie Currey Tells of Parents' Many Quarrels.

Yesterday's proceedings in the Currey separation suit before Judge Mc-Keown were enlivened by frequent tilts between counsel. During the morning session Mr. A. H. Hanington, K. C. charged Dr. L. A. Currey with cheating his (Currey's) mother out of property at Gagetown. At this stage His Honor threatened to adjourn court. Besides Mrs. Currey, whose evidence was concluded, Willie Currey, her eldest son, was examined and cross-examined as to his knowledge of the dispute between his parents. Little new evidence was adduced. Mr.
M. G. Teed, K. C. and Mr. A. H.
Hanington, K. C., appeared for Mrs.
Currey. Mr. C. N. Skinner, K. C., represented Mr. Currey. The hearing will probably be concluded today.

When the Court met in the afternoon the examination of Willie Currey was resumed by Mr. Teed.

The witness said he was present in the Charlotte street house at the time Mr. Currey punished Allen (wit-ness's brother) for tearing plaster off the wall.

Q—On this occasion did your mother call your father a d—, miserable whelp? A—No, sir.

Q—Did your father at any time call her that when you were present? A—No, sir.

The witness denied that his mother kicked his father on the knee. He added that she never attempted to kick him.

Q—Did you at any time ever see your mother kick him? A—No, sir.

Q—Do you remember an occasion in the town house where your father kicked his head was hurt? A—Yes, sir.

The witness told of the occurrence, which was referred to in detail when Mrs. Currey gave her testimony. Mr.
Currey, he said, struck his head by accident. Mrs. Currey was at the other end of the hall.

Called Them Unseemly Names.

The boy then told of the candy incident at the Woodman Point House.
On this occasion, he said, Currey called Mrs. Currey a little Julia many unseemly names.

The witness was positive that his mother did not throw a glass of water into Mr. Currey's face on this occasion, nor did she say "I'll kick the d— stomach out of you."

On another occasion in the Charlotte street house his father, according to the witness, almost threw his mother down stairs. "But," added the boy, "I don't think he meant it."

Being questioned on the raft episode the witness said Mr. Currey accused his mother of having the raft built and also called her a d— liar when she denied it.

He was sure that there was no trouble between his mother and the servants, except Lizzie Oldford. His father always took Lizzie's part when any dispute between her and Mrs.
Currey arose. His father frequently called his mother a she-devil before Lizzie.

Q—Did your mother ever show you any marks on her shoulders or arms?
A—Yes, sir.

Q—Were they discolored? A—Yes, sir. They were finger marks.

The witness told of the reception his father gave him on his return from Jackson, Mich. After upbraiding him for not writing to him, he said "Why didn't you stay in Jackson with your d— miserable b— of a grandmother?"

On this occasion, said the witness,
Mr. Currey tried to take the baby June from his mother's arms. The witness and Mrs. Currey, with the baby, ran into Dick's drug store to get away from Mr. Currey.

The Visit from the Police.

The witness then told of the occasion when the police visited the house. He spoke of opening the back door and saying to the crowd who were in the back yard, "For heaven's sake, come in and help mamma." One of the men said: "Has he any firearms?" Mr. Munde came in and the witness's father told Munde that he did not touch his wife. Mr.
Munde replied: "You did; I saw enough from the back yard."

On this occasion, the witness said, Mrs. Currey refused to give Mr. Currey in charge.

One time, at dinner, according to the witness, Mr. Currey called Mrs.
Currey, "a low dirty, degraded creature." Mrs. Currey said's "C'mren, I want you to remember this."

Mr. Teed—And you have remembered this?

A—Yes, sir.

The boy said that his father often referred to the visit of the police as "the rumpus the d— she devil of the d— kicked up."

Q—Do you remember if your father threatened to burn the Westfield house down?

A—Yes, sir. He did say he would.

Q—Did your father tell your mother to leave out?

A—Yes, sir. Often.

Cross-Examination.

Cross-examined by Mr. Skinner the witness said that ever since he remembered, there had been more or less quarrelling between his parents, but only of late years had the quarrels become serious.

Q—How old were you when the first quarrel took place?

A—Three or four years of age. Father was very nice before he had indignation. He would bring us home candy.

Q—Describe to me how he acted when he was well.

A—He would bring us home candy and would tell us stories.

Q—How long was he sick?

A—Sometimes a day, sometimes more.

Q—Were the spells quite frequent?

A—Yes, many of these spells would have in a year?

A—I never counted them.

Mr. Skinner—Give us an idea of the number.

Witness—I can't.

Mr. Skinner—Would he have eight?

A—Yes, nine.

Q—Ten?

A—Yes, eleven.

Q—Twelve?

A—Twelve.

posterior to conduct the case on such

Mr. Teed said that he had neglected to question his client as minutely as he desired, and obtained the sanction of the court to a re-examination, especially in regard to the financial state of Mr. Currey and herself.

The Bank Deposits.

To Mr. Teed, Mrs. Currey stated that sums of money which Mr. Currey said aggregated $1,000 had been deposited in a bank here jointly by husband and wife at the express request of her husband, although all he presented to her of that sum was $100.

He argued that in the event of the death of either husband or wife, it would be withdrawn from the bank by the surviving member of the union.

When she returned from her father's home in Jackson, Mich., she said, she asked him for the bank book and he said, "why, you've got no money in the bank." She visited the Savings Bank and ascertained that the deposit had been withdrawn in her absence from St. John.

Alluding to the consumption of liquor in the household, Mrs. Currey stated that a two-gallon jug of whisky was delivered on the house every two months and bottles were also brought to their homes in the city and Westfield and the contents were always consumed by Mr. Currey.

The favorite drink of the house before meals and at night. Prior to retelling he would empty a quart of whiskey either out of the bottle or from a decanter.

At the time of the organization of the Elaine S. S. Company, between $2, 000 and $3,000 which had accumulated during their early married life and which Mr. Currey had presented to her in case he died, was withdrawn, but she did not ask any questions.

Re-cross-examination was then entered into by Mr. Skinner, and in reply to a query involving the question of Mr. Currey's interest in the welfare of the children, Mrs. Currey observed, with a sigh, "Oh, if he only were a member of two clubs which convened weekly."

This finished the cross-examination of Mrs. Currey.

A Heated Argument.

William Child Currey, aged 13, son of the parties to the suit was called by Mr. Teed.

Before the boy was sworn Mr. Skinner objected on the ground that he had been in the company of his mother for over a year and away from his father for that period of time and consequently he was apt to be prejudiced.

Mr. Skinner accused Mr. Hanington of giving a statement to the press about an interview between Mr. Currey and his son Allen.

Mr. Hanington—That is not so.

A heated discussion then took place during which His Honor threatened to adjourn the court.

Mr. Hanington addressing Mr. Currey—Didn't your mother ask Mr. Skinner, your present counsel to sue you for cheating her out of her property at Gagetown? Yes, she did.

Mr. Currey (excitedly)—That's not true.

Mr. Hanington—Oh, yes it is. She came to him for that purpose at least twenty-five times.

Mr. Currey—You're scared to go on with the equity suit.

The Court—Stop it or I'll adjourn the court.

Peace Restored.

Peace was restored. After some discussion, His Honor allowed the witness to be sworn.

The Court asked Willie if he went to Sunday school.

A—Yes.

The Court—You believe in God?

A—I do.

The Court—What would occur if you told a lie?

A—I'd go to the bad place when I die.

Mr. Teed—You go to Trinity Sunday school?

A—I do.

Who helped you with your lessons?

A—My mother.

Q—Also with your day school lessons?

A—Lyes, sir.

Q—In your home were you taught to say your prayers?

A—Yes, sir.

Witness denied that his mother told him to tell lies no matter what occurred. She told the other children to tell the truth.

Witness said his mother always after the mending of their clothes.

How did your parents get along during the last three or four years?

Mr. Skinner—I object.
Over-ruled.

Frequent Quarrels.

A—There were difficulties. There were frequent quarrels, and towards the end they were quite violent.

The Court—What grade are you in?

A—Seventh, sir.

Mr. Teed—Was your father pleased or cross about the school?

A—Generally before he had an indignation spell he was quite nice and at other times he was quite cross and rarely spoke a kind word to mamma.

Witness told about an occasion when he spilled some porridge on the stove and his father hit him on the ear. His mother then hit his father on the ear.

Witness swore that he never heard his mother use swear words.

Q—Did your mother, in your presence, threaten to kill your father?

The Court adjourned at this point until the afternoon.

POLICE COURT.

In the Police Court yesterday, John O'Brien, charged with being a vagrant, and being an habitual frequenter of Alice O'Brien's house, on Sheffield street, pleaded not guilty.
He asked for counsel and was remanded.

John O'Leary and Peter Richards, reported for fighting on Britain street Saturday last. Both pleaded not guilty, and as each had a witness to call they were remanded.

Michael Morris, reported for allowing a French lap dog to go unmuzzled, in consequence of which a fox terrier owned by John Dixon was badly bitten, was represented by his father, who told the court that she, not her father, owned the dog. As she was unwilling to have the dog destroyed a fine of $20 was imposed.

Five teamsters, Fred Donovan, Jas.
Murray, John P. John Regan, Harry Harding, reported for driving teams they had driven across the sidewalk into a yard. The Magistrate allowed them to go on condition they would appear if needed.
