PARLIAMENT'S TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF SIR CHAS. TUPPER

Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier Eloquent-ly Voice Canada's Sense of Loss at Passing of Last of Fathers of Confederation — Fitting Resolution Passed by House.

Ottawa, Feb. 7.—Parliament today paid a tribute to the memory of the late Sir Charles Tupper, the last surviving father of Confederation. A resolution of condolence on his death was passed and eulogies of his career voiced. In moving the adoption of the resolution of condolence, Sir Robert Borden, at the opening of the House today, paid an eloquent tribute to the abilities of the deceased statesman. Some sixty years ago, Sir Charles, then Dr. Tupper, had entered public life in Nova Scotia. After being prominently connected with the question of free schools, railways and Maritime Province union, Dr. Tupper had become imbued with the idea of Canadian confederation, and had immediately become its most ardent supporter. Attending the Charlottetown conference in connection with Maritime Province union, at which delegates from the two Canadas were present, he had helped to mould the sentiment of his province in favor of the larger union which was consummated in 1867. For nearly twenty years after Confederation Sir Charles was a member of the House.

After entering parliament in 1896, said Sir Robert, he himself had served for four years under the leadership of the deceased statesman. During those years he had been impressed with an even greater admiration for his qualities than when he had first met Sir Charles, in 1896. Not only his political friends but his opponents were ready to pay tribute to his splendid courage, which never quailed before any odds, in his fine optimism, which found expression in his profound belief in the natural resources of Canada, and in his constructive statesmanship. Whatever difference of opinion might exist as to the wisdom of his policies, there could be no doubt as to the sincerity with which he professed, and the energy with which he executed them.

To Last a Firm Believer in Canada's Future.

He was a great protagonist, and had delivered hard blows, but those who knew him intimately agreed that behind the vigor of his attacks there could be found no trace of personal bitterness. Sir Robert stated that he had had a last interview with Sir Charles Tupper in August, in London. He had then been physically feeble but intellectually as vigorous as ever. He had displayed wonderful insight into Canadian conditions, while he had been animated with boundless optimism and courage in his intense interest in Canada's participation in the war. To the last, as from the first, he had been an abiding faith in the future of his country as one of the sister nations of a vast empire. Sir Robert trusted that in the not distant future a monument would arise to the memory of Canada's great statesman. But of him, as one of the great founders of Confederation, it might be justly said that "if you would seek his monument, look around, and he would all be wrought for Canada."

Sir Wilfrid's Tributes.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier referred to Sir Charles Tupper as the "last survivor of that galaxy of strong and able men who have been called the Fathers of Confederation."

Of those great men who had met at Quebec to bring about the union of the Canadian provinces, it might be said that Sir George Brown had initiated the movement in Upper Canada; Sir George Cartier had been the first to give shape to the idea; when he had brought to its support the one province whose support was necessary, if the plan was to be realized; Sir John A. Macdonald, after opposing the idea whose decision must be considered as final.

SHE RECOMMENDS

"FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Mrs. Corbett Read the Advertisement and Tried It.

Avon, Ont., May 14th, 1914.

"I have used 'Fruit-a-tives' for indigestion and constipation with most excellent results, and they continue to be my only medicine. I saw 'Fruit-a-tives' advertised with a letter in which some one recommended them very highly. I tried them. The results were more than satisfactory, and I have no hesitation in recommending 'Fruit-a-tives'."

ANNE A. CORBETT.

Time is proving that 'Fruit-a-tives' can always be depended upon to give prompt relief in all cases of Constipation and Stomach Trouble.

for years, when he had finally adopted it had become its captain and pilot, and his master hand had guided its course. What was to be said of Sir Charles Tupper's part?

Sir Charles, said the opposition leader, had forced his own province of Nova Scotia into Confederation by the doubtful authority of a dying legislature. In this, as in all that he did, his chief characteristic had been courage, which no opposition could daunt, and which remained unquarrelable in the face of defeat.

Sir Wilfrid traced the career of Sir Charles Tupper as the "last survivor of that galaxy of strong and able men who have been called the Fathers of Confederation."

Whether for weal or woe, the adoption of protection as a Canadian policy had been primarily due to Sir Charles, and so had the construction of Canada's first transcontinental road. It was Sir Charles who had organized the syndicate which built it. Even if extravagant terms had been given, said the opposition leader, it was due to the energy of Sir Charles Tupper that he had finally succeeded.

In death, concluded Sir Wilfrid, Sir Charles Tupper had closed his eyes on the fulfillment of his own prophesies, on a Canada whose populations had more than doubled, whose national revenues had more than quadrupled, and whose people were united even to the shedding of their blood in the defence of those principles of freedom and justice which Confederation had placed under the aegis of British institutions. It must never be forgotten that but for Sir Charles Tupper, Canada would not be what it is.

The following resolution was then passed unanimously:

"Resolved that the House desires to express its deep sense of the loss sustained by the Dominion and the Empire in the death of the late Right Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., G. C. M. G. C. B., for many years a commanding figure in the parliament and government of this Dominion, in the Confederation, expansion and development of which he played so great a part. Sir Charles Tupper's name and career will ever be held by Canadians in intimate association with the progress and upbuilding of our country. Full of honors, he has passed away, leaving behind him a long and impressive record of public service. The House avails itself of this opportunity to record its tribute of respect to the memory of one of its most distinguished members."

"TIZ" FOR SORE

Tired Feet, Ah!

"Tiz" is grand for aching, swollen, tender, calloused feet or corns.

Ah! what relief. No more tired feet; no more burning feet; no more swollen aching, tender, sweaty feet. No more soreness in corns, callouses, bunions.

No matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use "Tiz." "Tiz" is the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which put the feet. "Tiz" cures your foot trouble so you'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't seem tight and your feet will never, never hurt or get sore and swollen. Think of it, no more foot misery, no more agony from corns, callouses or bunions.

Get a 25-cent box at any drug store or department store and get instant relief. Wear smaller shoes. Just once try "Tiz." Get a whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents. Think of it.

ST. JOHN THEATRE-GOERS HAVE NOT FORGOTTEN THE SENSATIONAL ACTING OF EDWARD R. MASON OF THE VALENTINE STOCK COMPANY IN "A PARISIAN ROMANCE."

The Fox Company has set this celebrated play of Richard Mansfield's in a magnificent way. H. Cooper Cliffe played Baron Chevalier.

Edward R. Mason and Kate Meek can be seen on the screen today and tomorrow at the Gem Theatre.

Annette Kellermann is in Jannalature. Mr. Wilbur impersonates the part of Alan Dare, a gentleman detective, who resorts to all sorts of stratagems in order to bring to justice some of society's vultures. In this particular picture he unravels a mystery and keeps the audience in a high state of excitement during the unravelling. Some daring escapades are presented, notable among which is the fall of the auto bearing the local police over a steep cliff. The automobile race is also an outstanding feature as is also the kidnapping of Breen's daughter by Dare, the detective. The interest does not center around the mystery part of the play alone by any means, for there is a pretty love story woven throughout that enhances the value of the picture to a great extent. Lovers of Crane Wilbur, and they are many, have expressed great delight at seeing him as the dashing young detective of the series, which it is interesting to note, has been written by himself. He is supported by a capable cast and every attention has been paid to detail in filming the story which consists of three acts and sixty scenes. Among the notable features in the Mutual Weekly is the taking of a German wireless station and the Ford peace party at Norway. Tomorrow and Thursday the second chapter of "The Diamond from the Sky" will be the principal feature on the program.

working on William Fox pictures. There are fifteen hundred people busy on these scenes.

By the way, the palace scenes in the "Daughter of Neptune" were taken in the grounds of the Hamilton Hotel, Bermuda, where many St. John people have stayed.

News comes from Paris of the wonderful performance of "Alsace" with Madam Rejane playing the principal part. This world renowned actress appeared before the curtain and spoke of her joy that that Thann was now French again. The film was most enthusiastically received.

Max Linder, whom we used to see in Pathe films, was one of the well-known players who sold programmes for a "Benefit Day" given by all the cinemas for the soldiers of France.

It seems as if people must have a relief for their minds in the days of horrors of war. Rome demands films and the industry has taken a great step forward in the last few months. One film has just released "La Dame aux Camellias" with the great Bertini playing the leading part.

Another, "A Soul's Crucible," in which Cleo Madison of Trey of Hearts fame, is starring.

Grace George is now in New York in Major Barbara by George Bernard Shaw. It is a satire on military preparedness and must be particularly appropriate just now.

A coat of arms has been suggested for Grace Omard. It is a shield with a broken cross or beneath (I don't know the heraldic terms) an opening box marked "Thrills." Motto: "Nothing pays like sensations."

Another "Soul," "The Soul Cycle" has Margaret Gibson for its heroine. It is rather a unique picture, treating of the transmigration of souls, and a lion plays a prominent part. It is a David Horsley film.

Gaby Deslys is in New York at the Globe, playing "Stop, Look, Listen." People obey this command.

A large audience greeted the Young Adams Company in the presentation of "Such a Little Queen." This is the play in which Elsie Ferguson was so well-known. It is a story of the exiled Queen of Rotorovania. She with her Prince Consort, Baron Cassa, came to New York and lived in a flat. The King of Bosnia, also exiled, to whom Anna is betrothed follows her. They have lost all their possessions and are her hand at cooking and peels away almost all the potatoes. With the aid of an American who is in love with the Queen, they find work, and the King proves himself also a man. The kingdom is restored and a happy future also hinted at for the young American.

Miss Adams as the Queen was most queenly and also most womanly. Her cooking dress, really her coronation robe, a really beautiful dress, was most becoming. Mr. Young, as King Stephen, was dignified and true to life. The part of Trainer, played by Mr. Frank Dufrene, was very well done. The rest of the parts were filled most acceptably. It is a good play with a vein of comedy introduced.

The specialties were unusually good. Mr. Ralph Hellston, the dark-faced comedian, sang, danced and told some good stories. Mr. Lionel Heverley did some clever card tricks. This play will be repeated today and Wednesday.

CRANE WILBUR AS AUTHOR AND STAR IN "THE MYSTERY OF CARTER BREENE" AT THE UNIQUE.

Mr. Crane Wilbur, who is conceded to be one of the handsomest leading men in flimdom at the present time, has proved his ability as an author as well as an actor in an uncertain degree, principally through the medium of the series of strong detective plays being produced by the Centaur Company, the first of which was shown at the Unique yesterday. Entitled "The Mystery of Carter Breene," the story is of a strongly mystifying nature.

Annette Kellermann is in Jannalature. Mr. Wilbur impersonates the

In The St. John Houses

The Paramount South American tour has reached Obili. An interesting scene here was the band of Chilean soldiers playing their national anthem. The army was trained by German officers and the influence extended to the spiked helmets. Pathe Weekly, also at the Imperial, had a good hockey picture, a shipment of 23,000 live geese, Honk, Honk, a mummery's parade in Philadelphia showing some extraordinary costumes and a fashion review showing some very pretty costumes.

It is a bit, hang with the Swiss sharpshooters at the Imperial this week. A very realistic stage setting shows a Swiss chalet with (naturally) mountains in the background. The two Viranos are equally prodigious with the rifle and can shoot lying down or standing up or sitting or backwards with equal ease. A good stunt is the ten candles in the chalet window, nine lit and the tenth lit by a bullet from the lady's rifle. A song to the accompaniment of bells shot by the Swiss is clever.

The Lyric is showing a picture, His Brother's Wife, being a dramatization of Charlotte M. Braeme's novel, "My Poor Wife." It is set in beautiful scenery of seashore and stately homes. Geraldine O'Brien gives a splendid representation of the wife. She is an emotional actress and is well suited for this part. The plot is of the village maiden, married to the rich man, the husband, played by H. E. Herbert, is deeply in love with his wife but she misunderstands his efforts to protect the woman whom his brother has secretly married. The wife leaves home via a spectacular fall down a cliff. She goes into a convent but accident brings to to her old home before her last vows are taken. She finds her husband and they are united in a love scene with an unusual setting for a finale.

Arding and Arding at the Lyric, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, musical comedy of much ability chiefly of the surprise order. The lady sings and they both talk and it is well worth listening to. The musical tea party is very funny and the picture has unexpected musical capabilities.

Crane Wilbur has written a good scenario, for I saw his picture at the Unique yesterday afternoon. The Mystery of Carter Breene, it is called. Crane Wilbur plays the detective. The story is the unravelling of a murder mystery. There is a great auto smash when a seven-passenger car goes over a cliff, much swift driving of autos; an escape on a motor cycle and the picture does not end with a kiss. It is a splendid film and I'm glad it is only the first of a series.

The Empress Theatre has another episode of The Girl in the Taxi. Each one is complete in itself and all interesting. There is also today a western film, a story of a janitor's daughter and a good comedy with Fay Tincher starring.

The Mutual Weekly at the Unique showed the taking of a German wireless station and many other interesting incidents.

Thomas Melghan, whom you will see today at the Imperial in "Out of the Darkness," had a very good stage career, playing with Henrietta Crossman, Grace George, Elsie de Wolfe, Willie Collier and with David Warfield in The Returns of Peter Grimm. In pictures he plays Lasky leads and was seen here in "Kindling."

Crane Wilbur, the well-known star of "The Perils of Pauline," and now starring on the Mutual programme, was one of the judges at a beauty contest held recently at Los Angeles. Miss Thelma Frances won the prize. She is a California girl and will start in picture work immediately.

Mr. Wilbur has taken to writing his own scenario, each founded on some well-known principle. Some writers have found they could not act but write since the moving pictures began.

"When she got two hundred a week and now in the movies she gets five hundred. Well it's worth three hundred a week to keep any woman from talking."—Life.

GERALDINE O'BRIEN THE STAR IN

A FILM VERSION OF CHARLOTTE M. BRAEME'S "MY POOR WIFE."

AT THE LYRIC-ARDING AND ARDING, NOVEL MUSICAL ACT.

Supported by a strong cast selected from the Thanhouser Company, Miss Geraldine O'Brien, the favorite Broadway actress, is appearing at the Lyric Theatre in a vital, humorous drama dramatized from Charlotte M. Braeme's well known novel "My Poor Wife."

The story is too well known by lovers of modern popular priced fiction to need any comment here, other than to highly commend the producers for the manner in which they shaped the story to suit their purpose. They have rechristened it "His Wife" and in the production have brought out all the fine points of the theme and made the characters of Braeme's mind outstanding figures in a film play of decided merit. The name part is of course played by Miss O'Brien whose ability as a dramatic star has been instrumental in placing her name outlined in electric on the more prominent theatres of New York. Both as the timid little village girl and afterwards as the jealous wife, Miss O'Brien reaches the highest pinnacle of her art. Excellent support is given by H. E. Herbert as the husband, Miss Lorraine Hull and Miss Linda Palmer. Five acts are given over to the exploiting of the feature and each one is characterized by detailed settings and good acting.

Arding and Arding, a duo of musical comedy artists afford a pleasing relief from the strong dramatic picture and in the fifteen minutes given over to their efforts, they present a starling singing, talking and musical creation somewhat different from the usual and very pleasing. The latter part of the week Billy and Ad, a dancing team, will be the feature attraction.
