BERLIN ANNOUNCES THAT THE ARMY OF GEN. VON BOEHM HAS CROSSED THE RIVER MARNE

German War Office States That Teutons Have Captured Total of Thirteen Thousand Prisoners in Their Gigantic Thrust—Enter Allied Positions East of Rheims—Infantry Stormed Steep Slopes of Marne, Where Violent Counter Attacks Met—Italian Statement.

Berlin, via London, July 16—The Germans claim the capture of 13,000 prisoners, in the official communication from headquarters issued today. The army of General Von Boehm, it is added, crossed the Marne between Jaulgonne and east of Dormans.

The statement says:

"In some sectors fighting activity has revived. East of the Ayette an enemy night advance was repulsed, as was also a strong enemy attack east of Hebuterne. Between the Aisne and the Marne and east of Chateau Thierry there were lively artillery duels.

"In minor enterprises and during an advance across the Marne to the southwest of Jaulgonne we broke into the enemy's lines and brought back some prisoners.

Crosses River.

"Yesterday to the southwest and east of Rheims we penetrated into part of the French positions.

"By their devastating effect, the artillery mine throwers and gas throwers, together with our tanks and infantry flame throwers, opened the way into the enemy's positions. The army of General Von Boehm has crossed the Marne between Jaulgonne and east of Dormans.

"At daybreak pioneers transported storming troops across the river and thereby created the foundation for the success of the day. The infantry stormed the steep slopes on the southern bank of the Marne and under their cover the construction of bridges was carried out.

"On the Marne front the enemy has delivered violent counter attacks," says the German official communication issued this evening.

"There were some local successes to the southwest of Rheims.

"To the east of Rheims the situation is unchanged."

Italian Statement.

Rome, July 16—There was lively fighting activity yesterday in the northern region of the Grappa, says today's Italian war office statement. Italian detachments gained ground and captured ninety-four Austro-Hungarians and took seven machine guns.

Astride the Brenta Valley two Austro-Hungarian posts were driven back and a few prisoners were taken.

Aerial activity was continuous throughout the day and night. Twelve hostile machines were brought down.

Swordfishing is Exciting Work

Anywhere along the Atlantic seaboard from Cape Sable to the harbors of Cape Breton the swordfish besports himself. It was not always thus. The swordfish is a late comer. A few years ago the Americans showed a taste for this fish and the carry Nova Scotia fishermen proceeded to satisfy it. The swordfish belongs to semi-tropical waters, but he comes on our coast in the summer months and his presence is always hailed with rejoicing by the fishermen who are now prepared to give him that reception which his market value and the sport he brings merits.

The swordfish comes in assorted sizes. You may get one weighing one hundred and fifty pounds; you may get one which pulls down scales at five hundred and fifty; you may get one or you may get a dozen.

When the swordfish appears there is something doing among the fishermen. The boats are overhauled. These are the ordinary fishing boats, mostly power boats. On the bow is erected what the fishermen call the "pulpit." It usually consists of a plank running out over the bow of the boat and an iron rail protects the fisherman, who stands there with harpoon in hand, from falling into the sea. The boats cruise off the land generally about three miles, and the fish seem to run in schools. They are especially observed from the large fish on their back protruding out of the water. The boat is maneuvered so as to allow the man in the pulpit an opportunity to strike with his harpoon. This harpoon is made fast to a line which is again made fast to a small barrel. Immediately the harpoon is driven home the barrel is thrown overboard. This barrel again is made fast to the boat by means of a line so that the swordfish cannot get away. There is considerable sport in getting up alongside the fish. It requires skill and judgment to successfully harpoon the monster. Now, if you want a genuine thrill, you should be in the boat when the fish receives the dart. He does not show fight, but he makes you hold your breath and wonder what will happen next. For he has attempted to go to the bottom and there wriggle the harpoon out of his side. But the fisherman knows the depth of water and has arranged the line which fastened the harpoon to the barrel so that it will not allow the fish to go to the bottom.

Finding himself foiled, the fish turns his sword surfaceward and comes up straight as a die. Nothing is going to stop him. If the boat is in the way, then he runs his sword through the bottom of the boat. This is no unusual occurrence. I have known him to do this several times in one day. The fisherman would rather chase swordfish than go to a dance, and that is saying something.

The Canadian Government Railways publication, "The Best of Our Lakes," has further details in connection with swordfishing as a sport.

GERMANS CONTROL MARNE 12 MILES

Enemy Takes Positions on Southern Bank of Stream Between Gland and Mareuil Le Port At Terrible Cost.

On the French Front in France, July 16—(By the Associated Press) (Liverpool)—The Germans have crossed the Marne at various places, giving them control over twelve miles of the southern bank of the stream between Gland and Mareuil-Le-Port.

This operation cost them dearly, five bridges being destroyed as the troops were passing over, while hundreds of their men are believed to have met death from the machine guns and bombs of aviators.

The town of Gland lies about two and a half miles east of Chateau Thierry, and Mareuil-Le-Port about nine and a half miles northwest of Epernay.

A BAD COLLISION.
 Last night an automobile that was being driven along the Loch Lomond road at a furious rate ran into a team of horses and broke one of the horses' legs. The car was not damaged and as soon as it got clear was headed away, while the driver of the team was hurrying for his injured horse.
