A PARTY WITHOUT A PLATFORM.
Tuesday night's convention of the party "in the government" in provincial politics resulted according to The Telegraph's prediction. No platform was adopted and no ground specified upon which the people can be persuaded to vote against the present administration.

A CLOUD IN THE FAR EAST.
The Telegraph some time ago referred to the patient and diplomatic method in which British interests had obtained such a hold upon the Indian and Siam, having a hold upon the Indian and Siam, having a hold upon the Indian and Siam.

THE GLAMOUR OF CANDIDACY.
Just about this stage of the inception of a political campaign it is interesting to view the self-satisfaction of the candidates first in the field, especially when they are "in the government" and believe that they have been made the targets for the approving smiles and compliments of the constituency at large.

WHY BOYS READ BAD BOOKS.
In view of the present interest in St. John in the reformation of boys, it is pertinent to note the point made by a writer in Harper's Weekly. He remarks: "There is, indeed, more than a suspicion that a boy fifteen years old—in the hands of the Life and Adventures of Jesse James as superior to the righteousness of Mr. Sherlock Holmes. Probably the boy who buys second-hand books is not so much a case of his purchase as it is a gratification at procuring a bargain."

NOTE AND COMMENT.
Minneapolis has a city engineer with the name of Sublette—rather suggestive of contracting jobs.

WOMEN PROHIBITIONISTS IN THE UNITED STATES HAVE A NEW WAR SONG BEGINNING. "The axe that once was Carrie's is in energetic hands." This does not necessarily imply, however, that it will be wielded by a Nation.

MR. McINERNEY AND THE LUMBERMEN.
In his speech at the York Theatre on Tuesday evening, in accepting the Tory nomination, Mr. McInerney is represented by the Sun as using the following language:—

LET HIM EXPLORE UNPAID THE EVIDENCES OF advanced civilization which are said to obtain there.

the morning, coincident only in what they have been told about the righteousness and brilliancy of "their cause" and the certain triumph which awaits them when the ballots are counted.

How different the awakening when, in such a case as that of the present candidates, they have no platform upon which to appeal to the people, no grievance to readjust, no "cause" for which to fairly ask the suffrage of a single elector, no laudable ambition to gratify save their own personal glorification! How aggravating must they find it when, as the campaign progresses, these facts are grandly and inevitably impressed upon them, when they are left at public meetings unable to substantiate any of their fancied reasons as to why they should be elected to supplant a government which has worthily and efficiently demonstrated its statesmanlike and patriotic care of the people's interests, and when they are held up to public scorn and ridicule as the ill-advised and indiscriminating tools of a small section of unscrupulous and selfish political agitators! How humiliating must it be when, as the returns from the polls come in, their names are sunk into insignificance beneath an avalanche of ballots in favor of their tried and justified opponents and when, as they take off their coats and hats, they are met by the too long-departed officers, their smiles are of a ghastly type and they see that no more political decisions will be suffered to dominate their brains or interfere with the honest purposes of earning a living by the sweat of their brows and earning it possible again the respect of their neighbors by an everlastingly course of sensible and upright conduct. At least let us hope that such will be the view of the just-constituted opposition candidates in this constituency when they find themselves, as inevitably they must, in the position of ignominious defeat. It would be too bad if they should take defect so much to heart that they should cease to be capable of reformation into worthy work-a-day citizens.
