CANADIAN NURSES SNAPPED AT TREPORT

This is a group of Canadian nurses taken at Treport, France, just as they were about to go on night duty at the No. 2 Canadian General Hospital, one of the hospitals of which the premier, Sir Robert Borden, spoke so highly in his speech at St. John on Tuesday.

Miss Mills, who sends the photograph, says that one of the soldiers under her care told her that he was one of ten brothers, all of whom had gone to the war with the father also, leaving an only sister and the mother at home in England.

Woodstock, N. B., Oct. 22—The jury in the case of Charles Smith and Stephen Derrah, charged with the murder of Fred Green, at Florenceville, May 7, returned today from a session of seven days, where it is alleged the crime was committed, and resumed their places in the court house, when Judge Landry addressed them.

The loss is estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000, with $7,000 insurance on the building, $8,000 on loss of talling stock, $2,500 on D. P. Nolan's goods' furnishings, and $500 on another small shop.

An incident of more interest than the fire itself was the very remarkable rescue of Chemical Operator Elvey by Fireman Dan McDonald. Elvey had entered the building to locate the fire.

The jury returned for deliberation at 2 o'clock and returned to the court-room at 4 with a verdict of "Not guilty," and the two young men were immediately discharged by the judge.

Province to Pay A Railway Claims Despite Judgment

The decision of the court of appeal in the case of the Hibbard Construction Company, Ltd., vs. the St. John and Quebec Railway Company Friday, will prove of considerable interest to a large number of people in this province, due either at the passing of the act or accruing due thereafter, where such indebtedness is either to sub-contractors or others employed in the actual work of constructing said railway, or is for materials, wages and supplies that have gone into such construction, or is for rights of way heretofore acquired or taken.

In the course of his judgment the chief justice says: "I think quite clear also that the money which this first part of the section requires to be retained by or deposited with the provincial secretary treasurer are 'to cover and provide payment for all outstanding indebtedness of the company' due either at the passing of the act or accruing due thereafter, where such indebtedness is either to sub-contractors or others employed in the actual work of constructing said railway, or is for materials, wages and supplies that have gone into such construction, or is for rights of way heretofore acquired or taken."

In other words it is only in respect of indebtedness by the plaintiff company itself and not to cover indebtedness of sub-contractors or others for which the plaintiff company is not liable, that the money is to be retained by the government.

Question 1, which we are called upon to answer, is as follows: "Is the railway company liable to pay or satisfy any, and if so, what claims now or hereafter to be filed by sub-contractors or others with the provincial secretary-treasurer under Chap. 10, 4 Geo. V.?"

The provision for filing claims under said act is contained in said section 18, and reads as follows: "Provided also that a claim for the same so agreed upon or established shall be filed with the provincial secretary-treasurer within sixty days of the passing of this act or of the same time when said indebtedness shall become due. It is quite evident that the claims which may thus be filed are those against the plaintiff company in respect of its own indebtedness, and not claims against sub-contractors."

The answer to this question is, therefore, No. Question 2 reads: "Should there be retained by or deposited with the provincial secretary-treasurer any amount being the proceeds of the said bonds sufficient to cover and provide payment of the above claims or some and what thereof?"

The answer to this question is, No. Question 3 is: "If the railway company is liable to pay said claims or any thereof, or there should be retained or deposited with the provincial secretary-treasurer any such amount to cover and provide payment of the said claims or any thereof are paid out of the sums so deposited, is the railway company entitled to be reconsumed or repaid by the Hibbard Company Limited?"

The answer given to questions one and two under any answer to this question unnecessary.

The judgment given yesterday by Chief Justice McLeod, in which Justices White and Grimmer agreed, sets forth the circumstances surrounding it. The case was argued on May 5, and on the same day legislation was passed repealing the previous legislation, the interpretation of which was the object of the suit.

In view of this it had appeared to the court that no practical end would be served by delivering judgment in the case submitted, and the attorney-general occurred in this. Recently, however, the premier has asked that judgment be given in the matter, and this had been done with the explanation that it deals only with the facts set forth in the stated case and with the law as it stood at the time.

The answer to this question is, therefore, No. Question 2 reads: "Should there be retained by or deposited with the provincial secretary-treasurer any amount being the proceeds of the said bonds sufficient to cover and provide payment of the above claims or some and what thereof?"
