If our conceptions of freedom are -- in the long run -- to prevail -- the minimal bill of rights -- which is likely to emerge from the United Nations Assembly -- will require many amendments -- and augmentations -- in the years to come.

For that process of spreading the spirit and the substance of freedom among other peoples -- we must prepare ourselves --

- (a) by proving by experience and example -- that our conception of freedom is the highest and best; and
- (b) by the process of education.
