

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH EXTENSION SOCIETY OF CANADA

REJOICE IN PROGRESS

The progress of the Church is dear to our Catholic people. They rejoice to see her make her way amid the multitude of enemies which surround her on all sides.

THE VALUE OF THE CHURCH

The Catholic Church alone unwavering and undismayed with the manifold questions of the hour proclaims that these principles are fixed, that they are taught by her clearly and in the same sense as they were announced by Our Divine Saviour and the Prophets whom God sent to the world from the very beginning of man's history.

It is this very spirit which carries on the great work of God in the world. It is wholly impossible to defeat the purposes of a Church having such faith, such divine guidance and such help to carry on her work.

OUR ZEAL CONQUERS ALL

It is this very spirit which carries on the great work of God in the world. It is wholly impossible to defeat the purposes of a Church having such faith, such divine guidance and such help to carry on her work.

WEEKLY CALENDAR

Sunday, Nov. 6.—St. Leonard, who held a place of distinction in the court of Clovis, but gave up his place to lead a more perfect life. He became the apostle of such Franks as still remained pagans and later withdrew secretly to the monastery of Mié, lest his reputation for sanctity attract attention.

UNITY OF EFFORT NECESSARY

Catholics elsewhere are interested in what is being done for their faith. They cannot remain indifferent to the conditions that affect whole provinces. The unity of Canada, the position of the Church in all affairs that concern the welfare of the Catholic people make it essential that everywhere a practical interest be taken in the questions of grave importance.

Holy See have been threatened because of lack of means to properly organize and solve the very serious difficulties of their position in Canada. In the other pioneer fields the question of supplying missionaries is very serious and one which constantly worries those who are trying to serve the people allotted to their care.

RESULTS ENCOURAGE US

Catholics are doubtless rejoicing that there has been a splendid awakening to the call of faith which has been sent out for the missions and that they are not spending their energies in vain.

WEEKLY CALENDAR

Sunday, Nov. 6.—St. Leonard, who held a place of distinction in the court of Clovis, but gave up his place to lead a more perfect life.

Monday, Nov. 7.—St. Willibrord, bishop, was born in Northumberland in 657 and studied in Ireland under St. Egbert. He labored earnestly for the conversion of the pagan tribes in the north of Europe and brought multitudes to the faith.

Tuesday, Nov. 8.—Feast of the Holy Relics, celebrated to emphasize the teaching of the church that the bodies of martyrs and other saints who were living members of Jesus Christ and temples of the Holy Ghost are to be honored by the faithful.

Wednesday, Nov. 9.—St. Theodore, Tyro, martyr, was a noble Roman youth and member of the Legion, who in 306 refused to obey the edict requiring all Christians to sacrifice. He set fire to the great temple of Isis, and still refusing to renounce the faith, was burned to death.

Thursday, Nov. 10.—St. Andrew Avellino, the special patron against sudden death, was ordained in Naples. His death in 1682 was attended by special manifestations. The voice of the Blessed Virgin was heard commanding his guardian angel to send the demon spirits, who were tempting him, back to hell, and he expired in great happiness.

Friday, Nov. 11.—St. Martin of Tours, whose charity in dividing his cloak with a beggar, was rewarded by many graces. He became Bishop of Tours in 672, after having founded, near Poitiers, the first monastery in France.

Saturday, Nov. 12.—St. Martin, the seventy-sixth Pope, waged vigorous war against the Monothelites during his pontificate of eleven years, ending in 653. One who attempted to assassinate him was struck blind. He was later banished to the ancient Tauric Chersonese, now Crimea, where he died.

40,000 PICTURES TAKEN IN REVISION OF VULGATE

Forty thousand photographs of entire Bibles have been made by the Benedictine priests working under the direction of Cardinal Gasquet for the purpose of comparing the variant readings of the text, according to a statement made by His Eminence at the Cambridge Bible Congress, where he discussed the work of the Papal Commission for the Revision of the Vulgate.

Among the most interesting illustrations of stereoscopic pictures were those of historic manuscript Bibles, which Cardinal Gasquet said were written in northern Italy, but were undoubtedly Irish in origin. As proof of this, His Eminence showed illustrations of Irish manuscripts, written in Ireland; and also Italian manuscripts, making clear the identity of workmanship. The marginal designs proved exceptionally beautiful, showing the richest work of the Irish illuminators of the best period of the art. Cardinal Gasquet advanced at the congress his theory that Irish art, as shown in these manuscripts, derived its origin from the East.—The Missionary.
