

Resolved.—That the duty entrusted with this house which is imposed on the members of this house by long established usage, and for the exercise of which the members from the County of Annapolis are constitutionally responsible to the consistency of that County, and it is one which the executive Government are incapable of performing except through the advice and agency of persons in the County, probably, secret and irresponsible to the people.

And Resolved.—That by the course pursued in this instance, the Provincial Government have taken occasion from the possession of the executive power, which they happen to be clothed, to offer an invidious insult to the members for the County of Annapolis, and thro' them to the County they represented; and have treated with unmerited disrespect, the individuals who after having received the accustomed recommendation were displaced.

That if this precedent shall be adopted, the members for other Counties, besides those now selected, may in their turn suffer under like affronts, and be placed in a situation requiring them to choose between the alternative of declining to perform a necessary duty of their office, or incurring in its performance, the risk of treatment as inconsistent with the independence of their official position, as revolting to their standing as gentlemen.

And Resolved.—That the system of road appropriations by members in this House, is so connected with their recommendation of the Commissioners, that the policy adopted by the Government cannot be long maintained without impairing the efficiency of the system, unduly which the road service is conducted, and endangering the improvement of the Country, in an essential element of its prosperity and progress.

After some explanations from the hon. Provincial Secretary and hon. Mr. Johnston, the hon. Atty. General addressed the house in reply to Mr. Johnston. He complained of the sudden manner in which the subject had been introduced. The Government were waiting for returns from the County of Annapolis, which might place the matter in a different light from that which might now be upon you. The appointment of the Commissioners, as of all other Government officers, belonged of right to the Government. The road money for the County of Annapolis amounted to £2036. For the expenditure of this there were 148 Road Commissioners. We have taken the liberty of appointing 15 out of the 148—that is, we have, in accordance with our own right, appointed one-tenth of the Commissioners, and given them the expenditure of £302, which is about one-seventh of the whole expenditure for the County.

Mr. Thorne replied as regards the township of Granville, that out of 31 Commissioners recommended, of whom 4 were Liberals, the Government had superseded 12, which gave the Liberals 16 out of the 34—notwithstanding the fact that three-fourths of the township had voted for him at the last election.

Hon. J. W. Johnston again addressed the house. He maintained that no Government had the power to supersede a Commissioner recommended by the members, who were held to be responsible by the people.

Mr. Annand argued that if the principle enunciated by the hon. member from Annapolis were true, the power of the prerogative would be a nullity. He said it was notorious that at the time Mr. Andrew Leitch represented the township of Halifax, the names of Commissioners were changed at the instance of that gentleman, contrary to the wishes of his colleague for the town and the county members, and that the hon. member for Annapolis himself superseded Road Commissioners at the instance of one gentleman in opposition to the recommendations of three members, who equally with himself were all responsible for the appointments.

Mr. Holmes rose to controvert a statement made by the hon. and learned Atty. General, with reference to his brother, the late Gen. G. H. Young, and referred to the records of the township of Halifax, the names of Commissioners were changed at the instance of that gentleman, contrary to the wishes of his colleague for the town and the county members, and that the hon. member for Annapolis himself superseded Road Commissioners at the instance of one gentleman in opposition to the recommendations of three members, who equally with himself were all responsible for the appointments.

Mr. Holmes rose to controvert a statement made by the hon. and learned Atty. General, with reference to his brother, the late Gen. G. H. Young, and referred to the records of the township of Halifax, the names of Commissioners were changed at the instance of that gentleman, contrary to the wishes of his colleague for the town and the county members, and that the hon. member for Annapolis himself superseded Road Commissioners at the instance of one gentleman in opposition to the recommendations of three members, who equally with himself were all responsible for the appointments.

Mr. Martin I. Wilkins commended the course pursued by the Government, they should have submitted the information on which the Government acted to the members in the first instance—asked of them an explanation, and acted only after full investigation.

Mr. B. Smith argued in favour of the views expressed by the hon. and learned gentleman from Annapolis.

After some conversation the question on Mr. Johnston's resolutions was put and lost by 23 voting in favor of it, and 28 against.

THURSDAY, Feb. 15. Hon. Mr. Johnston presented a petition from inhabitants of Clements against the Municipal Incorporation Bill, also 19 or 20 petitions in his favor.

Hon. J. W. Johnston asked for the second reading of the Municipal Incorporation Bill; and proceeded to explain the difference between this Bill and that of last year. The Bill introduced last year made it obligatory on the Counties to become incorporated; but was amended so as to apply to Annapolis, and any other County which might choose to adopt it.

The Bill was read a second time. Hon. Attorney General introduced a Bill to provide for Railway damages.

Mr. Wade introduced a Bill to amend Chapter 121 of the Revised Statutes, of the jurisdiction of Magistrates in civil cases.

He also reported several Bills from the Committee on private Bills without amendment.

Hon. Mr. Johnston presented several petitions in favor of the Prohibitory Liquor Law, and moved the second reading of the Bill on that subject.

Mr. Marshall—Have we not just passed a Bill to amend the License Law? That Bill is now before the Council; and are we now going to pass Maine Liquor Law? This is curious Legislation.

Mr. Beckwith—Not curious Legislation at all; for if the Prohibitory Liquor Law should pass, it will be some time before it comes into operation. The House went into Committee on Bills. The Militia Law was taken up.

Hon. Joseph Howe advocated the importation of a quantity of Minie Rifles; we might suppose that our situation in the present state of war would shield us from attack; it was however, by no means improbable that we might be attacked, —weans was all powerful and the Emperor of Russia could purchase the fleet of the United States—bombard our seaport towns and perhaps overrun the Country. In view of such an emergency he hoped the House would take precautionary measures to secure our people and property from outrage and injury.

Mr. McEllan, did not think the house would be justified in the present state of affairs, in burdening the country with the unnecessary expense incurred in calling out the Militia.

And Resolved.—That the duty entrusted with this house which is imposed on the members of this house by long established usage, and for the exercise of which the members from the County of Annapolis are constitutionally responsible to the consistency of that County, and it is one which the executive Government are incapable of performing except through the advice and agency of persons in the County, probably, secret and irresponsible to the people.

And Resolved.—That by the course pursued in this instance, the Provincial Government have taken occasion from the possession of the executive power, which they happen to be clothed, to offer an invidious insult to the members for the County of Annapolis, and thro' them to the County they represented; and have treated with unmerited disrespect, the individuals who after having received the accustomed recommendation were displaced.

That if this precedent shall be adopted, the members for other Counties, besides those now selected, may in their turn suffer under like affronts, and be placed in a situation requiring them to choose between the alternative of declining to perform a necessary duty of their office, or incurring in its performance, the risk of treatment as inconsistent with the independence of their official position, as revolting to their standing as gentlemen.

And Resolved.—That the system of road appropriations by members in this House, is so connected with their recommendation of the Commissioners, that the policy adopted by the Government cannot be long maintained without impairing the efficiency of the system, unduly which the road service is conducted, and endangering the improvement of the Country, in an essential element of its prosperity and progress.

After some explanations from the hon. Provincial Secretary and hon. Mr. Johnston, the hon. Atty. General addressed the house in reply to Mr. Johnston. He complained of the sudden manner in which the subject had been introduced. The Government were waiting for returns from the County of Annapolis, which might place the matter in a different light from that which might now be upon you. The appointment of the Commissioners, as of all other Government officers, belonged of right to the Government. The road money for the County of Annapolis amounted to £2036. For the expenditure of this there were 148 Road Commissioners. We have taken the liberty of appointing 15 out of the 148—that is, we have, in accordance with our own right, appointed one-tenth of the Commissioners, and given them the expenditure of £302, which is about one-seventh of the whole expenditure for the County.

Mr. Thorne replied as regards the township of Granville, that out of 31 Commissioners recommended, of whom 4 were Liberals, the Government had superseded 12, which gave the Liberals 16 out of the 34—notwithstanding the fact that three-fourths of the township had voted for him at the last election.

Hon. J. W. Johnston again addressed the house. He maintained that no Government had the power to supersede a Commissioner recommended by the members, who were held to be responsible by the people.

Mr. Annand argued that if the principle enunciated by the hon. member from Annapolis were true, the power of the prerogative would be a nullity. He said it was notorious that at the time Mr. Andrew Leitch represented the township of Halifax, the names of Commissioners were changed at the instance of that gentleman, contrary to the wishes of his colleague for the town and the county members, and that the hon. member for Annapolis himself superseded Road Commissioners at the instance of one gentleman in opposition to the recommendations of three members, who equally with himself were all responsible for the appointments.

Mr. Holmes rose to controvert a statement made by the hon. and learned Atty. General, with reference to his brother, the late Gen. G. H. Young, and referred to the records of the township of Halifax, the names of Commissioners were changed at the instance of that gentleman, contrary to the wishes of his colleague for the town and the county members, and that the hon. member for Annapolis himself superseded Road Commissioners at the instance of one gentleman in opposition to the recommendations of three members, who equally with himself were all responsible for the appointments.

Mr. Holmes rose to controvert a statement made by the hon. and learned Atty. General, with reference to his brother, the late Gen. G. H. Young, and referred to the records of the township of Halifax, the names of Commissioners were changed at the instance of that gentleman, contrary to the wishes of his colleague for the town and the county members, and that the hon. member for Annapolis himself superseded Road Commissioners at the instance of one gentleman in opposition to the recommendations of three members, who equally with himself were all responsible for the appointments.

Mr. Martin I. Wilkins commended the course pursued by the Government, they should have submitted the information on which the Government acted to the members in the first instance—asked of them an explanation, and acted only after full investigation.

Mr. B. Smith argued in favour of the views expressed by the hon. and learned gentleman from Annapolis.

After some conversation the question on Mr. Johnston's resolutions was put and lost by 23 voting in favor of it, and 28 against.

THURSDAY, Feb. 15. Hon. Mr. Johnston presented a petition from inhabitants of Clements against the Municipal Incorporation Bill, also 19 or 20 petitions in his favor.

Hon. J. W. Johnston asked for the second reading of the Municipal Incorporation Bill; and proceeded to explain the difference between this Bill and that of last year. The Bill introduced last year made it obligatory on the Counties to become incorporated; but was amended so as to apply to Annapolis, and any other County which might choose to adopt it.

The Bill was read a second time. Hon. Attorney General introduced a Bill to provide for Railway damages.

Mr. Wade introduced a Bill to amend Chapter 121 of the Revised Statutes, of the jurisdiction of Magistrates in civil cases.

He also reported several Bills from the Committee on private Bills without amendment.

Hon. Mr. Johnston presented several petitions in favor of the Prohibitory Liquor Law, and moved the second reading of the Bill on that subject.

Mr. Marshall—Have we not just passed a Bill to amend the License Law? That Bill is now before the Council; and are we now going to pass Maine Liquor Law? This is curious Legislation.

Mr. Beckwith—Not curious Legislation at all; for if the Prohibitory Liquor Law should pass, it will be some time before it comes into operation. The House went into Committee on Bills. The Militia Law was taken up.

Hon. Joseph Howe advocated the importation of a quantity of Minie Rifles; we might suppose that our situation in the present state of war would shield us from attack; it was however, by no means improbable that we might be attacked, —weans was all powerful and the Emperor of Russia could purchase the fleet of the United States—bombard our seaport towns and perhaps overrun the Country. In view of such an emergency he hoped the House would take precautionary measures to secure our people and property from outrage and injury.

Mr. McEllan, did not think the house would be justified in the present state of affairs, in burdening the country with the unnecessary expense incurred in calling out the Militia.

High Tides.—During the whole course of the past week, the tides have risen to a greater height than has been known for some years. The water rose several feet above the floors of cellars in the lower part of the town; and in some cases overflowed wharves and floated wood away.—Christianity.

WEATHER.—For several days we have experienced a most unpleasant succession of snows, thaws, and rains. The weather has been damp and disagreeable, the streets slushy and muddy, the atmosphere most and chilly; circumstances which prevent fine weather render almost unendurable to us now.—Id.

Some valuable information in reference to the cure of cancer has been published in the Gazette by Dr. T. Painchaud, of Quebec. It seems that this gentleman has enjoyed some reputation in his treatment of that fearful disease. More over, the ladies of the Hotel Dieu in Quebec have been, with the ladies of the same community in Montreal and Three Rivers, for more than fifty years in the exclusive possession of a secret by which the disease can in most cases be radically cured. A Protestant clergyman of high standing, says Dr. Painchaud, recently treated him, by letters, to make public his mode of treatment, and to procure, if possible, the name of the revelation of their secret. The Dr. has immediately complied with the request, and published what was thought his own remedy; giving credit for it, however, to the celebrated French physician Dupuytren. He states his conviction that he could have healed Lord Metcalfe from the disease that carried him away, and had informed Col. Anthonis of this, who, however, did not act upon the information. At the same time, Dr. Painchaud has written to reveal to the Hotel Dieu, requesting them to reveal to the secret, and they have accordingly done so, supplying, in reference to it, the following historical details. The originator of the secret was a priest, the Rev. P. T. Compain, who, towards the end of the last century, had acquired throughout Canada a reputation for his cure of cancer.

Unwilling that his secret should die with him, but unwilling also to benefit humanity at large, he made, in 1799, the nuns of the Hotel Dieu in Quebec, Three Rivers and Montreal, participants of the secret, binding them to it only as long as his life time. The charitable nuns, however, must have preferred a puny distinction for their order to the general interests of humanity, since they have only now made public what, according to them, is a sure relief or cure for a large class of sufferers, and which is enough to look to his own interest, for he stipulated with the sisters that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

The Toronto Globe laments the prevalence of lotteries throughout Canada, stating that they are springing up in every town and village to the great injury of the morals of the people, and increase of a gambling spirit. He adds that he has taken high legal advice on the subject, and that he should be rewarded for his secret by the religious community "praying once a month for the sanctification of his soul and the health of his body." Whether the nuns keep up that engagement towards the Ecclupical priest for the benefit of his soul and body while in purgatory, or whether the divulging of the secret relieves them from further obligation towards him we are not informed.—Montreal Witness.

work of Church extension, and several new houses have been erected within a few years.—One brother has set a noble example to others who may be like him, blessed with ample means for doing good. During the past year he has purchased three lots in most eligible locations, as sites for future houses of worship. On one of these he has built a chapel, in which a Sabbath school is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

There is an association of "Communists," or "Perfectionists," at Wallingford, Connecticut, about twenty males and females, all living under one roof. The men wear old-fashioned, swallow-tailed coats and corduroy trousers, and the women dress in "blouses." Their religious belief is gathered, and services conducted by the city missionary. On another an elegant church edifice is in progress, for the newly constituted Franklin Square Church. The other is held in reserve for the future wants of the denomination.—The Roger Williams Church, at Providence, R. I., was destroyed by fire on the morning of Friday, Jan 5th.—The Rev. Jonathan Smith, a Baptist minister in Chicopee, Mass., died on January 23, 94. He had been seventy years in the ministry.—The Rev. E. B. Burt recent fell down the stairs of the Walnut-street Baptist Church, Louisville, and injured himself so severely that he died in a few days.

Latest from Europe. The steamship due at this port from England had not arrived up to the time of our going to press. Our latest intelligence is therefore by way of New York.

The new Ministry has been formed. Lord Palmerston has presented the nation with the following Cabinet, comprising all the members of the Aberdeen Ministry except the Earl of Aberdeen, the Duke of Newcastle, and Lord John Russell, who retire, and with the addition of the Earl of Panmure, as Minister of War:

First Lord of Treasury, Viscount Palmerston, Lord Chancellor, Lord Cranworth, President of the Council, Earl Granville, Lord Errol, Earl of Argyll, Secy for Foreign Affairs, Earl of Clarendon, Home Secy, Right Hon. Sidney Herbert, Colonial Secy, Sir George Grey, Chancellor of War, Lord Palmerston, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone.

First Lord of Admiralty, Sir Jas. Graham, Public Works, Sir William Milesworth, In Cabinet, without office, Marquis of Lansdowne, Pres't Board of Control, Sir Charles Wood, Postmaster General, Viscount Cranston.

NOT OF THE CABINET. Lord George Campbell, Lord Willoughby d'Eresby, Pres't Board of Trade, Hon. Edward Cardwell.

Lord Stewart, Earl Spencer, Earl Marshall, Duke of Norfolk, Lord Chalmers, Marquis of Breadalbane, Master of the Horse, Duke of Wellington, Commander-in-Chief, Viscount Hardinge, Master of the Mint, Sir J. F. W. Herschell, Atty-General, Sir E. J. Cockburn, Q. C., Master of the Rolls, Sir John Romilly, Solic