

He at once set to work, and, kneeling and praying, and then he prayed the little boy washed his hands and his face till they were quite clean. Said the boy, 'My hands are wringing wet, and I don't know how to dry them.' The minister pulled out of his pocket a clean Sunday pocket-handkerchief, and offered it to the boy. Said the little boy, 'But it is clean.' 'Yes,' was the reply, 'but it was made to be dirtied.' The little boy dried his hands and face with the handkerchief, and then accompanied the minister to the door of the Sunday-school. On approaching the door, and hearing the hum of the children inside, the boy's heart began to fail him, and, looking anxiously at the minister, he said, 'Oh, Sir, I cannot go in now; I must wait till another time.' 'But said the minister, 'you promised me that you would.' 'Are you sure that they would do me no harm if I go?' said the boy. 'Yes, I am sure they will not,' said the minister. The little boy looked in his face for a moment, and said, 'But will you give me your word that they will do me no harm?' Said the minister, 'I will give you my word that they will do you no harm.' 'Then,' said the boy, 'I will go in.' Accordingly he went in. The minister took him to an excellent old Sunday-school teacher, and in few words told him the story of the manner in which he had met with him, and what happened afterwards. The boy was put into a class, but he was not troubled with any question which

A Cheap Paint.
 About seven years ago, a Mr. Watson, of this place, built a bridge for the road, which he painted with the following composition: Water lime (hydraulic lime) mixed with skimmed milk to the consistency of common paint. It was put on with a short handled whitewash brush; eight or ten quarts were applied. It can be shaded by addition of various coloring matters to suit the taste or fancy. The bridge was painted seven years ago. I pass it almost weekly, and I always supposed it was covered with lead paint till told to the contrary. This paint is adapted to coarse, rough, out-door work, and out-buildings which are covered with unplained boards. There are a number of barns in this vicinity painted with this mixture; they have a rather neat appearance in contrast with those not painted. The cost is but little; the lime can be procured for $6 to $9 per barrel. [Often for $1.25 to $3.—ED.] Those who have used it, speak well of it. Any one can put it on with a whitewash brush.—American Agriculturist.

COMMON SALT, sprinkled over gravel walks, will prevent grass from growing on them; or a solution of lime and sulphur in boiling water will more effectually eradicate the plant.

GOLDEN'S
BRONCHITIS REMEDY
 February 17th, 1861.
 I have used your GOLDEN'S BRONCHITIS REMEDY with the best success, and I applied to me of the best Doctors in the place, without relief; I then got a bottle of your Remedy, and applied it to the part affected, and to my other sufferings, it did more like a charm than a Lotion, and I can only say that you have become a benefactor to your race, and the real friend of suffering humanity.
 Yours truly,
 JAMES GOLEBY, Musquodoboit.
