“BUY SHEEP NOW”

The above was the title of a short article appearing in The Guide issue, October 23. The article stated: "For the past three or four years the farmers who kept sheep made very large profits. The price of wool is at least five or six times as high as it was before the war broke out and there is every reason to believe that even after the war has closed there will still be a good wool market for some time to come. Some farmers who are over-stocked with breeding females have to sell some of them and these sometimes go to market when they would be the very best kind of buying for other farmers. Right now this is going on to some extent. This is the best time of year to begin a flock by buying a few young ewes."

The Guide has had wonderful success in assisting breeders to dispose of surplus stock through the use of classified advertising in The Farmers' Market Place. The testimonials shown below are evidence of this.

On February 15, 1917, Mr. Jas. M. Ewens, of Bethany, Man., wrote us saying:— I think it is only fair to let you know that all the advertising I have done in your paper has always brought good results. It is undoubtedly the best advertising medium in Western Canada.

You may think that this was alright for one year, but on September 19, 1918, Mr. Ewens wrote us again saying:— In reply to yours re continuance of my recent ad. All sheep sold three days after the ad. appeared. Could have sold two carloads if I had them. Your paper certainly reaches the right people.

Any breeder having stock to sell can well afford to use classified advertising in The Guide. The Rate is Economical, Five Cents a Word, Payable in Advance.
