

FIGHT FOR RIGHT

BY the courtesy of the poet Laureate we are able to give in full his pacifist address at the Queen's Hall last week at his meeting of the "Fight for Right" Society.

I should like to dispel from your minds an objection which as sensible people you may feel against any movement of this kind. You may say—"What is the use of societies at all? There are too many societies. What we want is action, not talk. Mere talk can lead to nothing."

The objection is a sound one, and I would go all along with it, if I could not destroy it.

I was reading the other day a book on the war by a Frenchman, a French pacifist. At least he was a pacifist so far as he believes that this war cannot be brought to a satisfactory conclusion, cannot determine in a secure and lasting peace, if we trust entirely to guns and explosives.

The first sentence of his book puts the case of our society very plainly. It is only half a dozen lines, and with your permission, I will read them to you. He writes thus—

"A generation assailed by war has not only its frontiers to protect. It must also protect its good sense from the hallucinations, injustices, and follies that the plague lets loose. To each his part: to the army the defence of their country's soil; to the thinkers the defence of its thought."

In those few words you have, against these objectors, the title-deeds of our society. Those words assume and state what every one knows—that the safety, the salvation, of a country depends on the spirit of the people. That the danger to a country is that the spirit of the people should go wrong, be blinded by passion, led astray by self-interest, drowned by false security, bewildered for want of wisdom and reflection.

The aim of our society is not to create a national spirit. We have a national spirit; if we had not, nothing could give it us.

The aim of our society is to instruct, steady, guide, and encourage the national spirit.

3. If the tree is surrounded by grass, is the sod open around the trunk? 4. Does the tree get a good proportion of the rain which falls on the sidewalk, or does the water run over the curb into the gutter?

5. Is the tree protected with a tree guard? Guard must be six feet high and not too tight. Tree must be protected from chafing by guard.

6. Is the tree free from borers? Borer can be detected by saw dust coming out of holes in the trunk. Watch for the borers from April to November.

7. Are the trunk and the branches cleared of all cocoons, egg-masses, larvae, caterpillars, beetles, scale? 8. (a) Is the head free from all dead wood, has it been pruned by an expert, and how do you know he is an expert?

9. Have the scars from horse bites or other injuries been cleaned out and painted to prevent harbouring insects and stoppage? If there are large cavities these should be filled with cement.

10. Does the tree remain green and in full leaf to the middle of October? 11. Have you put as much nourishment into the soil as the tree needs for the year? Give it a treat; dig in wood ashes, ground bone or well-rotted manure.

12. Are any wires interfering with your tree either by swaying or by electric current? If there are any such wires—

"Here are twelve points of a good street tree. The total percentage if below par reflects on the man, not on the tree. The tree always does its best. Man forgets that he has taken it out of the God-matter forest where it could and did care for itself, and has placed it in a man-made care where it is dependent on man's care for thrifty growth."—May Conservation.

That the danger to a country is that the spirit of the people should go wrong, be blinded by passion, led astray by self-interest, drowned by false security, bewildered for want of wisdom and reflection.

The area of fall wheat to be harvested this year is placed at 77,800 acres in Ontario, 247,700 acres in Alberta, 9,400 acres in Manitoba, 4,100 acres in Saskatchewan and 6,200 acres in British Columbia, being a total for the Dominion of 1,042,200 acres as against 1,200,000 acres in 1915 and 975,300 acres in 1914.

The general condition of the crops on April 30th, which measured by the standard of 100 as representing a full crop, is 89 in Ontario, as compared with 93 last year and 76 in Alberta as compared with 83. For Ontario the figure was only surpassed last year and in 1910. The condition for the whole of Canada on April 30 was 88, which converted to a standard of 100 as representing the average condition at the same period for the seven years 1909 to 1915 indicated a condition of 108 or an anticipated yield per acre of 8 per cent in excess of the seven year's average, provided that conditions beyond the average harvest time are not abnormal.
