

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. You are actually weak heart in a hundred to one in fifteen little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is also directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds up strength; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

WOMAN'S WORLD

A GAME OF CROQUET.

YOU HORRID ELEANOR:

There's no doubt about it, I hate you! What right have you to my babies? How dared you ask for them? And why, oh, why was I weak enough to let them go?

The blessed kiddies have just been with you three days, but, already, between unwillingness to let Jack do his "money-grubbing" (as you basely call it) alone and an awful hollow pain around my heart that tempts me to fly to my dear boy and girl, behold your poor sister reduced to the verge of idiocy.

As I can't be happy, at least I'll be amused. I'm filling the vacuum in my life (vainly trying it, rather) with a round of entertaining. Thus do I hope to delude myself that life is worth living to a child-bereft parent.

As it's too warm for bridge we indulge in the wild excitement of croquet. Our long twilights permit playing for several hours after dinner.

You, if I mistake not, once bracketed croquet and solitary friends as fit candidates for a straight-jacket. Really, though, I've grown quite enamored of its mild excitement.

Firstly, it's better than a course of sermons for one's morals. Chesting is so painfully easy, while bumpiness and disputatiousness are such assets in the game that to be an honest, good-tempered player is a spiritual triumph.

With the new rules and greater distances between wickets, croquet takes a nice skill, too, if you do not aspire to be white-washed every round.

Then, it's about the one outdoor sport that admits of decent clothes. My eye for the picturesque, if nothing else, would make me an advocate of the "curate's pastime." It's such a consolation to know that in your filmy gown against a leafy back ground you are looking your best instead of a red-faced fright.

Why, this evening, Sally Grayson, Jack and I had a beautiful exciting game in what little Eleanor calls our "bestest downs."

I wish you could have seen Sallie's. It certainly was "a

WILL KISSING BE PROHIBITED

The Osculatory Process Denounced by Scientists as Extremely Dangerous—How the Danger Can be Removed.

A keen discussion is being carried on by some of the best scientists as to the danger and "crime" of kissing, led by Dr. Somers, Health Officer of Atlantic City, and Dr. Nalpas, of the Medical Faculty of Paris. They charge the kiss with spreading gripple, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, whooping cough, typhoid fever, diphtheria, erysipelas, meningitis, tuberculosis, and many infectious diseases. They suggest legislation on the subject, and the posting of notices in railway stations, street cars and other public places, but they say it would be useless to post them on verandahs, in cozy corners, porches, shady nooks, or moonlit lawns. They also propose compulsory legislation for methods of disinfection of the mouth and purifying the breath, especially with a view to the protection of the innocent babies who are particularly subject to infection. The greatest and most effective purifier and germ destroyer known to medical science for the mouth, throat and breath, as well as for the blood, stomach and lungs, is PSYCHINE, that triumph of the medical world that is attracting almost universal attention because of the wonderful results attending its use. One of its recent triumphs is told as a matter of experience in the following brief statement:

Dr. Bloom Co. I am sending you photo and testimonial here-with for your great remedy PSYCHINE. Your remedies did wonders for me. I was about 20 years of age when I took PSYCHINE. The doctors had given me up as an incurable consumptive. My lungs and every organ of the body were terribly diseased and wasted. Friends and neighbors thought I'd never get better. But PSYCHINE saved me. My lungs have never bothered me since, and PSYCHINE is a permanent cure.

dream," and "you would so become it, mum," to quote old Bridget. It was of piqueable fabric in the new D. lift line, and would make a stunning house gown for next winter.

The skirt fitted quite smoothly at the top, each side of the front gored up ping to the knees over a white silk slip crossed by buttoned straps.

The waist actually had novel bretelles—a shaped strapped arrangement worn over a double blouse effect of clumsy lace—and a yoke and sleeves of white mull. The latter had ruffles of lace, the last two fitting tight around the elbow, instead of having a separate cuff.

I wore my white mull, embroidered in blue corollas and trimmed with point venise insertion. It's a beauty, if I do say it myself; the coloring is so unusual. The narrow panelled front, ending in an embroidered sounce, has a curved band of plain blue around the bottom, it's scallops outlined with narrow white soutache loops. This band is bordered by insertion, which also edges the Dutch neck.

The blouse is fascinating with straps, shoulder lapels, belt and sleeve medallions in the blue embroidery.

I'm expecting great use of this frock for house wear and informal dinners in the fall, so I really must be careful not to trail it over the grass in many more croquet games.

If this is to go in tonight's mail you must be deprived of further dissertation on your bete-noire.

Do, do, do take good care of my babies. (I know you will, only I'm one of those fussers who Fra Libertas decrees "should be side-stepped"), and write me every day how they are.

The painful fact is, I know they are not missing their fond parents one wee bit; children are such soulless little animals. Well, give them both innumerable hugs from Their mournful mother, MADGE.

All shades of purple and lavender will be much used in the early fall millinery.

Guimpe and jumper dresses of gingham, plaid gingham, chambray and wool mixtures continue popular for school wear.

For afternoon gowns the daintily checked voiles in two-toned effects are exceptionally attractive when fashioned with a garniture of silk which gives them body.

Pretty sashes and bretelles for party dresses are made of narrow ribbons, alternating with insertion of the same width. They are edged with tiny ruches of lace.

Smocking is gradually returning to favor although it is not very practical for washable materials, but for such fabrics as may be dry-cleaned satisfactorily, it is always pretty.

Many of the sleeves show bewitching puffs above the elbows, with a cuff binding it just below. This in turn is supplemented by odd little lace cuffs, which reach quite half way down the forearm.

The fad for self-trimming continues and the smartest of the newest designs, not only in tailored, but in the more formal costumes show as much of a preference as ever for this style of trimming.

When plain tailored shirtwaists

For an Impaired Appetite.

To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says: "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." Price, 25 cents. Samples free. At all druggists are worn by school girls care should be taken that they are not too severe in effect. Sufficient fulness should be allowed to make the waists becoming to the immature figure.

Walking suits are plain. Even the folds around the skirts are gradually disappearing on the newest designs. The new circular skirt seems to be adaptable to very little variety in walking costumes.

For street wear young girls will wear semi-fitting three-quarter-length coats with pleated and plain skirts. Heavy gloves in tan or gray, hats very simply trimmed, and perky bows are all the adjuncts needed for a correctly gowned schoolgirl.

The short sleeve is destined to last through this summer, but with the first fall frocks we shall be on our way back again to long ones—very long ones—for already there are strong indications of this shown in the creations which have come over from Paris and Vienna.

The most exclusive of French modistes are narrowing the skirts around the bottom and, in fact, making them to cling more closely to the figure below the hips than they have been doing. The change is being made almost imperceptibly.
