That is Wise.

And Many Expressions of Love and Good Will.

The little Baptist Church on Barton street east was crowded to the doors ast evening, when the congregation gathered to bid farewell to Pastor Brown, who in his two years' ministry among them had completely won his way into their hearts, and had been used of God in bringing blessing to many souls. Long before time for the opening of the meet-ing the many friends of the pastor and his wife had crowded into every available seat, and those who were a little tardy in arriving had to stand throughout the service.

On the platform with Pastor Brown were many of the Baptist ministers of the city, among them being Revs. W. Quarrington, H. McDiarmid, R. McWhirthe city, among them being Revs. W. Quarrington, H. McDiarmid, R. McWhirter and Jas. Bracken.

Rev. Mr. Bracken, of Ferguson Avenue Baptist Church, in a short speech, emphasized the fact that the important thing to-day is a full acknowledgment of Jesus Christ as the Lord. Referring to the occasion on which they had gathered, he spoke very highly of Pastor Brown, assuring the people that their loss would be some one else's gain. Mr. Brown would be sure to win his way into the hearts of the people to whom he had been called, and he felt sure that it was God's mind that he should be sent to his new field of labor.

Rev. W. Quarrington spoke of the friendly relations which existed between Pastor Brown and himself. He loved him and admired him for his faithfulness to the truth, inasmuch as he had not faited to present Christ and Him ness to the truth, inasmuch as he had not failed to present Christ and Him erucified to the people. He spoke of the retiring pastor's zeal in Christian serice, and entreated the congregation to e generous in their idea of things, and o believe that God was leading their THE LIVERPOOL & LONDON & GLOBE be generous in their idea of things, and to believe that God was leading their minister into larger spheres of activity. "Stand true," he said, in conclusion, "and continue the work which has been begun among you. Do not leave because your pastor is leaving. Work for a new church, for if any part of Hamilton needs more church accommodation it is surely this section."

Mr. Quarrington expressed the feeling of Wentworth Street Baptist Church in wishing Pastor Brown every success in his future work.

Rev. Mr. McDiarmid, of Herkimer Baptist Church, went back to the old college days, when he and the one of whom they were taking leave had studied together in Woodstock College. He pleaded with the people to be as loyal to the new pastor as they had been to the old, and dwelt on the importance of a larger building, as he believed their progress was being hampered for lack of room. Rev. Mr. McWhirter, of Crown Point Baptist Church, in a few words told of his esteem for Mr. Brown. He could remember the advice he got from him on the occasion of their first meeting. It was simply this: "Be a praying pastor." He could say he had carried out the advice, and pressed upon his hearers the great importance of prayer. "Keep together, be of one accord in all things, and blessing will be yours," were his closing words.

The choir during the evening rendered many beautiful selections under the anu leadership of Mr. Ivor Pritchard Miss J. Fellows was soloist.

The event of the evening was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Brown of an address by Miss Near and Mr. F. Kemp, accompanied by a beautiful easy chair and a bouquet to Mrs. Brown.

The address expressed the tenderest regard for Mr. and Mrs. Brown, appreciation of their devoted work, and God's blessing on their future.

Mr. Brown in reply thanked the members on behalf of himself and wife for their love and cheer at such a trying time. Never had a parting been so keenly felt by him. He had grown to love the people whom he was ministering unto, and no one would know what it cost him to separate himself from them. He thanked them from his heart for the gifts, though to him they were nothing compared with the love and good-will behind them. His ministry in the little Barton Street Church had occupied two of the happiest years of his life, and he could not wish for a more loyal people than they had been to him. There had been little troubles, but love had overbach thow all, and fellowship had been it was classes.

He assured them that, though absent in body, he would still be with them in heart and would assist them with his prayers. He was very glad that they had brought no pressure to bear upon him to reconsider his decision, because he believed God was behind it, and it was his life ambition to please God. He spoke very affectionately of the fellowship and good-will of the pastors present, and, concluding, asked his people to take from him as a parting message a verse in I. Cor. xv. 58: "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, inasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

Deacon T. McLean then presented the pastor with an address.

After the pastor had briefly responded, Mr. Ivor Pritchard presented him with a beautiful oil painting of the church, the work of Miss E. Smith, saying that the trusted it would bring back sweet memories of his labors here.

Mr. Brown was much affected by this last token of love and replied feelingly, referring to the time and trouble necessary to such a piece of work and assuring his people that it would have a prominent place in his study. them that, though absent in

STAND TOGETHER.

Speech of Governor Aram J. Pothier Before Canadian Club of Boston.

On Friday last Governor Pothier spoke on "Canada and the States" be fore the Canadian Club of Boston. It was an eloquent plea for friendly relations between these two countries. He said in part:

Allow me to ask whether Canada doe not, by proximity, geography, the character of her industries, and by the natural and artificial navigable waters that brider her territory on the south, east and west, belong to the common indus-trial system of this continent? I believe that she does, and I share the convic-tion of an eminent American statesman, that God never intended that the pro-vinces of the Dominion should be indus-trially or commercially separated from vinces of the Dominion should be industrially or commercially separated from the United States.

I am one of those who believe that the United States and Canada should be brought into a closer relationship in their affairs. With natural interests in common, and each liable to reap advantage or to suffer loss through the same agencies, both are handicapped in exercising that co-operation so manifestly desirable, by the difficulty of establishing practical working relations.

Never before has the necessity for a closer union, if not a federal union, between these two countries been greater, nor more keenly felt. If the United States and Canada desire peace, for the extension of their trade and the security of the Pacific slope, they must maintain and display a strong navy—strong in its fishtic units.

extension of their trade and the security of the Pacific slope, they must maintain and display a strong navystrong in its fighting units, adequate in its transports and coalers. Canada as well as the United States must be equipped with the means for coast defence, if she is to do her share in impressing the world with the mightiness of this continent.

And thus it becomes the duty of American and Canadian statesmen to foster and encourage always the most amicable and intimate relations between the two countries, that the problems affecting the future of the continent may be more easily solved; that the destiny of both, whether that destiny be political reunion or commercial reunion, may be glerically accomplished. cal reunion or commercial reunion, may be gloriously accomplished; and that we may make common cause for the de ense and protection of our civilization before and not after the hour of danger shall thresten
