Pleasant Sunday.

"Patriotism" was the topic chosen by Mr. R. A. Squires at the weekly meeting of the P. S. A., held yesterday afternoon. He reviewed the early history of great nations especially Great Britain, and showed that patriotism did not exist in the olden times as it does amongst us to-day. The gradual growth of democracy has been the principal factor evolving modern patriotism. Coming down to local affairs Mr. Squires expressed regret that there seemed to be a lack of patriotism amongst our people in regard to Municipal affairs, seeing that there was no contest for the Mayoralty. There were many men amongst us who would make excellent city representatives could they be prevailed upon to enter the contest. Mr. W. Tucker rendered "The Dawn of Redemption" accompanied on the organ by Mr. Gordon Christian.

How Tin Roofs Sweat

The ideal roof must be more than leak-proof. It must be proof against cold—proof against heat. It must help to keep the house warm in winter—cool in summer.

The tin roof does either. It lets the summer heat into the house. It lets in the winter cold.

And tin roofs are not apt to be leak-proof. The reason is this: The tin gets so hot that it draws the moisture out of the wood underneath. This moisture crystallizes into little beads of perspiration which gather on the under side of the tin.

There is no help for this sweating process. Nothing to do but let the moisture turn into rust and the rust into leaky holes.

That is one reason why tin roofs need frequent repairs. And a repair to-day is no protection against leaks to-morrow. The rusting, once started, must go on.

Every owner of a tin roof knows that the material used in tin roofs is expensive—yet it is not nearly so good as when iron plates were tin-plated. Instead of cheap steel, which is now being used.

Expensive to Lay

And if the material, itself, is expensive, it is still more expensive to lay.

Tin roofs must be constantly looked after and repaired, for if a pin hole once forms in the sheet, water will gain access and rusting will commence on the underside—entirely hidden from observation.

Tin roofs are easily damaged. They are hard to repair. They must be patched when they leak. They must be painted to prevent leaks.

Cases have come under our observation in which the painting and repainting of tin, alone, cost more than the whole expense of a Ruberoid roof.

Gases Affect Tin

Tin cannot be used as a roofing for roundhouses because it will not withstand the gases from the engines. Yet Ruberoid for many years has withstood these same fumes without noticeable deterioration.

Tin roofs catch fire very quickly, the heat causing the tin to become red hot and setting the wood boarding underneath afire.

The tin roof, with the shingle roof and the tar roof, is the roof of a bygone day. In durability and as a protection, it does not warrant its cost.

Lachine, June 14, 1909.

Messrs. The Standard Paint Co. of Canada, Ltd., Montreal.

Dear Sirs,—Some time ago we pulled down an old cask storage shed to increase our coal yard. The roof of this shed was covered with RUBEROID some fifteen or more years before, and we were interested to note the excellent condition in which it still was. During the years the shed was in use, it had never given us any trouble, or cost us anything to repair.

Yours truly,

Dear Sirs,—In reply to your favor of the 17th inst., we take pleasure in saying that we have used RUBEROID ROOFING for the past four years, with very satisfactory results. None of the roofs covered with it show any signs of deterioration yet.

Yours respectfully,

Empire Day at Change Islands High School.

The teachers, pupils, ex-pupils of Change Islands High School, Rev. N. S. Facey, Chairman of School Board, members of the Board and others assembled in the schoolroom at 9.30 a.m. on the 24th inst. to celebrate Empire Day. The walls of the school were nicely decorated with flags, and the interior of the school presented a very attractive appearance. A special programme had been prepared, which was as follows:—

National Anthem—By visitors and school.

Song, "Flag of Britain" (saluting the flag)—By school choir.

Address—By Rev. N. S. Facey.

Recitation, "Isle of the Free"—By W. Scammell.

Song, "Home Sweet Home"—By Misses J. M. Reeves and E. N. Torranceville (teacher).

Address—By Dr. E. J. Eacrett.

Recitation, "The Union Jack"—By A. H. Porter.

Song, "An Englishman"—By C. Earle.

Recitation, "The King Lies Dead"—By Lizzie M. Earle.

Recitation, "Patriotism"—By J. H. Scammell.

Address—By Mr. F. C. Earle.

Song, "Newfoundland"—By school choir.

Recitation, "Lest We Forget"—By Ida J. Oke.

Saluting the Flag and National Anthem—By visitors and school.

Special mention should be made of the following parts: (1) The song "Flag of Britain," during the singing of which (at the words "we salute thee") the teachers and pupils saluted the Union Jack. (2) The very interesting, instructive and patriotic addresses, which were given by Rev. N. S. Facey, Dr. E. J. Eacrett and Mr. F. C. Earle. All who had the pleasure of hearing these speeches will undoubtedly become better members of that great Empire of which we form a not unimportant part. (3) The song, "Home Sweet Home," was very beautifully rendered by Misses J. M. Reeves and Ethel M. Torranceville, teachers. (4) The exceptionally good music furnished by Misses Lizzie M. Earle and E. M. Torranceville.

A vote of thanks to the lecturers and visitors was proposed by the Principal, and accorded by acclamation by teachers and pupils. Rev. N. S. Facey then thanked the pupils on behalf of himself and other visitors for the way in which they had shown their appreciation and for the attention given the lecturers. While the pupils were being dismissed they were given nuts and candies, which had been kindly provided by Mr. F. C. Earle. School was closed at 11.45 a.m., and the teachers and a few of the pupils spent a very pleasant afternoon as the guests of some kind friends to a picnic held on Edward's Island. Such an observance of Empire Day will likely be fraught with far-reaching results for the good of the Empire, and the writer's wish is that when next the day is celebrated at Change Islands and throughout the British Dominions an even greater interest will be manifested, for we must remember the boys and girls of to-day are the men and women of to-morrow, and it is to them that we must look for the upbuilding of the Empire.

PATRIOT.

Semi-Military Funeral.

At 2.30 p.m. yesterday the funeral of the late Samuel Angel, Corporal of the Catholic Cadet Corps, took place and was largely attended. The C.C.C. mustered out in force at the funeral and squads from the C. L. B., M. G. B. and Highlanders were also present. The remains of the deceased were enclosed in a handsome casket on which lay his cap and belt and were drawn on a gun carriage by a picked squad of his comrades. Mr. N. J. Murphy acted as undertaker and the band of the Corps rendered the Dead March in Saul along the route to Mount Carmel Cemetery, where the deceased was interred. The Corps Chaplain, Rev. Fr. Fynte, recited the last prayers at the Mortuary Chapel, and when the grave was closed in the trumpeters blew the Last Post over the grave of a comrade all liked and esteemed.

First Sunday Train.

The first Sunday excursion train left here at 2.30 p.m. yesterday. The weather was pleasant for the afternoon outing in the country and four cars went out with 110 passengers on board. Engine 102 took out the train, which was in charge of Conductor J. Kelly, and the return was made from Kelligrews at 9.15 last night, all having thoroughly enjoyed the trip countrywards.

At the R. C. Cathedral.

Yesterday being Corpus Christi Sunday, High Mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock in the Cathedral. Rev. Fr. Fynte was celebrant and was assisted by Rev. Fr. O'Callaghan and Father Sheehan as Deacon and sub-Deacon. After Mass Expiation of the Blessed Sacrament began and continued till after Vespers. Large numbers of the faithful frequented the church during the afternoon. It was announced at all the Masses that the annual collection for the cemeteries of Belvedere and Mount Carmel will take place next Sunday. At St. Patrick's Church, Riverhead, Rev. Fr. Kelly celebrated last Mass. The altars in both churches were beautifully decorated in honor of the feast of the institution of the Blessed Eucharist. Owing to the absence of His Grace the Archbishop the outdoor procession was dispensed with this year.

Bannerman Park.

Bannerman Park fence should be repaired, as it is unusual to see people leaving the grounds at such a late hour as 11 o'clock, as was the case last night. No blame can be attached to Caretaker Spurrell for this state of affairs, as our informant found that along Circular Road and Bannerman Street the gates are down and the fences in a dilapidated condition, so that cows, horses, dogs and goats can roam in and out undisturbed. The Municipal Council acted wisely in the appointment of ex-Sergt. Smith to Bannerman Park. No better man could be selected, but we think that he should wear some insignia of office such as a cap or the city shield on his breast in silver or bronze.—Com.

Busily Fitting Out.

The English bondholders connected with the Anglo-Nfld. Fish Exporting Co. having been settled with, the business will in future be conducted by the other partners, the Messrs. Munn. The firm is busily fitting out now for their Labrador station of Sandy Islands, of which Mr. R. S. Munn is in charge as in former years, and of Inug Harbor. The room at St. Julien's, French Shore, has been disposed of to Capt. Arthur Parsons, of Freshwater. The many friends of the firm wish them much success in their operations.—Standard.

Killed by Fall.

Friday last, Mr. Thos. French, now here, had a telegram from Tizard's Harbor, T. B., saying that on Thursday while a man named John Boyd was painting his residence he fell from the top of the ladder to the ground and was rendered unconscious. The fall was nearly 20 feet; he was hurt severely internally and he died some hours after the accident without regaining consciousness.

Stole Hand Cart.

Saturday last as Mr. H. Simms was on Harvey's wharf with a hand cart worth about $2, two boys took advantage of his absence, and stealing the cart took it to a schooner at George Neal's wharf where they sold it to some Bonavista Bay men for 20 cents. Const. Cleary to whom the matter was reported found the boys, and restored the cart to the owner. The lads will be charged with the theft.

341,000,000 Copies.

The Amalgamated Press, Limited, which issues the Harmsworth publications, in 1909, after writing off $125,000 and adding the same sum to its reserve fund, declared a dividend of $2,500,000, being forty per cent on the capital stock. The circulation of the Harmsworth journals during the year was three hundred and forty-one million copies.

Nutritive Hypophosphites.

When a person feels "blue" "all tired out"—doesn't feel like doing anything—cannot concentrate his mind on his work—feels weak mentally and physically—doubts his powers—complains of poor appetite and sleeplessness—suffers from headaches—then his nervous system is run-down and demands a good up-building tonic. Nervous exhaustion is a modern disease, caused by too close attention to business, overwork, worry, devotion to trying family cares overstudy, etc.

Hi-Po Waterproof Dry Batteries.

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE, during recent years, has demonstrated that dry batteries, if properly constructed and protected, are ideal for ignition purposes.

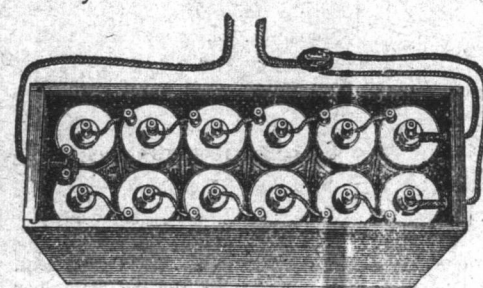

These two essential qualities are combined in the HI-PO waterproof dry cells.

It is a well known fact that the old-type zinc-cells are short-lived when exposed to moisture. Water and dampness have not the least effect on the HI-PO waterproof dry batteries, which can even be left standing in salt water without risk of short current.

Owing to the new patent process under which they are manufactured, the HI-PO waterproof dry cells are protected against all outside influences, each individual cell being built up and sealed in an insulated case.

The HI-PO waterproof dry batteries are used with absolute safety on land, on water and in aerial navigation; they are suitable for any work in any climate.

The HI-PO waterproof dry cells have a much longer life and give more service, size for size, than any other battery made.

This cut illustrates the most practical method of using HI-PO Waterproof Dry Batteries, namely, in double series, thus, by means of a switch one set is allowed to recuperate while the other set is in use. (Repair Dept.)

T. P. O'CONNOR THINKS HOME RULE COMING.

New York, May 23.—In a special cable from Dublin to the Times, T. P. O'Connor says:—I cannot, anything to what you have heard from various other sources about the King's funeral. It is enough for me to say that the outburst of devotion was far beyond even the greatest expectations, and was proof of what the most keen observers of English character knew, that the English, on occasion, are the most emotional people in the world.

The funeral scenes also demonstrated King Edward's extraordinary realization of what qualities and acts most appealed to his subjects. He did the right thing always, from making epoch-making treaties to winning the Derby.

The feeling in Ireland was largely due to the instinct that, unlike Queen Victoria, he had no antagonism to home rule, and had a sincerely warm feeling toward the people themselves. The Irish, also, have their sensitive, emotional point in the vivid appeal made to their imaginations and hearts by the King's death. Ireland's outburst would have been much wider and deeper but for the gross abuse made by the office-seeking faction in Ireland, who exploit, in such expressions as the abandonment of Ireland's demand for self-government. This also accounts for the absence of all official action by the Irish party. They have human sympathy and readiness for reconciliation with England, but no abandonment of Ireland's claims. This sums up the Irish attitude.

Kaiser's Position in Europe's Councils. In the meantime, one immediate consequence of the disappearance of King Edward is noted by the English press. This is the immense aggrandizement of the position of Emperor William in the councils of Europe. The English King's age, tact, cleverness constituted him the "Uncle of Europe," as Frenchmen wittily called him, and William, though he can never fill that particular role, rises higher owing to the removal of the overshadowing personality of Edward. A dim realization of this transformation of the European position is indicated by the almost reverential reception given to William by the English masses, and also by William's characteristically dramatic shaking of the hand of the new English King in Westminster Hall over the body of the dead King.

After this week a political truce will begin to end the two conflicting currents still running, when some of the ultra-Conservatives will suggest as part of the truce that the Liberals should abandon or compromise the veto question. The radical organs like the Daily News retort with violence, and compare the House of Lords to highwaymen caught with their stolen goods, and plaintively begging to be left in possession of them as a tribute to the dead King. On the other hand, a compromise is not yet altogether excluded from the counsels of the responsible leaders on both sides. There is no danger of the Liberals giving away on any essential principle, but, on the other hand, there is a rumor that some of the leading Tories are ready to offer a compromise.

Court Circles Favor Irish Settlement.

The home rule feeling is running high in the English masses, and also the court circles are in favor of the closing of the Irish struggle and reconciliation of Ireland with England. But all political forces to-day must be discounted as dominated by the intense emotion of the moment.

The more pressing question is the length of the postponement of the decision of the issue between the House of Commons and the Lords. Some Liberals plead for a postponement till next January, and others only until September. The Irish naturally favor the briefer postponement, always apprehending any pause in the strife and any slackening of energy or cooling of the popular ardor. We shall not know which policy will prevail till some days after the reassembling of Parliament of June 8, and then there will be sufficient immediate non-contentious business to cause a further postponement of the final decision. Arrangements for the Civil List of the new King and the Regency Bill will remove the objectionable words from the Coronation declaration, and possibly the Budget for the current year will give Parliament sufficient work for some weeks.

The Duchy of Cornwall

Prince Edward of Wales Succeeds to Fine Income.

London, May 23.—Prince Edward of Wales, the heir to the Throne, will, no doubt, be created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester in the course of time, probably during the next few months. In the meantime he will be known as Duke of Cornwall and Rothesay.

He succeeds at once to the Duchy of Cornwall, which has a clear income of £80,000, the property having appreciated in value enormously in recent years in consequence of the falling in of leases on its estates in London.

This £80,000 a year will accumulate for the Duke so that by the time he comes of age he will have an independent fortune from this source alone of half a million sterling.

It may be recalled that the accumulation from this source during the minority of King Edward enabled him to buy the Sandringham estate.

The Duchy of Cornwall is a Sovereign Duchy, and was, with various rights of regality, created by charter dated March 17, 1337, in favor of Edward the Black Prince, who, in the (translated) words of the charter was:—

"To have and to hold the said Duchy to himself and his heirs, being the eldest born sons of the King of England."

By virtue of this curious charter, the Duke of Cornwall appoints the sheriff of the county, has his own council and officers, and no bill specially affecting Cornwall may be introduced into either House of Parliament without the assent of the Duke of Cornwall previously given.

Mr. Bray lectured recently on the comet, and afforded a great treat to his hearers.
