Some little time ago we announced that His Majesty the King had gracithat arrangements were to shoot them all. being made to establish direct com-munication between Buckingham Palace and the Home, and that His Majesty on Coronation Day would touch a button in the Palace which would give a direct signal to His Excellency the Governor, Sir Ralph Williams, to proceed with the laying truly and well ing. Much gratification was felt that Our Sailor King, on such an auspicious occasion, should personally par-ticipate in a Coronation function in Newfoundland. Gracious and tactful as the act will be on its intrinsic merit, there is another feature of it, we Lunatic Asylum. most complimentary to the Oldest Colony of the Crown and to its loyal citizens. After getting out of his berth he went along his stocking feet, dragging his feet along the floor, when a large splinter of wood went up 1½ inches in his left foot and he suffered intense pain. Since arrival the foot has become very much swollen and sore and he goes into Hospital for treatment to-day.

Coronation Souvenir.

A dainty Coronation number will be on the street to-morrow. It is ap-propriately illustrated and full of timely reading matter. The career of the Peacemaker is nicely depicted, and the life story of His Majesty the King nicely told. Then follows an elaborate account of the historic neaning of the Coronation, a description of the site of the ceremony, and the ceremony itself, the official programme of the rejoicing and other kindred matter. Taken altogether the Number is a creditable publication.
