A Red Nose Sufferer.

Dear Miss Grey: I thank you for past favors and will please tell me a cure for a red nose? I do not think it is indigestion and I very seldom take any liquor.

CONSTANT READER.

Ans.—Your trouble is probably caused by poor circulation. Person so afflicted generally have cold hands and feet. Should advise vigorous exercise and frequent baths, followed by alcohol rubs, providing there is no abnormal condition of the heart which forbids violent exercise. A hot mustard footbath at the night is recommended and care of the diet, making plenty of milk, raw eggs and green vegetables and avoiding pastry, sweets and acids. Take plenty of pure water.

Initials On Writing Paper.

Dear Miss Grey: I enjoy your department very much and read it every day. But I have never seen the question I intend to ask you answered. Does an unmarried girl use her first or last initials on writing paper and seals? With best wishes for the future success of the corner.

CELIA G.

Ans.—The initials of the last name is the one to use on stationery and seal, but I think a monogram is very pretty. Thank you for the good wish expressed.

Advice for Furnishing.

Dear Miss Grey: In buying china dishes would you advise including bone dishes, bread and butter dishes, and individual dishes, or are the bread and butter plates appropriate for all three meals of the day?

In preparing a dining-room of medium size, with three south windows, black ash finish, what colored paper and rug would you use? There is no plate rail. Would you advise plain or figured net, cotton voile, scrim or lace for the curtains?

tains? I have two large ferns for the room.
Ans.—Bread and butter plates will answer every purpose and I would not advise getting anything else. In the dining-room, I think you would be pleased with gray walls and either a gray blue rug or a green one. You will like a plain net for the curtains; both have excellent wearing qualities. Find the ferns in jardiniere of brass or copper.

To Make Wheat Coffee.

Dear Miss Grey: I think, perhaps, this is the recipe asked for by "Brown Eyes" in Monday, March 9, Advertiser. I have used it for a number of years and it is much enjoyed by my family, and is very nourishing.

Wheat Coffee.—Put about 2 quarts of wheat, after washing and drying it, in a pan in oven, let brown nicely, stirring frequently. Then put into a frying pan one tablespoon butter and three tablespoons of black-strap molasses. Put in your pan of wheat and brown, stirring constantly. The flavor can be varied by the degree of browning given either time. Allow one tablespoon of prepared wheat for each person. It requires half an hour boiling at least, and more is better. We all enjoy your column very much, and thank you for your many helpful recipes and words.

Yours sincerely,
M. A. B. G.
Ans.—What a joy it is to receive such a helpful letter as this! I have great delight in passing the recipe on to our readers, and hope that "Brown Eyes" does not miss it.

LOOSE WRAP IN SWEET PEA RED.

Lager is the creator of this wrap which is of the sort that is made in the rage in Paris for spring wear, daytime, over the light corsets and crushable tunics. It is practically shapeless with loose cuffs under the wrap are worn gray top patent leather button boots and a taffeta hat, the newest for spring.

The only trimming is silk embroidered arrow-heads, and the garment is lined with champagne silk and facing capes, and the house is occupied in attending, once in a year, at a polling booth, even if we throw in the time spent in reading newspapers and political treatises, has hitherto made them neglect their shops or their counting-houses. I have not heard that those who have votes are worse merchants, or worse lawyers, physicians, or even worse clergymen, than other people. The occupations of most women are, and are likely to remain, principally domestic; but the idea that these occupations are incompatible with taking an interest in national affairs, or in any of the great concerns of humanity, is as futile as the terror once sincerely entertained lest artisans should desert the workshops and the factory if they were taught to read. Copies of this speech are included in the literature of the depository.

Pot-Pourri

Conducted by "THE NOMAD."

Some extremely interesting pamphlets, booklets and circulars have been included in the depository of the London Suffrage Society in charge of Mrs. E. M. Tilley, 554 King street. It is to be hoped that some of this literature will find a place on the reading table of every home in London and district. Whether or not in favor of woman suffrage, it is only fair to give the matter individual study and consideration.

Some Suffrage Books

Read, for instance, the famous speech of John Stuart Mill, on suffrage for women, delivered in 1867, and in which he sets forth so clearly and logically the reasons why women should be enfranchised. Here is how the fine pioneer exponent of woman's suffrage answers the statement that politics is not woman's business: "I am not aware that politics is a man's business either, unless he is one of the few who are paid for devoting his time to the public service, or is a member of this or of the other house. The great majority of male voters have their own business which engages nearly the whole of their time; but I have never heard that the house occupied in attending, once in a year, at a polling booth, even if we throw in the time spent in reading newspapers and political treatises, has hitherto made them neglect their shops or their counting-houses. I have not heard that those who have votes are worse merchants, or worse lawyers, physicians, or even worse clergymen, than other people. The occupations of most women are, and are likely to remain, principally domestic; but the idea that these occupations are incompatible with taking an interest in national affairs, or in any of the great concerns of humanity, is as futile as the terror once sincerely entertained lest artisans should desert the workshops and the factory if they were taught to read." Copies of this speech are included in the literature of the depository.

Another splendid argument in favor of woman suffrage is found in a little book entitled "Christian Citizenship," in which is claimed the right of women to have an equal voice with men, not only in affairs of the community but also in the church.

Christian Citizenship

Believe that the great vices in our large cities will never be conquered until the ballot is put into the hands of women," says Bishop Hearst. The woman with influence plus the ballot is a far greater power without the ballot. Women are today, and have always been, the mainstay and chief supporters of the churches and the leaders in all great moral reforms, yet as a disfranchised class they are powerless to give any material aid in bringing about social and moral reforms that depend upon legislative or governmental action," says the writer of this bright little book.

Those who desire to learn some actual results of "votes for women" should read an account of their enfranchisement in America as told by the members in the different towns in the suffrage states. The general voice appears to be that it has been an unqualified success.

Among the many valuable leaflets are noted such titles as "Some Catholic Opinions," "Do Teachers Need the Ballot?" "Women, Children and the Ballot," and "The Unanswerable Argument Answered."

SCHOOL SANDWICHES.
Sandwiches of some sort or other usually form the principal part of most school luncheons. The woman who studies the problem of how best to prepare them will probably find that if she begins her preparations the day ahead she can save herself time and nervousness in the morning and provide far more variety.

Instead of having only cold sliced meat from yesterday's pot roast or boiled dinner—vary this daily fare by having a filling made from chopped meat, which can be flavored in several ways. Also, learn to have and keep on hand other and paste fillings made from raisins, nuts, prunes and cheese.

WOES OF MRS. NEWLYWED

"My mattresses are so heavy it's all I can do to turn them," complained Mrs. Newlywed.
"Why not make some straps and sew them to the sides of the mattresses?" asked Mrs. Neighbor. "You will find they will make the turning of a mattress a very easy matter."

Songs We Used to Whistle and Sing

Copies of "The Dying Nun" have been received from several subscribers, including "A New Writer," "Genefer," "Old Subscriber," "Sunshine" and "Mrs. G. C. W.," who asks for the song "Put My Little Shoes Away."

The Dying Nun.
Let the air blow in upon me, let me see the midnight sky,
Stand back, sisters, from around me; God! It is so hard to die!
Raise the pillow up, oh, Martha, Sister Martha, you were kind,
Come and stand alone beside me, ere I leave you all behind.

Men and women whose birthdate it is warned against new ventures of every sort. They have a lucky augury if they avoid quarrels and lawsuits. Those who are wage-earners probably will gain in income.

Oh! my father: oh! my mother! Will you not forgive the past,
When you hear a stranger tell you how your stray lamb died at least
Out of all that used to love me, who will weep when I am dead?
Only you, oh, sister Martha, keep the last watch by my bed.

But a strain of heavenly music drowns the holy midnight dream.
Still I hear the wild waltz pealing, and I float away with him;
I am coming, Douglas, Douglas, where you are I too am there.
Freed at last, I come, my dearest; death gives back your little Clare.

Sister Martha, Sister Martha, has the moon gone down so soon?
The cell seems cold as winter, though I know that it is June.
Sisters, in your white beds lying, sleeping in the June moonlight,
Through your dreams, come there no message? Clare dies alone tonight.

THE HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, MARCH 16, 1914.

Thy fortune's made
With good stars' aid.

The Sun and Neptune are in places held to be fortunate for human affairs. Astrologers find this a day in which to push business interests, seek employment and solicit the co-operation of persons of influence. Mars, however, is in an aspect that is threatening, and it is well not to provoke a quarrel.

The rule of the stars is favorable for persons in authority. It is foretold that President Wilson will receive great honors this month in the form of public recognition of his ability as a statesman. The reading is that kings and emperors will praise him.

By this same sign it is read that the mayor of New York will gain extraordinary influence in national affairs. His stars foreshadow unusual experiences in which foes arise.

The Great Paderewski
Uses only the Steinway

The letter herewith reproduced is a glowing tribute from one great master to another, and further evidence of how this greatest of all pianos is appreciated.

Dear Mr. Steinway: I must tell you that, although I was delighted and inspired with your pianos at my first concert, my enthusiasm and inspiration increased at my second concert, and became still greater at the third, and thus it went on crescendo until my final appearance, at which my joy in the grandeur, the power and the ideal beauty of the tone, and the perfection of touch and mechanism was unbounded.

All who play your pianos can but thank you. I also do so, and at the same time congratulate you most heartily. Your very devoted,
I. J. PADEREWSKI.

Recipes You Will Like

Old-Fashioned Molasses Cookies.
Recipe No. 1.—One-half cup sugar, and half a cup of hot water and half a cup of shortening, one cup molasses, one teaspoon soda, a little salt and half a teaspoon of ginger. Flour enough to roll.
Recipe No. 2.—One-half cup sugar, two-thirds cup shortening melted, one cup of molasses, half a cup of milk (very sour), one dessertspoon of soda (level), one teaspoon heaping full cinnamon, a pinch of salt, and four to roll; roll quite thick. They are nice, soft cookies and will keep soft.

Lemon Marmalade.
Wash the lemons and boil them in plenty of water for two to three hours. When the rind is sufficiently tender to be pierced with a straw or a pin's head, the fruit has cooked long enough. Remove it from the fire, wipe it dry, and slice very thinly, taking out all pips. To each pound of fruit pulp add one pint of water (using that in which the lemons were boiled), and one pound of sugar. Boil for about an hour or until the mixture sets, then put into pots.

Two Good Pudding Sauces.
Royal Sauce.—To one part of sweet cream and two parts of boiling water; sweeten well and flavor with powdered mace. This is a delicious sauce to serve with rice puddings, apple dumplings, etc.
Brown Sauce.—One-half teaspoonful of brown sugar mixed with one-fourth of a cup of butter; add a pinch of hot water, a little vinegar, and as desired. Thicken with one tablespoonful of flour moistened with a little milk, and boil. This sauce should be served hot.

CLANDEBOYE.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
Clandeboye, March 13.—The ladies of the Farmers' Institute held the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Forté this afternoon. Mrs. Edwards, of Komoka, gave a short address, and answered several of the questions in the question bureau. A short discussion ensued regarding getting a new hall in the village for meetings and entertainments, and the ladies have offered to do a goodly share towards the same. At the close of the program refreshments were served.
