WATFORD, JULY 6, 1906.

Cows in the Corn.

In these days of woven wire and barbed wire fences it is an unusual happening for the farmers' horses or cattle to get out of bounds. It wasn't so when the editor was a boy.

"Hurry down boys," the farmer would often call up the stairway to his sons on many a rosy summer morn in days that are past.

"The old gray mare has knocked down the fence and the cattle are in the grain," would be the reason for the hurry up call. Those were the days of snake rail fences, and when it rained and the rails were slippery, all the old gray mare or the roan cow had to do was to rub hard against the obstruction. Ten or a dozen cows, or as many or more sportive young steers or heifers, and probably half a dozen horses, would be found tucking away the succulent oats or wheat blades in their capacious stomachs. But when a line fence went down and a neighbor's herd got in their was likely to be angry words spoken, and the collie dog was put into action.

The writer remembers one old red cow that could put down a snake fence corner as carefully as a man. This long remembered bossy would lift the rails on her horns and make a gap without disturbing the fence badly. Then she would give a low "moo" as a signal to the rest of the herd to follow her to pastures new. It was never safe to leave "Old Reddy" out at night without being blind folded.—Exchange.

A Tribute to King Edward.

"The Outlook," one of the best and most widely read of the better class of United States magazines, pays this deserved tribute:

"Few men have risen more rapidly in public confidence than the King of England. He has long been known as a very accomplished and agreeable man, with a gift of tact which amounts to genius, but during the last three or four years he has secured a foremost position as a diplomatist. His services to Europe have been signally successful and important, for he has everywhere appeared as a peacemaker; a man of extraordinary social experience, with a wide knowledge of different peoples, and quite a natural aptitude for getting on with them. Speaking several languages, he is peculiarly qualified by nature and by education to play the difficult role of interpreter and peacemaker; and he has played the role not only with great skill but with a directness and

No range can bake so well as the Imperial Oxford, because no other range has the Diffusive Oven Flue that draws in pure air constantly, heats it just as hot as you want it heated, and sends it through every part of the whole oven every second. That flue, found only in this perfect range, keeps that heated pure air—DRY air—constantly moving DOWNWARD through the oven, over the baking food, and out up the chimney. When it enters the oven it's hot and dry; when it leaves it, it's wet air, carries with it all the moisture, all the odors, but NONE of the juices of the food that's being baked.

Please visit any of our stores and see why this is the right range for your kitchen.

It certainly does do good baking sincerity which have won the confidence of Europe. He has brought France, Italy and Spain into cordial relations with England, and, if reports are to be trusted, he is now removing the causes of distrust between England and Germany. A meeting between him and the Emperor is expected at an early date, and it is believed that, as both men are seriously desirous of peace, the long tension between the two countries will be relieved. It is reassuring to know that the Prince of Wales seems to inherit much of his father's urbanity, tact and good feeling. His recent trip to India has resulted in the broadening of his views not a little and to the increased flexibility of mind and manner. His recent speech at the London Guildhall is described as being so broad and statesmanlike as to produce an excellent impression in the Far East. It is not many years since the business of kings was supposed to have been in its last stages but those kings who are willing to work hard and earn their honors have still a great place in the world. It requires no small ability in a king to adjust himself to modern conditions, to possess authority and to exercise it without seeming to assume it. This is precisely what the King of England has done. He is not an ornamental monarch; he is a working statesman."

Why go limping and whining about your corns when a 25-cent bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure will remove them? Give it a trial and you will not regret.

Saturday's dailies announced that Mr. A. T. Gurd, of Petrolia, had undertaken a contract to sink a test well at Beaver Dam, B. C. to a depth of 1,000 feet. Mr. Gurd is now on his way to Petrolia, we understand, to secure the necessary drilling rig and men. The well is to be sunk in side of six weeks time.

The July Westminster.

The Westminster for July comes as an old friend with a new face, changed in shape and cover design, enlarged and notably improved in letter press and illustrations. The contents are of remarkable interest. They comprise the opening Chapters of two serials by popular Canadian authors, "The Doctor," by Ralph Connor, and "The Pioneer," by Theodor Roberts. Among the illustrated articles may be mentioned "The Burns Country," R. S. G. A.; "The Race from Marathon and Some Phantasms of the Dead," by Principal Hutton; "Round about Kamloops," by J. C. Herdman, E. D.; "The Romance and Beauty of the St. Lawrence," by Robert Haddow, Principal Spranger, of Montreal, contributes the first of a series of articles on "The Great words of religion," his subject being "Sin," and Professor Adam Shortt, of Kingston, writes, with much insight, on "The relations of Canada and the United States." The usual departments are well maintained. The Westminster Company, Limited, Toronto.

Dr. Bell, inspector for the Provincial Board of Health, was in Dutton on Thursday and on Friday last visited the homes where persons have been afflicted with the disease which not a few declined to believe was small pox. The doctor, after a thorough examination, pronounced the disease small pox and gave directions to the officials that it is hoped will prevent its further spreading.

A LINIMENT FOR THE LOGGER.—Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparing timber for the drive and in river work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, when applied to the injured or administered to the ailing, works wonders.

Never Labored.

"Here's a man," said the defendant's counsel, with a tremulous voice, "here is a man handicapped at the very beginning of his life. From the time he lay a helpless infant in the cradle to this day, when he sits helpless under the pressure of years and affliction, he has labored under the name of Ishmael Aminebad Skeets."

He was about to say more when the plaintiff arose from her seat and shook a work worn forefinger in his direction. "I expected I was going to hear strange things in this court," she cried, with shrill indignation, "but I didn't expect to hear such foolish talk as that! There's never been a day in his life that Aminebad's labored nor thought of laboring. He's the most shiftless, lazy!"

But she resumed her seat, owing to a sudden pressure from her relatives in the rear, and the counsel, a little flushed, went on in a somewhat different strain.

Only One Side of the Moon.

Did you ever stop to consider the fact that the inhabitants of this earth have never seen but one side of the moon and to inquire the reasons why such should be the case? The explanation is this: The moon makes one revolution on her axis in the same period of time which she consumes in revolving once around the earth. Thus the same geographical regions of the moon are always toward us. One explanation usually calls for another. Therefore it may not be out of place to remark that the astronomers believe that the two motions so nearly coincide because the moon is not a true globe, the earth's influence having elongated the lunar world in the days when it was semi-liquid or at least soft.
