

The Export Development Corporation (EDC) also provides insurance, guarantees and funding which, alongside its consultative and credit arrangements, enables exporters of Canadian goods and services to compete with foreign companies. The Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) offers an annual program of bilateral aid, and through its Industrial Cooperation Branch also provides assistance for Canadian companies wishing to expand into this region through joint ventures and technology transfer with Dominican Republic partners.