My dear Sir Arthur;

I had a visit this morning from Mr. Chipman and Mr. Davies, representing the local Graduate Society, asking me to undertake the matter of the annual dinner of the local Graduates, and, without giving them a definite answer, I have undertaken to see what could be done within the next few days.

Naturally, the first question I asked them was whether or not it would be possible for you to attend, and I learned from Mr. Chipman that Mr. Jeakins had advised him, some days ago, that you might find this difficult.

I appreciate very much the innumerable claims you have on your time, but have written Mr. Jeakins on this subject to-day, asking him to discuss it with you again, and I hope that you will find it possible to arrange some date between now and the middle of May, on which you will find it possible to come here, because I seriously fear that, without your personal presence, we are going to have considerable difficulty in bringing this dinner off successfully.

Yours very truly,

NMM/S.
