

Falco borealis, Levaill.
Falco aquilinus, Bonap.
Buteo ferrugineus, L.
Accipiter ruficaudus, L.
Buteo fulvus and

Adult. — Tail bright narrow band of black; edge edgings on the head and brown spots and bands on other under parts pale brown, tinged with fuscous band across the abdomen white, unspotted, but with light rufous; under surface

Young. — Tail usually the same color, and with bands of dark-brown with dull white and white, sides of the breast irregular band on the coverts and tibiae with bill, blue-black; cere and iris pale amber.

Total length of female inches; tall, eight and a half fourteen inches; tail, eight and a half

The Red-tailed Hawk
New-England Sparrow
so well known
Every one has remarked able height, soaring oft-repeated cry
beneath him for the bird emitted
notice of birds
fly to a place of
of their whereabouts for he is often
towards a bird