Pack Saddle Appointment.

To-night at the armories, under the auspices of the G.G.B.G., an opportunity will be afforded the public of witnessing a display of the pack-saddle outfit invented by Lieut.-Col Hamilton Merritt, and brought to the notice of the British war office, who have been so much impressed by its mobility and usefulness in cavalry operations that they have appointed a British officer to report on it. An exhibition of the actual working of the saddle, as it would be used in active service, will be given.

given.
The Body Guard will also give some amusing sketches of western cowboy life, amongst others, "On the trail after a horse thief," "The hold - up of the Wells-Fargo Express," and other exciting pictures of western life.

St. Luke's Church Patronal Service St. Luke being the patron saint of this church, and to-morrow within the octave of the festival, the celebration will be added to the celebration of the celebration o will be added to the harvest thanks-giving. Carefully selected and pre-pared music will be rendered at all services.

DANGER SIGNAL RAISED IN LONDON.

There can be but one deduction from the almost abnormal figure of 6 per cent. Only on very grave occasions have such aggressive means been taken to preserve an equilibrium between the money market and the commercial markets. World-wide expansion is using up gold faster than it can be procured, and steps must be taken if a panic and ultimate calamity is to be averted. The wise administration of the world's leading financial institution are evidently seeking to prevent this. American inflationists, bloated by the unbounded prosperity that their country is witnessing, are attempting to more than discount all that is in sight. Yesterday's check will be beneficial if only for a temporary period. The signal of danger has been raised, and unless heed is given the results may prove disastrous. Canadians are showing a much more cautious spirit under the careful guidance of its leading financiers, but the financial fabric is so closely interwoven that disaster in the States must result in injury here. The Toronto stock market to-day felt the impact of the London announcement, but speculative accounts were too little extended to give such results as a highly speculative situation would effect.

Ennis & Stoppani wired to J. L. Mitchell, McKinnon Bullding:

Wheat—Wheat was again worse than dall, altho there was a better fluctuation. News items were generally of a bearish nature, and the traders considered the fact that the present specihlative interest is entirely inadequate to take care of the forty or fifty million bushels of wheat which has been placed in this market as hedges since the beginning of the present cereal year, and before the close of the session the realization appeared to be sufficiently vivid to cause quite a slump in prices, despite the small volume of bushorices, despite the small volume of bushorices, despite the small volume of bushorices.
