BELABORING JOHN BULL

London Correspondents Using Bitter Language

AGAINST GREAT BRITAIN.

The Continental Powers Blamed Also for Their Attitude.

Prestige of the Turkish Empire Restored in Spite of the Most Monstrous Assassinations in History, and Greece Crushed for Her Efforts in the Cause of Christian Liberty—Everything Regulated by the Tape in the Stock Exchange—The Sultan Laughs While Greece Bleeds—Danger of a Quarrel Between Russia and Austria Over the Balkans is Past.

New York, May 9.—Mr. Isaac N. Ford wires The Tribune to-day as follows:

"Lord Salisbury, when he last appeared at the Guildhall, could point to the results of his American diplomacy as convincing proof that he was not working outside the lines of morality and a progressive civilization. This privilege was denied him when he addressed the Primrose League at Albert Hall. Never was a Prime Minister received with greater enthusiasm by an immense audience of partisans of both sexes, never was a more cynical speech made than that in which Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett and Mr. Gladstone were pitted against each other in moral influence, and Greece was described as an excitable patient whom the Turks had been forced to put into a straight jacket. What other English statesmen could have rejoiced over the peaceful ascendancy of Great Britain in the councils of the world, when the Sultan's Government, instead of being punished for the most monstrous assassinations in history, has been allowed to crush Greece and to restore the prestige of Turkey as a fighting empire? All that Lord Salisbury can say in justification of two years' failures in diplomacy is that no outbreak of a general European war has occurred. It is not peace with honor.

"Meanwhile Greece, overwhelmed with disasters and bankruptcy, and menaced with revolution, has been sacrificed to the Russian ambition to be the exclusive inheritor of the Turkish empire, and the Sultan is glorified as a military hero, armed with the conquering sword of Mahomet. Whether the Sultan insists upon taking the Greek fleet as security for a war indemnity from a bankrupt state, or some other expedient for humiliating the unfortunate kingdom be adopted, the war must soon come to an end."

SHOUTING "ALLAH!"

Turks, Kurds and Circassians Advancing Towards the Greek Capital.

New York, May 9.—Mr. Harold Frederic says in his letter to The Times:

"The week closes this time with the spectacle of unbroken masses of the victorious Turks, Kurds and Circassians advancing toward the oldest capital of civilized Europe, shouting 'Allah' as they go, in deep-chested and exultant unison, with the noise described as like the roar of the tempest in a forest. The peoples of Europe are sick at heart at the sight, but their Governments unite in describing it as a beneficent triumph of humanity's highest interests. The sacred peace of the stock market is, happily, no longer in danger. Russia and Austria have amicably arranged how they will divide up the Ottoman empire when the melancholy necessity arises. Germany, meanwhile, has devoted numbers of her ablest soldiers, and material help as well, to the task of raising the Turkish army again into position as a magnificent fighting machine, admittedly superior to that with which the Sultan held the Czar at bay so long twenty years ago. The Christians remaining under Osmanli rule and their brothers just outside, who dream of rescuing them, have now been given sufficient lessons against restlessness to last them well into the next century. Such Armenians as happen to have survived these educational processes will walk a chalk line hereafter with painstaking solicitude. The Greeks have been thrashed as with a flail, and ask only to be allowed to creep away somewhere out of sight and bind up their wounds. The expectant Slavs of the Balkan fringe, awed at the shadow of the Hapsburg and Romanoff eagles spreading their united wings across the sky, have slunk back into their holes, and will not for their lives lift a finger. It is a most impressive and profound peace that the Emperors vouchsafed us. Not a sound is to be heard, save only that curious rumbling echo of "Allah, Allah," in the distance, and close at hand the sustained clicking of the tape, telling how prices are going up.

SULTAN LAUGHING AT GREECE.

Yet the Stock Markets Are Buoyant and Business is Improving.

York, May 9.—The London cor-ent of The Sun says: The week
the language of Mr. John Mor-

, and the Prime Minister of d making jest of it." Mr. Mor-sts further that every victory of gks is a European disaster.
is one view. The other and eneral one is that the disaster ece insures harmony among the
and the peace of Europe. The act is that business is improving, the ock markets are becoming buoyant, nd the interest which the great mass of Europeans take in the Graeco-Turkish war, at first keenly apprehensive, is now purely spectacular. It would be easy, politically speaking, to present a rosy outlook as the result of recent events in the East and in certain imperial capitals. It would not be difficult also to paint a gloomy picture of the same situation. One or two uncertainties are being gradually eliminated, but the veil still hides other essential features.

Reading Between the Lines

There is a remarkable article in The

SUNDAY CAR CAMPAIGN A WINNER.

The enthusiasm for Sunday cars is sweeping over the town. It is the sole topic of conversation. Sensible men have come to see that the question must be settled, and can only be settled in one way—by allowing those who want the cars to have them. People who have a legal right and a moral right to a great public convenience will not be deprived of that right. After the example of all great reforms, they will agitate till they get them, and the opponents of the cars are simply running against a stone wall in their efforts to stop men who ask for their rights. History, incident, facts, are all against the restrictionists. Liberty never dies, but always triumphs. The World is for liberty.

The change in public opinion on the question is marvelous, notwithstanding the bluster of the antis. There are thousands of men who voted against the cars before who will vote for them on Saturday. Any man can ascertain this fact by enquiry of his neighbors. That is one great fact.

Then there is the great quiet vote, who will not tell the canvassers how they intend to vote. But there is good reason for knowing that they will vote yea. Men do not wish to be bothered with the persistent attack that is made on them in their homes and through members of their families, and they avoid annoyance and needless discussion by keeping counsel to themselves. Our advice to the friends of Sunday cars is to say nothing, but to go and vote. Votes count more than words.

The business men of the city are for Sunday cars.

The great bulk of the workingmen are for Sunday cars.

Hundreds of ladies will vote for Sunday cars who did not vote for them before. Plenty of them have called at this office to say so.

James Roadknight, a waiter at the Queen's, called at The World to deny the statement that appeared in The News to the effect that the waiters were opposed to Sunday cars. Mr. Roadknight says there are 18 waiters at the Queen's, of whom only three are against the bylaw, all the others being in favor of it. Every one of the 15 waiters at the Rossin House wants Sunday cars. The waiters as a rule live a long distance from their work, and they would welcome the cars as a godsend.

A vote on Sunday cars was taken in the printing department at Warwick Bros. & Rutter. Twenty-three voted for and three against the bylaw.

Similar votes have been taken in many factories, in militia companies, in banks, in stores, in offices, and the majorities are from 5 to 3 for to 1 against.

In the Blake law firm, clerks included, Mr. Samuel Blake is a minority of one. Several of the members of his firm signed the citizens' manifesto in favor of cars.

In the Dominion Bank there are 30-odd votes for to 3 against the cars.

There is one consideration that is driving hundreds for Sunday cars, and that is the attempt of some of the clergy of the city to make that a moral and religious issue which has not been so regarded in any other city in the world. Sunday cars are not immoral. The clergy of Hamilton, of St. Catharines, of Merritton, of Niagara Falls, of Windsor, of the Beamsville line out from Hamilton, of Montreal, of Quebec, of St. John, of Halifax, of Vancouver, of Victoria, the clergy in none of these places have made any such issue. Nay, more, the statistics go to show that 70 per cent. of those who use the cars in all these places are church-goers. The main bulk of the receipts of the cars in these places is taken immediately before the opening and immediately after the close of church services. The ministers of Hamilton use the Sunday cars. So they do in St. John, in Halifax, and the rest of the cities. So they will in Toronto after next Saturday.

A GREAT BIG SCHEME

To Build an Immense Departmental Living House in Toronto With a Roof Garden.

A great, big scheme is on foot in Toronto to build an immense departmental living house. The promoters are known as the Toronto Industrial Club (Limited), with a proposed capital stock of $300,000, divided into 30,000 $10 shares. The building is to be a monster one, 200 feet square, and six or eight storeys high. It is proposed to erect it in the central part of the city and to have an immense restaurant in the basement capable of seating 600 people. A big concert hall is also part of the scheme, and on the roof there is to be a magnificent promenade and roof garden. The building is to contain 600 beds, and, as the prospectus says, this will add to much-needed hotel accommodation in Toronto. The promoters expect to fill all these rooms with students, transients and families who are now living in places and houses that do not offer the same attractions. It is expected that this monster establishment will do away with many of the old rookeries in certain parts of the city. The prospectus is now being circulated in the city and bears the name of William Clark, D. C. L., as chairman of the preliminary meetings, and D. W. Ross, B. A., as secretary.

GREECE IS GIVING WAY

Will Begin Withdrawing Troops From Crete.

POWERS WILL THEN STEP IN

And Offer to Settle the Matter Between the Combatants.

Col. Vassos Has Arrived at Athens—The Powers Will Insist That Greece Shall Have No Say in the Settlement—Turks Reconnoitering Around Domokos, Having Occupied Both Velestino and Volo—The Sultan's Forces Have Been Greatly Decimated in the Fighting—Specimen of Greek Valor—Latest News From the Front.

Athens, May 8, 11 p.m.—The Government has informed the Ministers of the powers verbally that following the recall from Crete of Col. Vassos' officers and two companies of sappers, the gradual withdrawal of troops from the Island of Crete will take place. After a brief delay, the powers will offer to mediate between Greece and Turkey. The powers will insist, however, that Greece shall confide her interests unreservedly to their hands. Negotiations have commenced, and mediation is regarded as imminent.

Talk of an Armistice

Athens, May 9, 1.30 a.m.—It is believed that an armistice of a fortnight between Greece and Turkey will be agreed upon. Col. Vassos has just arrived from Crete.

Turks Feeling Around Domokos

Despatches received here from Domokos, the headquarters of the Greek army, to-day, say that the Turkish cavalry, making a reconnaissance, approached within two hours of Domokos, but retreated on the approach of the Greeks, who were ordered to pursue the enemy. The Greeks followed the Turkish cavalry to the advance posts of the enemy's lines.

Prince Constantine's forces occupy all the passes through which the Turkish troops must pass when they advance, notably those of Agoriani and Tiamasse.

The inhabitants of Domokos are going into the interior.

The admiral in command of the Greek squadron at Volo telegraphed to-day, saying that the French and British consuls at Volo, accompanied by the commanders of the French, British and Italian warships, have had a conference at Velestino with Edhem Pasha, the Turkish commander. The latter promised to respect the inhabitants and property at Volo, provided the Greek squadron engaged to refrain from hostilities and retire beyond range.

All the foreigners at Volo have embarked for other parts and the town is now empty.

Turks Occupy Velestino

Washington, May 8.—The Turkish legation to-night received the following cablegram from Constantinople: "Edhem Pasha, who is now at Velestino, telegraphs under date of to-day that the French and British consuls at Volo called upon him this evening in order to state in their own names and those of their colleagues that the Greek troops had evacuated the place, after having released the convicts, and they requested him to send at once forces to occupy the town and to secure the public order and safety. Ten battalions, therefore, sent for that purpose to Volo, entered and occupied the city."

Turks in Volo Also

Constantinople, May 8.—Before leaving Volo the Greeks opened all the prisons. The British and French consuls invited the Turkish commander to occupy the town immediately. Enver Bey and ten battalions entered the town at 11 a.m. to-day. The Turks have already established a system of street patrol.

Turks Lost Heavily

London, May 9.—A despatch to The Observer, from Athens, dated yesterday (Saturday), says that the officials and consuls of Salonica report that the Turkish losses in killed, wounded and sick during the recent campaign will reach 38,000.

A despath to The Observer from Rome, dated yesterday (Saturday), says that Germany unreservedly supports the demands made by Turkey upon Greece.

Brilliant Dash by the Greeks

Volo, May 8.—A stirring incident in connection with the battle at Velestino has just been reported. Gen. Smolenski, with something of the magnetic enthusiasm attributed to Skobeloff, rode along the lines, addressing the soldiers and imploring them to remember the traditions of their race, if need be, till the sacred soil of Thessaly should be saturated with their blood. It was like an inspiration. Both uniformed soldiers and men with only bandoliers filled with cartridges the belts around their native attire, cheered and gripped their rifles more firmly. They gave another shout of determination and indulged in reckless, wild, but sometimes searching shell fire. The Turks fired volley after volley steadily on their intrepid enemy. Then the Greeks left the shelter of the trenches and charged with wild shouts. The Turks quivered for a moment and retired in confusion to the shelter of the mountain ridges. It was a brilliant Greek success.

Women and Children Rescued.

Athens, May 9.—The Greek western squadron has rescued large numbers of women and children from villages along the Epirus coast, threatened by the Turks. Styris, near Lanca, has been made the port for revictualling the Greek army. Some Greek troops from Velestino have embarked on the Greek men-of-war at Volo.

King George Yielding.

London, May 9.—The Athens correspondent of The Times says: "So great is the change in public sentiment that no opposition whatever is evoked by the decision to recall the army from Crete. King George, who was believed to be unapproachable on this subject, has finally yielded with good grace."

CHAMBERLAIN'S TRIUMPH.

Transvaal Situation Shows Improvement,

GREAT CHANGE IN FEELING

Which Began on the Arrival of Sir Charles Milner from the Cape.

Boers Apparently Impressed by the Resolute Military Preparations of Great Britain — They Are Now Willing to Withdraw From All Objectionable Positions and Make Friends—The Withdrawal of the Alien Immigration Law is An Important Concession to English Opinion.

New York, May 9.—The London correspondent of The Times says: "A remarkable change in feeling about the Transvaal outlook began here to-day, after Sir Charles Milner's arrival from the Cape, and continues to spread. Apparently the Boers have been impressed by the resolute military preparations made on such a big scale by Mr. Chamberlain. At all events, President Kruger and his peace party seem to have regained control now, and are willing to withdraw from all positions objectionable to England to make friends. Sir Charles Milner's cleverness in having learned not only Dutch, but Boer patois, neither of which he knew a word three months ago, strikes a pleasant note in people's minds as an augury of his wise management all round. Even the city begins to say that now, probably, the whole trouble will blow over."

Chamberlain May Crow

A London despatch to The Tribune says Mr. Chamberlain can already boast that his vigorous policy in South Africa is proving successful. The repeal of the alien immigration law, which forced foreigners in the Transvaal to furnish proof that they support themselves, is an important concession to English opinion. President Kruger's reply to Mr. Chamberlain's note is conciliatory, and foreshadows the willingness of the Transvaal to respect the obligations of the treaty of London. His alleged racy comment on the equipment of the Flying Squadron a year ago, "The old woman just sneezed, and Germany was nowhere to be seen," has put all England in good humor. Altogether, the British Government can plume themselves upon the immediate effects of the despatch of troops to the Cape, and vote $1,000,000 for additional defences. The Boers are evidently impressed with the fact that Mr. Chamberlain is in earnest, and that Germany cannot be depended upon to fight their battles. Interest in the South African enquiry will be revived momentarily when cable despatches now in possession of the committee are revealed. The mystery has been deepened by the delay in producing them, but it is not considered probable that they implicate any titled personages among the directors of the Chartered Company.

SUNDAY CARS IN HAMILTON.

Rev. Dr. Beavis Has Never Seen Any Bad Results from the Service on the Sabbath.

Hamilton, May 9.—(Special to The World.)—Rev. Dr. Beavis, the leading Congregational minister of Hamilton, does not share the uneasiness felt by so many of his clerical brethren of Toronto in regard to Sunday cars.

Speaking to a World reporter yesterday, Dr. Beavis said: "It is a matter of creed with me that the majority rules. If the majority of people in Toronto want Sunday cars they should have them, and then if there is anything wrong about the service it will come out. No, I have never seen any bad results come from the Hamilton service, and where necessary to do so, I do not hesitate to use it. I don't believe that Canadians would abuse the privilege as they have done in some portions of the United States, and I have never known a church here injured by it. Sunday cars, where the employes are not forced to work seven days in the week, cannot, it seems to me, be regarded in the same light as a service where the men get no rest at all."

MERY DEL VAL IS HERE

The Papal Ablegate a Guest at the Palace,

ST. MICHAEL'S WAS CROWDED

At Both Services When His Excellency Participated.

Both the Laity and the Clergy Present Addresses to the Distinguished Visitor Who Is on His Way to Winnipeg—The Ablegate's Reply—Father Ryan Delivers an Interesting Sermon in the Morning on the Relations Between Church and State—Mgr. Mery del Val's Movements in Toronto.

"He comes as a messenger of peace; God grant that he may succeed in his mission."

Such were the significant words which fell from the lips of Rev. Father Ryan, who preached in St. Michael's Cathedral yesterday morning to a congregation of Protestants as well as adherents of his own faith. The assemblage had gathered together to see honor done to Rome's Pontifical Envoy, Mgr. Mery Del Val. It was to His Excellency's business in our country that the eloquent divine was referring.

Who Were There.

To avoid anticipated overcrowding, the admission to the edifice was obtained by tickets of invitation, and among the more prominent of those who had availed themselves of the courtesy extended, were Hon. A. S. Hardy and Mrs. Hardy, Hon. William Harty, His Worship Mayor Fleming, Rev. Principal Burwash and Mrs. Burwash, Lieut.-Col. Mason, Rev. Dr. Dewart, Mr. Hartley Dewart, Mr. George McGann, Mr. M. J. Healy and a host of others.

Solemn high mass was chanted by the distinguished guest, and at the conclusion of the service he was presented with an address from the laity, to which he made a most fitting but non-committal reply.

In the Sanctuary.

In the sanctuary, draped with the papal colors, orange and white, His Grace Archbishop Walsh presided pontifically. The celebrant was assisted by Rev. Father Coyne as deacon and Rev. Father Cruise as sub-deacon, while Rev. Father Tracy acted in the trying role of master of ceremonies. Rev. Fathers Brennan, Marijon, C.S.B., McEntee and Hand and Rev. Vicar-General McCann, also assisted in the service, while about 35 members of the Knights of St. John, led by the following officers, Col. Keils, Major Harnett, Capt. Farley, Lieut. Kively, Lieut. McCormack, and Adjutant Hogan, acted as a guard of honor to the Papal Ablegate.

Father Ryan's Sermon.

The preliminary services concluded, Rev. Father Ryan preached a sermon on the significant topic of "The Relations between Church and State."

Rev. Father Ryan took for his text: "Let every soul be subject to higher powers, for there is no power but from God, and the powers that are are ordained of God. Render, therefore, to all their dues, tribute to whom tribute is due, custom to whom custom, fear to whom fear, honor to whom honor. . . . He that loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law." Romans xiii., 1.

Taking his thought from this text, Rev. Father Ryan, rector of the Cathedral, spoke substantially as follows:

Your Excellency, Your Grace, Rev. Fathers, Dearly Beloved Brethren.—The words I have selected from St. Paul's Epistle seem to suggest some important and practical reflections, suited to the feast and the special celebration of to-day. It is the Feast of St. Joseph, forefather of the child Jesus, head of the Holy Family and patron of the universal church. It is in the highest and largest sense a family festival. There are three great families on earth—the home, the State and the church—and these three families are well and worthily represented here to-day. I will speak to you, therefore, on the nature and relations of these three families, these three societies, domestic, civil and religious.

The Family

The preacher said: This comes first in order of time, and the first family was cre-

The Congregation Objected.

During the morning service at Bond-street Congregational Church yesterday the secretary read a plea by the anti-Sunday car people asking for scrutineers to act during the vote on Saturday next. Many of the congregation did not like this sort of work, and some plain talk was indulged in. The trustees met and decided to prohibit a repetition of the reading of the plea in the evening.
