

WOMEN AS FACTORS IN SALVATION ARMY

General Booth Tells Women's Canadian Club of Universal Feminine Progress.

Convocation Hall held a large gathering of members of the Canadian Women's Club yesterday afternoon when General Bramwell Booth of the Salvation Army was the speaker and guest of the occasion. A contingent of women members of the Army had seats upon the platform, where they awaited the coming of the General, who entered with Miss Church, president of the Canadian Women's Club, and chairman of the meeting.

In her introduction, Miss Church quoted the selection from "Abou Ben Adam," applying it to General Booth, who, she said, had as the foundation of his work, his love and enthusiasm for his fellow-men.

The address of the general might be divided into two parts, the first referring to his home life as a child, in which he gave many personal recollections of his father and mother, and the second division, in which he spoke of the education of the day and a plea for the audience of women to use their influence in order that the spiritual might have place in the training of the children of the country.

In his introductory, General Booth expressed his appreciation at what women had done and were doing, and congratulated the gathering upon the place women are taking in the affairs of the world. He said, always felt that women were entitled to have place on an equality with men, and this had always been a plank in the platform of the Salvation Army. One woman, Catherine Booth, his mother, had been a great influence on the Salvation Army, her work being complementary to that of his father, who was of a pioneer mind, and saw things from a new angle and had the gift of converting his designs into actualities.

The speaker referred to the love letters of his parents, which showed that they did not always agree on various points, yet the strong affection between them always brought matters to a right. The harassed by poverty, a large family and a wife always delicate, the founder of the Army had never spoken to his wife but in words that might have fallen from the lips of a young lad to his girl. The children did not receive the same leniency, for, as reported by his son, the father, "when he was not pleased with us, he had great liberty of speech." The voice of the mother, however, in the family was dominant and always made for constancy, fidelity and truth.

Referring to the work of the Army, General Booth said that since 1878, women had been given place in command on an equality with men, and in different parts of the world are holding office societies that had been formerly by men now under them. Women are in charge of the unit, division, province and territory, his sister, Commissioner Eva, being in command of the territory of the United States. Agitation is now going on in England in reference to the place of woman in the establishment, and he looked forward to the time when women would take their place in its pulpits, in the cabinet and in the house of lords.

Coming to the matter of education, the speaker was glad, he said, to see attention given it, but wondered if it could not be overdone. Might not education become a fetish or a juggernaut, crushing out of the children all originality. He appealed to the audience to use their influence to have the spiritual remembered in education. In traveling about the world, he saw that education was largely confined to the physical and intellectual. "I might perhaps secure a Roman or a Greek, but the child's soul," was a statement made with emphasis. He warned the mothers to see that their children were not treated like a Roman or a Greek, and stated that the lack of the spiritual was one of the causes of the unrest of today. People are ready to receive any new thing, but they are not ready to receive the things that are old and true. He said that the spiritual was one of the things that were being lost, and that the spiritual was one of the things that were being lost.

A vote of thanks was moved by Miss Stronach and seconded by Miss Dent. The singing of "O Canada" closed the meeting.

GRENELL UNFAIR TO NEWFOUNDLAND

Dr. Mossell Keen Critic—Big Hotel to Be Built in St. John's.

A 200-room hotel to cost in the neighborhood of a million dollars is to be erected next year in St. John's, Newfoundland. This deep-sea fishing centre and favorite tourist resort is at present practically without hotel accommodation, and the project to build such a substantial structure is regarded there as a distinct progressive feature. The hotel will be operated as a standard hotel by the United Hotels Company, but the capital invested will be strictly local. The Newfoundland government will back the project strongly, and has made many encouraging concessions.

A conference to finally decide matters pertaining to the hotel and its operation was held at St. John's last night in the King Edward Hotel here last night between George H. O'Neill, general manager of the hotel, the Hon. Sydney D. Bennett, high sheriff of Newfoundland, Dr. H. M. Mossell, managing editor of The St. John Daily Star, and B. B. Stafford, a leading wholesale drug merchant of St. John's. These last three gentlemen are the promoters of the project.

Attacks Dr. Grenfell. "St. John's certainly does need a hotel of this sort," said Dr. Mossell. "It is one of the finest tourist resorts anywhere, and is visited by people from all over the world. As an illustration of this necessity, I will tell you that during this present season nearly 8,000 tourists were refused passage to St. John's on Red Cross line steamers because there was not sufficient hotel accommodation for them in our city. This same thing happens every year."

Dr. Mossell bitterly attacked Dr. W. T. Grenfell and the Grenfell mission in Labrador and Newfoundland. "Dr. Grenfell is deliberately misleading people about conditions in Newfoundland," said Dr. Mossell. "After hearing him one would think that our island was a bleak, icebound region, where everybody was poor, sick, and suffering. Regarding the climate, it is a fact that our winters are not as rigorous as yours here. We rarely have weather below zero, and St. John's harbor is open all the year round. Neither are we poverty-stricken. To cite an average case: a fisherman with his two sons can make in a year nearly $2,500 and not have to work all the year at that. Ypt. Dr. Grenfell comes to Canada and raises money for missions to aid the poverty-stricken people of Labrador, and then tells me that he is not at all popular in Newfoundland."

TO REGULATE SPEED IN TORONTO PARKS

Civic Committee on Legislation
Will Seek Powers to Restrict Drivers.

The committee on parks and exhibitions yesterday agreed with Commissioner Chambers that the regulation of motor cars and trucks in the city parks, and it was decided to ask the committee on legislation to seek to have powers conferred on municipalities to regulate the speed of cars in the parks. The committee pointed out that the great number of picnickers who make use of the parks in the summer time rendered it necessary for their safety to restrict motorists to a much lower rate of speed. The committee also recommended that 240 cords of wood now in the hands of the city department be turned over to the House of Industry who will distribute it to the needy. The wood is mostly from dead trees down in the parks in the past summer. The cost of the wood is estimated at $350.

Mrs. A. H. Hamilton questioned whether the city should be asked to deliver the wood to the House of Industry. The committee pointed out that the wood is mostly from dead trees down in the parks in the past summer. The cost of the wood is estimated at $350.

A communication to the committee from Rev. Dr. Mackie, provost of Trinity College, said that Trinity hoped to get started on the erecting of the new college buildings in the spring and to complete them by August, 1922. It will therefore be sometime yet before the city will get the full benefit of Trinity Park, which is now under lease to the college.

OXO GENERATES HEAT

Concentrated Beef Cubes Fortify
Body Against Chills.

An Oxo cube dissolved in a cup of hot water is a splendid thing to take before going out in the cold or damp, or on coming in, if one feels the slightest ill effects. Besides its nourishing and invigorating properties, Oxo acts as a fuel in the body, generating heat that the system requires.

Oxo cubes—in tins of four and ten cubes—have endless possibilities. For soups, sauces, gravies, savory dishes and meat jellies, they do all that meat could do, and do it quicker and with less trouble. Use Oxo cubes with "left-overs" and oddsends for new, delicious dishes.

There is nothing better than Oxo for building sturdy boys and girls.

Buying Supplies With Their Own Money—New Enrances for School.

Some Toronto public school teachers have been too generous with their money, according to Miss Constance Boulton's statement at the meeting of the finance committee of the board of education yesterday. Miss Boulton stated that owing to a shortage of supplies for the kindergarten primary classes, the teachers had bought them out of their private funds.

Chief Inspector R. H. Cowley stated that the teachers should not have done this, as there were ample supplies of the materials needed for the year had not been fully expended.

Teachers are to be secured for an iron fence and gates on the Close avenue front at Parkdale Collegiate Institute.

Harbord Street Collegiate Institute is to have new entrances at a cost of $2,750.

As Norway Public School is ready for a manual training equipment, one is to be put in there. The cost will be defrayed by transferring a similar appropriation from the Huron Street School, where the equipment will not be required this year.

WANTS WORKERS FOR THE FAR EAST

General Booth Is Out to Obtain Thousand People to Undertake Task.

The raising of a force of Salvationists to undertake work in the non-Christian countries of the far east was declared by General Bramwell Booth of the Salvation Army yesterday in an interview with The World to be the principal object of his visit to Canada. The general outlined the organism and resources which would be employed in the projected campaign, and, in referring to the organization's plans for expansion, did not fail to acknowledge the support it had received in its present efforts, stating that only because of the public prestige which it at present enjoyed, was it able to embark upon any policy for growth.

The present moment, the general continued, was particularly opportune for the extension of the Army's work to the non-Christian countries of the east. Governments, he declared, were anxious for the coming of the Salvationists, and the way was open in India, China, districts in Southern Africa, and even in Arabia, the heart of Mahomedanism, in fulfilling the needs of these countries, India, General Booth stated, would have first consideration and China second.

The financial aspect of the campaign was, he stated, not a serious one. The educational phase of the work was particularly urgent, he stated, in view of the organization's previous policy of appealing to the parents and relying upon them for the child's proper upbringing. With the extension of the work to the eastern countries, however, this policy had, he declared, to be superseded by one of careful education for the young.

In conclusion, General Booth declared his earnest prohibition against the use of liquor and equality of women had always been cardinal planks in the Army's platform, and were now being accepted by at least all civilized nations.
