stem, it follows that, when there is a demand for extraordinary exertion, its use is invaluable, since it applies the waste through the circulation, and sustains the general system.

At no period of life is watchful care over the functions of the brain more requisite than during the acquisition of knowledge by the youth: plodding, persevering study requires a store of vigorous, nervous force, or the child may sink under the mental toil.

Stern necessity may compel the student to strain his powers beyond the dictates of prudence, and the early promise of excellence may be blighted thereby.

To such we recommend Fellows' Hypophosphites; it will not only restore the sinking patient, but its use will enable the toiling student to preserve his mental and nervous standard without detriment.

Although the virtues of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites are such that no other remedy is often required, yet it is necessary that a proper regard for cleanliness, pure air, sleep, judicious exercise and regimen should be observed.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good," though bearing a similar name, and of those who offer the cheaper priced article.

NOTE.—It is only the Independent, well-posted, and unselfish Physician who can afford to prescribe this remedy. Experience has proved this. The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

than my own prescription of the Hypophosphites. For several years I have continued to prescribe it, in many cases with very beneficial results. Since, upon solicitation, you kindly afforded me a more intimate knowledge of the composition of your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, I have used it freely in my practice, both in diseases of the chest, as consumption and bronchitis, etc., and in infantile diseases of the prima via, or stomach and bowels, with eminent success, considering it superior to any similar preparation yet offered to the public. Thanking you for your kind information,

I remain, yours truly,
