ODD ITEMS FROM EVERYWHERE.

It was during one of the moonlight nights of a week ago that a Parkhurst. Me., farmer opened his eyes and found his room as light as day. He jumped out of bed and looked at the clock. One hand was a trifle past 12 and the other was on the six. "Half past 13x," he shouted to his wife. "Get up and hurry with breakfast or I shall be late." In his haste in building the fires he used for kindling the late papers and his wife's stockings. He then ran to the barn to harness his team. One of the boys crawled out, looked at his watch and remarked that the 'old thing had stopped again. Breakfast was hurriedly prepared and eaten; then the good wife looked at the clock and saw it was 1.30.

During the 48-mile wind the other night was 1.30.

During the 48-mile wind the other night a section of the wharf in Old Tacoma was washed from its piling and floated out to sea. On the wharf stands a small grocery store owned by a man named Johnson. The proprietor and two customers were in the proprietor and two customers were in the store at the time the dock floated away, taking the building with it. For several hours the groceryman and his customers were at the mercy of the waves, but the dock did not overturn, and finally was captured by a tug, brought to shore and safely moor-ad.

E. Stillwell, a Warrensburg, Mo., man, has exhibited to the wondering gaze of local news gatherers, a horseshoe which he says was taken out a few days ago from between two ledges of limestone in an excavation for a well on his premises. The diggers had gone down 21 feet, largely through sandstone, when they struck a limestone ledge. A blast was put in and the ledge shattered. When the spawis had been shoveled out there lay the horshoe in a crevice on top of another limestone ledge. The shoe is an old-fashioned blacksmith made article, and is of a pattern used by the government 40 years ago. Warrensburg is wondering how it got there. The world could not get along today without iron and copper. The entire loss of all the gold and silver in the world would not be nearly so serious as would be a sudden exhaustion of all the iron and copper, since iron is used for all purposes of construction, and copper is an absolute requisite in the use of electricity to the enormous extent which now obtains?

Sometimes the jokes of one generation become the sober facts of the next. Years ago Bret Harte satirized an attempt to buy St. Thomas and Thomas Nast made pictures of Uncle Sam on board a warship shooting the Spaniard off the Island of Cuba. Both jokes have materialized.

It is related of Samuel Alvin Sperry, who has just died in Reno county, Kansas, that he was one of a family of 14 children, all of whom lived to be more than 75 years old. Greek and Roman wines were perfumed, generally by steeping the leaves of roses or violets in the liquor until it had acquired the odor of the flowers.

The Chilaese have a curious legend as to how the custom of throwing rice at weddings originated. ROMANCE OF LI HUNG CHANG.

How Great Chinese Statesman Made a Mistake in Marrying Second Time.

The romantic complication in the life of the late Machiavelli of China, Li Hung Chang, is amusing or tragic, according as one may choose to look at it, says the New York World.

Earl Li, early in his distinguished career, took a wife. During the Taining rebellion Earl Li, early in his distinguished career, took a wife. During the Taiping rebellion his wife had to fly to the interior for safety, where she lived for many months without communicating with her husband. The Chinese statesman, meanwhile, thinking his wife had perished with other victims in the massacre enlisted the sympathies of the Emperor, who ordered a magnificent funeral. The empty coffin was followed to the grave with all pomp and ceremony of state by Li Hung Chang and representatives of the Emperor. After a period of mourning Li Hung Chang took unto himself another wife and settled down again to domestic felicity. Then the first wife appeared. She had narrowly escaped the massacre, and had been living with her family. Mrs. Chang No. 1 took exception to Mrs. Chang No. 2, and wished to be reinstated as principal wife, but the law of China does not allow polygamy.

wife, but the law of China does not allow polygamy.

Li Hung Chang was in a great stew. In despair he applied to the Emperor. The Emperor said Mrs. Chang No. 1 had been accorded a state funeral; therefore, to all intents and purposes, she was dead, and he advised his minister to ignore her, which he did. As women are treated as mere chattels in China, the first wife did not demur, but went back to her family, among whom she died. to recover its dignity, an executive

SENATORS OF THE

McLaurin of South Carolina Called Tillman a Liar.

The Latter Punched His Colleague in the Head and a Wild Scrimmage Followed.

Both Senators Suspended, and Presi dent Roosevelt Cancelled His Invitation to Mr. Tillman to Dine With Prince Henry of Prussia at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.- In the senate this afternoon Senator McLaurin of South Carolina called his colleague, Senator Tillman, a liar. Tillman, who sat a few seats away, jumped over to McLaurin's seat and punched him in the head. McLaurin struck back, and Senator Warren of Wyoming and Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Layton grabbed the fighting senators and held them apart.

After a moment's confusion, Mc-Laurin attempted to renew his speech, which he said had been so lously interrupted. Mr. For aker (Rep., Ohio), rose to say that there should be some way to prevent the dignity of the senate. Mr. Burrows (Rep., Mich.), shouted: senate cannot afford to let this pass.' Then Mr. Foraker moved that the senate go into executive session, which

The row occurred as a result of Sen ator Tillman's remarks, made earlier in the day, when he charged that the vote of a democratic senator had been improperly secured for the ratification of the treaty with Spain. Mr. Spoone (Rep., Wis.) repeatedly demanded that Tillman name the senator. This he refused to do, but finally said that it was a senator who had since received the patronage of a state in return for his vote.

"What state?" said Spooner. "South Carolina?" replied Tiliman.
"Then," said Spooner, "I leave it to the senator to fight it out with his colleague."

Mr.McLaurin was not in the chamber at the time. He came in later and sat, with a typewritten paper in his hand, in his regular seat about fifty feet from Mr. Tillman, in the same row of chairs. As soon as he got an opportunity Mr. McLaurin rose and apologized for bringing up a subject that had so often been referred to before.

Controlling himself with an effort, speaking very calmly with a carefully modulated tone, Mr. McLaurin said, and his words cut through the senate chamber like a knife: "I desire to state, Mr. President, I would not use as strong language as I intend had I not soon after the senate met replied to these insinuations and said that they were untrue. "I now say," continued Mr. McLauword, and half turning toward his colleague, Mr. Tillman, who sat in the same row only three seats away, "that the statement is a willful, malicious and deliberate lie." Mr. McLaurin got no further with his statement. TILLMAN ATTACKS MCLAURIN. Mr. Tillman, who was occupying his regular seat on the main aisle, sprang with tiger-like ferocity at his col-

Mr. Teller (Colorado), who was sit-ting at his desk between the two South Carolina senators, was swept aside without ceremony. Indeed, the infuriated Tillman climbed over him in his effort to reach Mr. McLaurin. Without the slightest hesitation Mr. Mc-Laurin sprang to meet the attack half way. Mr. Tillman simed a wild blow at his colleague with his right fist. It landed upon Mr. McLaurin's forehead, just above the left eye, although its force was partially spent upon Mc-Laurin's arm, which he had raised in an effort to parry the blow. Instantly McLaurin's right arm sho out, the blow landing upon Tillman's face, apparently upon the nose. Again Tillman struck out frantically, this time with his left hand. The blow did not land upon McLaurin. Then followed a wild scrimmage, both senators clutching at each other madly. Senators Warren and Scott, both of whom are powerful men, rushed to-ward the combatants to separate them. Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Layton sprang over desks in his effort to each the belligerent senators.

Just as he seized McLaurin, Tillman aimed a left-handed blow at his colleauge, which struck Mr. Laylon in the face. Fortunately, the blow, was glancing and did no special harm.

FIGHTING SENATORS TORN APART.

Mr. Layton tore them apart. Both senators still were striking wildly at each other, some of the blows landing upon Mr. Layton.

An instant later the angry senators were pinioned in the arms of Senators They were dragged further apart, although they still made ineffectual efforts to get at each other. Finally they were forced into their seats.

Mr. McLaurin, although very pale, seemed to be the calmer of the two. Mr. Tillman was as white as a sheet. As he sat down in his seat he drew his handkerchief from his pocket and wiped blood from his face that seem-ingly was flowing slightly from the nose. Until that time it had not been supposed that blood had been drawn in the encounter. During the fight senators all over the chamber were on their feet. Not a word, however, was spoken. The senate never in its history had received such a shock. The presiding officer (Mr. Frye) vainly used his gavel to restore order and to bring the senate to its usual decorous condition. And finally, in or-der to give the senate an opportunity apologies were made by the two sena apologies were made by the two sena-tors, but no action was taken by the senate to declare them purged of con-tempt. Tillman coupled his apology with a long statement, in substance declaring that under the circumstances he could not have acted otherwise. McLaurin, while regretting the intem-perate language, justified it by the brutal attack that had been made on his honor and integrity his honor and integrity. He began a warning in the nature of a threat against any future accusations that he was bribed to vote for the Paris treaty, but one of the senators sitting near him persuaded him to st down, leaving the sentence unfinished. The senate took no action on their apologies and did not remove the bar of contempt. They addressed the senate today by special vote of the body, but will not be permitted to speak again until permission is granted or the ban removed. This may not be for a week or ten days, or until after the committee has acted

SNUBBED BY THE PRESIDENT. WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.-The pre sident has withdrawn his invitation extended to Senator Tillman of South extended to Senator Tillman or Security of Prince Henry of Prussia at the White House. It is stated that this action on the part of ident was made necessary from the fact that owing to occurrences on the floor of the senate last Saturday the senator from South Carolina was leclared in contempt of the senate Senator Morgan of Virginia, a member of the committee on naval affairs, has accepted an invitation in Mr. Tillman's The invitation was extended originally to Mr. Tillman owing to the fact that he is the ranking minority member of the naval affairs commit-

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24:-Senator Frye, president pro tem of the senate, gave directions to the clerks of the senate today that the names of the Senators Tillman and McLaurin of South Carolina must not be called on roll calls until further notice. This fixes the status of the senators, who are practically suspended from all senatorial functions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.-The folowing is the letter from the White withdrawing Mr. Tillman's invitation to dine there tonight;

White House, Feb. 24, 1902. "The president regrets that he is compelled to withdraw the invitation to you to dine tonight at the White

TILLMAN'S COMMENTS.

Commenting upon the letter Mr. Tillman says: "The president, of course, has the right to invite anyone he chooses to dine with him officially or otherwise, and also has the right to withdraw such invitation. As I am not conscious of having done anything personal or official which gives the esident the right to insult me, I am surprised at his action. The invitation to the dinner came to me unsought and unexpectedly, and so far as the withdrawal is concerned it is a matter of motive behind it, which seeks to put me in the condition of unworthiness to meet the president and his guests before final action by the senate. Prince Henry, the president's guest, comes from a country where custom makes it obligatory upon any man who regards himself a gentleman to promptly resent an insult, and the method is by challenge to a duel. That was once the custom here, but it is now obsolete. We have been forced as a people here to cling to the uld Anglo-Saxon rule of considering the lie direct as the first blow, and no man could hold up his head in decent rociety should he be near enough to answer the lie with a blow not to give it. "As for my being in contempt of the senate which, I presume, is the excuse for this insult at the hands of the president, that I deny I have been guilty of a breach of the rules and the privileges of the senate. The senate was not sitting as a court, but as a legislative assembly. It has the right to expel me if it sees fit and I am ready to abide by this judgment and action. It has the right to arrest me and to hold me in custody until makes disposition of my case; but it has no right to gag me, and the president has no right to judge me guilty of conduct unbecoming a genleman unless he belies all his antecedents, which lead one to believe that he would have done just as I did under the circumstances. As to which of us is the gentleman in this matter, in view of the unsought invitation to dinner at the White House and its indecent withdrawal, I am willing to abide by the judgment of all brave and self-respecting men."

AN EFFECTIVE ARGUMENT.

"Why," said the man who does not be-lieve in a large navy, "should we go to the expense of building more ships?"
"Well," answered the man who does not jump at conclusions, "you know that is what Noah's neighbors said before the flood."—Washington Star.

HEROIC HEART "FOOD"

Dr. Agnew's Oure for the heart is heroic because in cases of heart disease seemingly be-yond all human aid it goes to the very brink of the "Black River" and snatches from it the heart-sick victim.

In a trice it allays pain—in a twinkling it gives strength and vigor and it works a quick and permanent cure as by magic. It is the one great heart remedy which rightly bears the crown of supremacy and on which is inscribed the life words, "It never fails." Thirty minutes after taking the first dose, the sick heart forgets its pain. Try it.
