A Woman's Advice to Women.

Fair young maidens, just budding into womanhood, remember this: That the man whom you should marry will not know you long enough to love you.

THE FARM.

An important point in butter-making is noted by a correspondent of the American Cultivator. It was said that after milking, he says, it should be cooled with ice-water.

Building a Haystack.

The great point to be secured in stacking hay is to keep the center the highest. If this be done, water cannot penetrate into the stack.

A Word to Mothers.

The Christian at Work has a very interesting article on "Mental Health," urging mothers to improve their minds.

THE FARM.

An Ohio farmer says he killed every potato-beetle in a field "alive with them," by sprinkling one with a mixture made of five pounds each of "sacked lime" and copper.
