OUR EXCHANGES.

The first number of the McGill Fortnightly for this session was one of unusual interest. A memorial reference to the late Prof. Cornish from the pen of Rev. W. F. Warriner was among the contents. There was also a sketch of the career of the new principal Dr. Peterson, whose portrait accompanies the Fortnightly as a supplement. A well written salutatory by the new editorial staff along with the usual racy class reports make up a most readable issue.

In the "Canadian Methodist Review" for September-October A. D. Watson, M. D., L. R. C. P., treats a subject of more than ordinary interest in his article on "The Psychology of Revivals." Rev. Dr. Rose writes on "The Bible and Newer Criticism," and the Rev. James Henderson, D. D., has an article "Has Modern Thought Disturbed the Foundation of Our Faith." The Review contains some very suggestive reading.

The Missionary Herald for November brings its usually interesting budget of news from the foreign field of American Congregational Missions. "The Anti-Foreign Riots in China" are reviewed graphically and the courage of the resident missionaries is highly commended. The "Letters from the Missions" speak of increased progress and hopefulness in every part of the globe.

The Know College Monthly for November is at hand. Among the general contents there is a thoughtful article by Rev. Prof. MacLaren entitled "The Witness of the Spirit in Relation to the Authority and Inspiration of Scripture." The remarks that bear on the improvement of theological seminaries are timely and suggestive. "Hereticus" discusses "Confession of Faith vs. Confession of Love." The missionary interest is well sustained by a letter from Rev. J. Goforth on his Chinese work while the hardships of the student missionaries are recalled in extracts from their letters. The Mouthly is fully up to its usual high standard.

The Manitoba College Journal made a new venture during the past year. Nine numbers were published instead of the customary six. This change is one of the results of the summer session, the extra numbers being issued by the students in theology. From a literary standpoint the numbers are excellent and we hope that the experiment has preved to be gratifying in other directions.

The Dalhousie Gazette is before us. The Law and Medical departments are well edited. The first contribu-
