

Introduction

*I*N submitting this Catalogue we have endeavoured to meet the wants of our customers at a distance by illustrating such goods as are in constant demand. We have not marked prices on any of the articles, for the reason that prices and styles are subject to changes, but prices and full descriptions of anything you wish will be cheerfully furnished on application. We hope this will be the means of assisting you in making a selection.

The favour of a call is respectfully solicited, or mail orders from the book will receive prompt and careful attention.

Put this Catalogue in a convenient place, and when making up orders look through it carefully. The alphabetical list and index on last pages will remind you of many articles you may need, which would probably have escaped your notice.

Do not cut or mutilate this book, but order by number and give page in Catalogue, which will be sufficient—for shipping directions see pages 140-141.

We thank you kindly for past orders. Your interest is ours, and we will always use our best efforts to give entire satisfaction. We are

Yours Respectfully,

WEILER BROS.

Jubilee Year, 1897.