

RULES FOR THE INMATES.

1.—All persons admitted to this Home are enjoined to regard the Steward and Matron as the Heads of the House ; as standing in the same relation to each member of it, as the father and mother of a private family.

2.—They will be expected to obey their directions, and abide by the rules ; to treat them with perfect deference and respect, and to do all in their power to share their labors and lighten their cares.

3.—As every arrangement will be made, both by the Trustees and Matron, to provide for the comfort and enjoyment of the inmates in this Home, they will be expected in turn to do their part towards making it a well-ordered, happy household.

4.—Each member of the household will be required to observe strict decorum in deportment, especially in language. The use of any profane or vulgar expression by any of the inmates, must be reported at once to the Matron by any one who hears it, and it will be regarded as a serious offence ; its repetition after reproof, will be sufficient ground for dismissal.

5.—Every member of the household, except in cases of illness, must be present at family worship.

6.—Those who are in health will be required to take care of their own rooms, and on the requirement of the Matron, must assist those inmates who are unable to do this for themselves.

7.—The Matron is at liberty to call upon the inmates for assistance in any labor in which they are competent, and she is also to see that they pay proper attention to their wearing apparel.

8.—Punctuality at meals will be required.

9.—Visiting from room to room must be at all times regulated by the Matron.

10.—All visits to friends, or from them, must be by permission from the Ladies on duty. The bringing of spirituous liquors into the Home is strictly forbidden. Any transgression of this rule will render the offender liable to expulsion.

11.—All the inmates, invalids excepted, shall attend public worship once in the day on Sunday ; receiving and paying visits on that day will not be allowed.
