NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

The Montreal Star in an editorial which will commend itself strongly to all Canadians, says: When Lord Minto finishes his term as Governor-General, it is not at all probable that he will desire any extension of it, and so discussion naturally comes about as to his suc-

While it is true that the Colonies have not a voice in the selections of their Governors, it is fair to suppose that the Imperial Government chooses men for those positions with a view to their acceptability to the

It is usual to choose for Colonial Governors men who have sat in the House of Lords, and who may thus be supposed to have practical knowledge of the relationship between the Colonies and the Throne and the Golonial policy of the Home Govern-

Canada as a colony is peculiarly circumstanced in having in the Peerage men who have made their fortunes and spent most of their lives within its borders in touch with the people, close observers of the public opinion, and knowing the characteristics of its diversified population. If there could be found in the House of Lords a Canadian of independent means, lofty aims, a high sense of justice, firmness of purpose, strength of will, and with a diplomatic training, is it too much to say that the selection of such a man to represent the Sovereign in Canada would meet with universal approval? The very contemplation of such relection brings into view the name of Lord Strathcona, the greatest of all Canadians, an Imperialist of unyielding purpose, a man of generous views, conciliatory disposition, and having in the truest sense the instincts that are a prerequisite in ideal dipiomacy, while he has not been in Canadian politics so ardent a partizan as to be anything but fairminded.

That the selection of Lord Strathcona for the Governor-Generalship of Canada would be acclaimed by the people of all classes, of all creeds, and all shades of political opinion, there can be no shadow of doubt.

Canadians are more than proud of Lord Strathcona. He stands on a pinnacle amongst all the philanthropists of our country and our age. His patriotism is of so exalted a kind as to have attracted the attention of the whole world, as he is a mian of the people, whose greatness and preferment have never spoiled the beautiful modesty which almost invariably adorns the character of truly great men, for truly great men are never spoiled, but rather improved by pre-forment. If Lord Strathcona could be prewailed upon to accept the Governorship of Canada, it would round off a career among the most magnificent ever achieved by a Canadian; would bring satisfaction to all people in Canada, and reflect credit upon the wisdom of the King's advisers."

THE SUPREME ISSUE.

The supreme issue in Canadian vollities is preferential trade with Great Britain, points out the Toronto News. The Dominion has done its part in giving a preference to the products of the United Kingdom, and it is reasonable for us to look for e recognition of our generosity along the same lines. Canadians have imperifled one of their leading industries in granting this preference; it is not too much to expect something in We have opened our markets to the manufacturers of England given them a substantial advantage which can only be reciprocated by a preference to our food stuffs in their markets It will be many years before Canada can hope to compete with British manufacturers in their own markets.

A FEW HINTS ABOUT DIAMOND DYES AND DIAMOND DYR MAT AND RUG PASSERNSS

The noted and popular (Diamond Dyes give beauty and new life to all kinds of materials and garments that have become dingy and faded from the most common-place articles of wear-ing apparel to the finest and most de-licate lawns, cambrics, muslins, silks or feathers. If you have a taste for homemade mats and rugs, ask your merchant to you the diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns, now so very popular in Canada. These designs will give you chance to use up your wool and cotton rags and yarns after dying them with Diamond Dyes to match colors on Rug patterns. If you cannot get the patterns in your town, send your address at once to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain street, Montreal, P. Q., and they will send you postpaid, sheets of designs to choose

In order to do that a considerable home market is necessary, such as exists in the United States, and until the agriculturists of Canada the first our population is increased manyfold we will not have that home market. A slight preference would tend to the development of the Dominion and attract population so that our almost illimitable areas would be filled with a population producing everything that Great Britain needs to feed her millions of industrial workers. Not only would preference in the British market attract from the United and on the other side. If there are States thousands of agricultur- weaknesses in the scheme they will be ists who would get a better return for their labor on this side of the boun- be revealed and impressed upon the dary, but the increase of Canadian products sold in the old country would familiarize the people of the United Kingdom with our resources, and be an educational influence of incalculable value to a lyoung country and providing opportunity for the young, vigorous and adventurous portion of the population.

If, for example, 160,000,000 pounds of butter were sent from Canada annually, instead of 28,000,000, it would bring to the consumers of butter a better knowledge of the dairying possibilities of this colony. Indeed it is discouraging to a Canadian to read that the little Kingdom of Denmark, with a total area of 15,289 square miles and a population of 2,185,335, sends 160,000,000 pounds of butter to Great Britain annually, while Canada, with five and one-half millions of people and 756,000 square miles of territory, contributes but 28,009,296 pounds to the consumers of the Mother Coun-ent but 28,009,296. What is true of butter holds good in many other lines of produce. While Denmark exported 22,660,300 dozen eggs to Britain in 1900, Canada sent about 6,468,670, and stood sixth among the countries exporting eggs to the mother country. In but one particular does Canadian trade stand as it ought to, and that is in the matter of cheese, contributing more than one-half of the total amount imported by Great | Britain. What preferential trade would do for Canada and for Britain is largely a matter of speculation at present but there is no reasonable ground to doubt the conclusions of the best thinkers on the subject, that it would result in a tremendous increase of population in Canada, and ultimately, if not presently, lead to a cheaper food supply than the people of the British Isles have at the present time. A preferential tariff of a shilling a quarter on grain, a cent a pound on butter, a cent a dozen on eggs would not necessarily increase the price of place in the British market. Our opinion is that the Canadian government should exhaust every effort to secure this preference; that it is not sufficient to sit down and wait for a tangible recognition of our generosity in granting a preference to British manufactures in our markets. There should be a constant campaign of education on this side of the ocean, be exposed. If it has merits, they will British mind. It is certainly not the part of wisdom to rest on our oars, and wait for that recognition which might be forced by earnest, persistent and able advocacy.

The world's history is defaced by the names of a few more utterly atrocious old scoundrels than Li Hung Chang, whose departure from this life is not so lamentable as his failure to pounds of butter, of which Canada be hanged about fifteen years prior to his death in bed.

> THE CONTINGENT QUESTION. Montreal Witness.

It is not a matter of the British Government asking for leave to re cruit here, or even of its asking for roops from us. It is entirely a ques ion as to whether Canadians do or do not demand it of their Government that they should do something in aid of the empire.

FROM THE GREATEST BOOK ON ETIQUET .. Hamilton Herald.

And there was also a strife among them, which of them should be acounted the greatest. And he said unto them: . . . "He that is greatest among you, let him be as the younger; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve."-Luke xxii., 24, 26. It is not exactly in this spirit that the ecclesiastics of the religious denominations are discussing the question of the order of ecclesiastical pre cedence at state functions.
