

GOVERNMENT EXPERT Chooses SHARPLES Tubular Cream Separators for His Three Farms

Like other shrewd farmers, Mr. Anson Groh, widely known agricultural lecturer employed by the Government, knows the money to be made in dairying. He has succeeded because he knows profit is of far greater importance than first cost. Mr. Groh is seen sitting in this picture, with his family and assistants, before his country home. Like others making most money from dairying, Mr. Groh selected the Tubular in preference to all others because the Dairy Tubular contains no disks or other contraptions, has twice the skimming force of other separators, skims faster and twice as clean, and pays a profit no other can pay. Mr. Groh says:

"Preston, Ontario, May 28, 1912.—Some years ago we selected the Sharples Tubular. After a few years' use we found it necessary to get another separator for another farm and selected a No. 6. After several years' service of these two machines, we would not think of introducing anything else on our third farm, recently purchased. ANSON GROH."

Now you understand why owners of other separators are discarding their machines by carloads for Tubulars. Follow the example of Mr. Groh and the many others who have succeeded. Buy a Tubular for the sake of double skimming force, easy cleaning, and all the profits.

Please Mention The Advocate

more dear—it was not possible that he was unconsciously, even now walking to his doom, whilst she did nothing to save him.

Why did she not with unearthly screams that would re-echo from one end of the lonely beach to the other, send out a warning to him to desist, to retrace his steps, for death lurked here whilst he advanced? Once or twice the screams rose to her throat—as if by instinct: then, before her eyes there stood the awful alternative: her brother and those three men shot before her eyes, practically by her orders: she their murderer.

Oh! that fiend in human shape, next to her, knew human—female—nature well. He had played upon her feelings as a skilful musician plays upon an instrument. He had gauged her very thoughts to a nicety.

She could not give that signal—for she was weak, and she was a woman. How could she deliberately order Armand to be shot before her eyes, to have his dear blood upon her head, he dying perhaps with a curse on her, upon his lips. And little Suzanne's father, too! he, an old man! and the others!—oh! it was all too, too horrible.

Wait! wait! wait! how long? The early morning hours sped on, and yet it was not dawn: the sea continued its incessant mournful murmur, the autumnal breeze sighed gently in the night: the lonely beach was silent, even as the grave.

Suddenly from somewhere, not very far away, a cheerful, strong voice was heard singing, "God save the King!"

POULTRY HOUSE.

Will you give me some directions for building a henhouse with gable roof for fifty hens, in two flocks, one with all modern improvements and inexpensive. If I wanted an earthen floor, how would it be built to make perfectly dry, and would it cost more than a board floor, and which would you prefer?

J. H.

Ans.—One of the most satisfactory poultry houses to meet the needs of the average farmer is the open-front house, recommended by Prof. W. R. Graham, O. A. C., Guelph, Ont. This house, for 100 hens, is built 20 x 20 feet, with an open front facing the south. The south side is 3 feet high, with a board along the bottom, and 2 feet of wire netting. The back is 4 feet 6 inches high, and the gable 7 feet high. The door is in the east end, and a large window is placed in the west end, 4 feet by 5 feet. Hinged low roots run along the north side. For a smaller number of hens, a slightly shorter house of the same style could be used. Partition it across the center with wire netting to make it into two compartments. This is a cheap house, and has proven to be a good one. An earthen floor is simply a ground floor, no boards or cement being used. Ground floors are preferable to board floors. Barring expense, cement makes a good floor. Place the building on dry ground, and, if necessary, underdrain around it. Write Prof. W. R. Graham for his bulletin on Farm Poultry.

An old North Countryman visiting London put up at one of the big hotels. He had barely turned in on the first night when the "buttons" rushed into the room and switched on the electric light, exclaiming, "Make haste, sir! Get up! The hotel is on fire!" The old man slowly raised himself on one elbow and, fixing the boy with a determined look, remarked: "Mind ye, if I do I winna pay for the bed."
