Tonight Mr. Kelly will deliver an address to the electors of Carleton, a parish situated at twelve miles from Dalhousie. So far there is no opposition to the Gouin government in Bonaventure. During the last session of the legislature Mr. Kelly made many friends. His action in getting the government to appoint a commission to examine into the claims of the descendants of the Loyalists, and descendants of the Acadians who have never received the grants of their farms, has made him a strong candidate.
