PLAGUE RAVAGES INDIA

MEDICAL SCIENCE IS UNABLE TO STOP ITS MARCH.

Million Lives Lost to Disease, Which Shows No Signs of Abatement-Decrease In Bombay District Offset By Heavy Increase In Bengal and the United Provinces-Soldiers in Good Health.

Good Health.

A blue book chronicling the progress and conditions of India during the last year has just been published. The most saddening section of the book is that which deals with India's peculiar scourge—the plague.

It appears to have been scarcely mitigated by all the efforts of modern medical science. Taking British India as a whole, the number of reported deaths fram plague in 1905 was approximately the same as that of 1904—reaching nearly to the appalling total of 1,000,000.

In Bombay there was a marked abatement, the number of deaths from plague falling from 224,000 to 71,400. The central provinces and Madras were also comparatively free The Punjab registered 334,900, as against 396,000 in 1904.

Deadly In Bengal.

Deadly In Bengal.

Deadly In Bengal.

But in Bengal and the united provinces the disease made great strides, the deaths reported from these provinces amounting to 126,000 and 380,000 respectively.

Since 1899 the deaths from plague have been almost continually on the increase. They shrank from 139,000 to 92,800 in the year 1900, to rise again by leaps and bounds to their present figure.

Soldiers Have Good Health.

The health of the European troops in India has been exceptionally good, the rates of admission to hospital, of constantly sick, of mortality, and of invaliding all being the lowest on record. A similar record has been established by the native troops; the constantly sick rate, the death rate, and the invaliding rate were the lowest on record.

and the invaliding rate were the lowest on record.

'A low death rate is all the more noteworthy, as out of the total number (988) of deaths during the year 185 occurred through the collapse of buildings at Dharmsala during the earthquake.

No special reference is made to the unrest. The spread of education is shown by the breaking down of the prejudice against teaching girls. Two women have taken degrees at Rangoon.

As to the native press, the tendency is lamented of catering to the public taste for extravagant fiction. One notable work has been "Palli Viachigra," which reminds city dwellers of the charms of village life.

The novelty of the machine, he adds, is its simplicity. The handle bars are connected with the seat. By pressing the handles forward the seat goes back; by pressing the handles back the seat goes forward, causing an equilibrium that keeps the rider on the centre of gravity.

TORONTO POSTMASTER DEAD.

Mr. T. C. Patteson Succumbs After Brief Illness.

Brief Illness.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Thomas C. Patteson, postmaster of Toronto since February, 1879, died shortly after midnight, after a few days' illness, from pneumonia. It was not until yesterday morning that fears were entertained that he would not recover. He sank steadily throughout the day. The late Mr. Patteson was born at Patney, Wiltshire, Eng., on Oct. 5, 1836. He was a King's scholar and captain of his division at Eton. Proceeding to Merton College, Oxford, where he won an open scholarship and graduated in honors in 1858.

In 1871 Mr. Patteson became first managing editor of The Mail, established in that year as a Conservative paper, and prior to that held several minor appointments under the Government. He was appointed postmaster of Toronto by Sir John A Macdonald.

Mr. Patteson was much interested in thoroughbred horses, and a recognized authority on pedigrees. To him was largely due the formation of the Ontario Jockey Club and the inauguration of racing at the Woodbine track. At one time he owned several racehorses himself.

One of his blows struck a blind hole that had missed fire and an explosion tollowed that cost him his eyesight. One piece of rock penetrated his eye and is was impossible for the doctor to remove it. Slight injuries were inflicted on the face, but no wounds sustained on the body. He was removed to the hospital in Ottawa.

Medical Building.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—At a meeting of the governors of McGill College held yesterday it was found that the college could not go on with the erection of the new medical building owing to the fact that the present tenant refused to leave until his lease expired.

Lord Strathcona has formally conveyed the site to the college, but until the tenant is met in some way, the college will have to do without the new building. It was also arranged on a report from the new Macdonald Agricultural College that the school for teachers should open on Oct. 15, that of household science on the 17th and the school for agriculture on the 22nd. Already so many applications have been received that the women's residence will be taxed to its full capacity, while the men's residence will be more than half filled. What a splendid type of tireless activity is the sun as the psalmist describes it issuing like "a bridegroom from his chamber and rejoicing like a strong man to run a race." Every man ought to rise in the morning refreshed by alumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most people rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. The canse of this is deficient vitality and behind this lies a deficient supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body. There is nothing that will give a man energy and strength, as will Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing the quantity and quality of the blood supply. This nourishes the nerves, feeds the brain, builds up enfeebled organs and gives sense of strength and power which makes the struggle of life a joy. The "good feeling" which followe the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" is not due to stimulation, as it contanis no alcohol. The ingredients are plainly stated on the bottle-wrappen. It does not "brace-up" the body, but it up into a condition of sound and vigorous health. Rockefeller's Stake In Oil.

New York, Sept. 21.—A record of the present stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, part of which was placed in evidence yestercay in the federal suit against the oil combine, disclosed that John D. The record shows that since the dissolution of the Standard Oil trust Mr. Rockefeller has disposed of nearly 10,000 shares. Based on the present market value of $440 for Standard Oil stock, Mr. Rockefeljer's interest in the company is valued at about $19,000,000. Rockefeller's Stake In Oil.

When garner ing time came Kain's attempt to har vest his runaway product was rebuked by Hopper and his shotgun. The controversy got into court, and Squire William Easley, for whom the town-ship was named, was asked to decide ship was named, was asked to decide the ownership of ten watermelons worth 15 cents apiece. The lawyers for Kain read books to show that his rights of property followed the vines clear into the next county should they travel so far. Hopper's lawyers produced equally sound reading to prove that Hopper was entitled by law to anything that camped on his premises. It wasn't Hopper's fault, they said, if the vines wanted to spread out and go visiting. He had the same right to them that he would have to a colony of honeybees that might get tired of over and make honey for Hopper. Squire Easley let the lawyers spout until they had read through all their books; then he arose to his six feet

Professor Matched the Boss. Boston and Cambridge people of an earlier day remember well Professor Child of Harvard, a scholar who was likewise a live man. Didn't Get a Patent. Among the strange applications which reach the patent office one filed some pears ago was most extraordinary, it years ago was most extraordinary, it being a petition for a patent for an ant guard which consisted in merely drawing a chalk mark around a table or other place by which it was claimed the approach of ants was stopped. It seems that chalk makes an ant's legs slip as soaping a track prevents a railway engine from starting. The petition was novel and caused considerable amusement. The application, however, was refused on the ground that there was nothing new in the invention, that chalk had been used for such purposes before and that such ideas were not patentable.
