CENTREVILLE AND HARTLAND TIED

In a Roaring Game on Tuesday Evening—Score 9 to 9

The most exciting, if not the most scientific game of ball this season was that on Tuesday evening when the Centreville team came up against the Hartland All-Stars. The visitors went to bat first and were promptly put out with no score, when in the half of the inning the Hartland boys wielded the stick they bagged seven runs. This looked like a dull game, but Centreville steadily gained after the second inning although at the sixth the score stood 8 to 4 in favor of Hartland. As one by one Centreville brought its men home in their last inning excitement ran high and the air was rent with the crazy yells of the spectators. Centreville's aggression was sustained until they had scored a total of 9. Hartland then took the field and making another run tied their opponents, while darkness fell and prevented a play-off.

Twice during the game arguments over technicalities nearly amounted to blood-letting, a little boy spectator was bowled out by a foul ball, a catcher got one in the eye and was put out of the game, and a fielder was laid low in the offing. All these casualties with the close finish furnished a full quarter's worth of excitement.

Dugan and Boyer pitched the Hartland game, while Roscoe and Burt tossed the sphere for the Centreville team. Several motor car loads of Centreville people came along with their team.

In the game at Bath on Saturday Hartland team was badly worsted, the score being 15 to 4. Local fans are anxious that Bath and Hartland come together in the near future.

The manager of the local team pointed out to The Observer last evening that every game the team plays costs not less than $30, besides other expenses of keeping up the organization. He said if every spectator paid there would be no question of meeting expenses, but as it is a large percentage of the people who enjoy the game view it from the street rather than to pay a quarter for admission. Others there are, too, who actually steal into the grounds and claim as good a seat in the grand stand as though they paid for it. The boys are providing clean sport in an honest way, and the disposition of some people to cheat them is neither clean or honest.

The management of the team desires to arrange a game here for every Monday throughout the season. Wednesdays will be reserved for practice and postponed games, while Fridays will be kept for outside games.

Hartland expects to play Mass Hill a return game two weeks from tomorrow.

The local team has played nine games this season. Of these they have won four, lost four and have one tie. All the outside games have been lost except one. The manager urges all the players to be on hand for regular practice. The Observer would suggest to all players, here and in the other towns, that the "team" idea be kept constantly in mind. Good team work wins where individual effort might not.

At the moment of going to press a game with Bath is announced for the Hartland diamond tomorrow evening at sharp 6.

The local team this morning received a challenge from a St. John team which proposes a tour to wop the town teams of Aroostook and the St. John Valley. "Come on!" is the reply of the doughty Hartland lads, and the particulars will be announced next week.

Presentation to Mrs. Trafton

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. on Monday evening took the form of a picnic supper on the lawn of Mrs. Henry Bradley. Mrs. P. J. Trafton, wife of the retiring pastor of the Reformed Baptist church, was singled out as the one to receive the most attention during the evening. During her years of residence here she has been a valued member of the union and her sister members took occasion during this last meeting to show their esteem by making a presentation of Nippon china. Mrs. S. Hayden Shaw on behalf of the members made the presentation address, and Mrs. Trafton, taken very much by surprise, replied in a few apt words. The meeting closed with the singing of the usual hymn, "God Be With You" and with many good wishes to the departing member, who soon goes with her husband and children to make their home in Fredericton.

Home From B. C. to Farm Here

Frank R. Kinney, accompanied by his wife and young daughter, arrived here yesterday from Kamloops, B. C., and proceeded to his former home at Knowlesville. Mr. Kinney went west in 1911. During the war he enlisted with the B. C. Forestry Battalion and saw service in France. Returning last spring he visited his native county and was so impressed with its evident progress and development that he determined to bring his family from the west and settle on a farm here. Mr. Kinney says the grain fields of Alberta and Saskatchewan show a discouraging outlook for the farmers there, a prolonged drought having burned all vegetation red.

Carload of Horses Lost

O. J. Leavitt, a prominent horse dealer of Montreal, arrived at Woodstock last week and engaged stables for horses which he was about to advertise for sale. He says he has learned that the man whom he left in charge of the horses at Campbellton has disposed of the whole outfit and that he cannot get any trace of the man.

It is alleged that the horses were sold in various parts of the province. In one case, the charge is, five were traded for an automobile. One horse was sold in Carleton county, according to the information. Sheriff Foster has the case in hand.

Reception to Sergt. Nixon

A reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Nixon of Lower Brighton on Wednesday in honor of their son, Sergt. W. B. Nixon, who has recently returned from overseas, after having served three years in France. Sergt. Nixon enlisted with the 140th Battalion, was later transferred to the Fighting 36th and saw much active service with that unit.

The interior of the house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flags and cut flowers, while the verandah and lawn were brightly lighted by means of Japanese lanterns. Guesting, contests games and music were indulged in, and a good laugh was enjoyed when the "booby" prizes were presented. Most delicious refreshments of salads, sandwiches, ice cream and cakes were served. There were about eighty guests present, including relatives from Fort Fairfield, St. Stephen and Woodstock. The party broke up at a late hour after have spent a most enjoyable evening.

BATH CELEBRATES PEACE DAY

Large Crowd Enjoyed a Perfect Day—Memorial to Soldiers

The citizens of the Parishes of Kent and Wicklow will long remember with pleasure, the 19th day of July, 1919. This day will be one of the historical days in the annals of the upper end of Carleton county. Considering that everything had to be arranged in one short week, we can look back with pride on the fine display of loyal co-operation of all our people, which made this event a complete success. From the management down to the humblest worker, all did their bit toward the one end. The result was that with ideal weather, a very enjoyable day was spent. The very best of music was provided by the Knowles Orchestra. All the speakers concentrated on a note of welcome to our returned soldiers who were the guests of honor for the day. Those who rest in foreign soil and therefore did not return in the flesh, were not forgotten. Cars were provided for their relatives in the parade, which was one of the features of the program. Men in khaki led the procession which was accompanied by a large number of autos. Four nicely decorated floats representing Britannia, Peace, Red Cross and Allied Nations were prominent. A special prize was awarded to the Red Cross Car; chauffeur, Miss Dora Tompkins. The young ladies who represented Nurses, were, in addition to the driver, the Misses McGinn, L. Giberson, M. Brennan, M. Gee, E. Bohan and M. Parise. The drivers of the other floats were Garfield Laidlaw, Marcelle Bohan and John Cronin, who was in charge of the rising generation. The Dece of Peace was a special favorite, Dorothy, the youngest daughter of Matt Bohan. Miss Patey certainly knew how to use her little wings. Speeches were delivered by Col. Melville, Hon. B. F. Smith, A. D. McCain, Hon. Rev. W. M. Donohoe did not arrive in time to join the other speakers, but the promoters had his cordial assistance during the week. In the evening there were other speeches, and finally a resolution was read to a representative audience, which by a majority vote decided to request the Finance Committee to erect as a mark of esteem to our gallant men a "Soldiers Memorial Drinking Fountain". Then the National Anthem followed by a bonfire which marked the end of a perfect day.

The ball game between Bath and Hartland teams was warmly contested and resulted in a victory over the visiting team in a score of 15 to 4.

In the evening the local ball team gave a dance in Brennan's hall, which was very largely attended. Knowles orchestra discoursed splendid music.

Harvey E. Jones

This much esteemed brother gave his heart to the Saviour a few ago and was baptised with his wife and children. Those who witnessed it said they never saw such an interesting and impressive baptism. Now he sleeps in death since Jan. 2, 1919. He was a victim of influenza. During the few days of suffering he was divinely sustained; his end was peace. He was a kind and loving husband and son and highly esteemed by the community. He leaves to mourn his wife, mother, two sisters and one brother, besides numerous other relatives and a host of friends.
