The EVENING TELEGRAM.

The advertiser who puts his Adverts. in the EVENING TELEGRAM never complains of results. It is read and believed by the people who buy goods. That is one reason why the TELEGRAM'S advertising columns Carry More Advertising Than Any Other Newspaper in Newfoundland.

That fact "speaks for itself," and it is not our intention just now to emphasize it further. What we want to do is to bring home to the business men (if there are any who have not availed of our columns in the past) the advantage to be gained through a liberal use of the TELEGRAM, in bringing before the people what they want the public—the great buying public—most to know:

The Kind of Goods They Have To Sell, the Quality of the Goods, Prices, &c.

If that is what the shopkeeper wants the public to learn, the TELEGRAM is the right medium through which it can be conveyed, because—

1st. It has the largest circulation, and

2nd. Consequently it is the most widely-read newspaper in Newfoundland;

3rd. Naturally, then, it must be THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM in Newfoundland;

4th. Therefore, the advertiser has everything to gain, and nothing to lose, by availing of the services of the EVENING TELEGRAM during 1911.

O. Y. L.: "Yes, who is it?"

O. Y. L.: "Don't you recognize my voice?"

O. Y. L.: "No, I don't. Hold on, is it Weeks? No? Then I'm afraid I don't get you."

V. A. P.: "Well, it's no wonder. You never heard me speak before. But you've heard of me. This is St. Valentine."

O. Y. L.: "Is that so? Howdodo, St. Valentine. I'm very much honored to hear from you. It's your birthday today, isn't it? Congratulations, old man. Anything special I can do for you?"

V. A. P.: "Yes, there is. That's why I called you up. You haven't done a thing to celebrate my birthday and I want you to."

O. Y. L.: "Now that's too bad. I'll sure do something right off. Just what would you suggest?"

V. A. P.: "I want you to go out and buy a valentine for some youngster. You haven't done that for some years, you know."

O. Y. L.: "Say, St. Valentine, that's a great idea. I'll do it at once. I wish I'd thought of it myself, but I've been so darned busy—you know how it is."

V. A. P.: "Yes, I know. I've been some busy myself rounding up people like you and reminding them that it's my birthday. Kind of embarrassing work, too. And say, if it's as convenient to you, young man, I wish

Scene, a lawyer's office. Thus four in the afternoon. Overworked young lawyer sits at his desk, leaning his head on his hand, his eyes closed. Everybody else gone home. Phone rings. Overworked young lawyer reaches out, draws phone toward him and takes of the receiver.

O. Y. L.: "That's right, St. Valentine. I'll remember. Let me see. How would the little girl that brings my wash back to me do?"

V. A. P.: "Fine, young man, fine. I see Bradcourt was more than right."

O. Y. L.: "Who's Bradcourt? Never heard of him."

V. A. P.: "Oh, don't you know about him? Why, Bradcourt's where your rating is kept—what asset of kindness and heartiness and good will and so forth you have. I consulted him before I started telephoning. I didn't want to waste time calling up anyone who was insolvent, you know. And I found you stood well. A good deal of thoughtfulness was your only heavy liability. Well, so long. I have spent about three times as long as I should with you, but it's such a pleasure to talk to anyone who gets my ideas so readily. What's that? Where did I say I was calling from? I didn't."

O. Y. L.: "Hello, hello—what's the trouble? Jiggles the phone up and down wildly."

Operator's Voice: "Number?"

O. Y. L.: "I don't want any number. I want the man I was talking with."

Operator's Voice (in sweet sing-song): "There is no one on the line now. I will call you if anybody waits you."

O. Y. L. thoughtfully hangs up the receiver rubs his eyes, smiles sheepishly and then gets up and and puts on his hat and coat and goes down the street.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases. Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Frest, Buffalo, N. Y.

Makes Weak Women Strong,
Sick Women Well.

Household Notes.

An old toothbrush or nailbrush is excellent for cleaning silver, but the final polishing should be done with camellia skin.

Meat loaf of chopped veal or beef can be made more moist if three or four tablespoonsful of cream are added just before baking.

Washing soda should not be used upon china, as it will take off the gilt. Try clear hot water, but not hot enough to crack the china.

Ten stale macaroons, mixed with stiffly whipped cream and sprinkled with pistachio nuts, makes an easily improvised dessert.

Combs will soon warp and break if washed with water. They should be cleaned with a good, stiff, dry toothbrush or nailbrush.

A few drops of paraffin added to the shoe blacking will impart a good polish to damp shoes and also help to preserve the leather.

Few skins can stand glycerine, and it should never be used without being diluted. Otherwise the skin will become dry and parched.

A variety may be secured by baking potatoes with a slice of bacon inside. The bacon is put into a hole made by an apple corer.

A French dainty possible from canned goods is sliced French goose liver, served on lettuce, with either French dressing or mayonnaise.

When running dates, figs or raisins through the food chopper add a few drops of lemon juice to prevent the fruit from clogging the chopper.

To make a tough steak tender, rub it on both sides with vinegar and olive oil, thoroughly mixed, and allow it to stand for two hours before cooking.

If table silver is placed in hot soap-suds immediately after being used, and dried with a soft, clean cloth, much of the work of polishing will be saved.

Glasgow Engines for French Railway

Glasgow, Feb. 4.—An order for tenders for the French State Railways has been secured by the North British Locomotive Company, Glasgow. The engines are to be constructed after the type of those in use on the Highland Railway, and are to be erected at the Hyde Park and Atlas Works of the Company. This is the first order for locomotives that has come to Scotland for many years for the French railways. Late-ly the locomotive works have been scarce of orders, but now they will go on full time.

For Men Ayer's Hair Vigor is for men, too. It is a splendid hair-dressing. It is refreshing, cooling; and it keeps the scalp clean and healthy. It never changes the color of the hair, not in the least. Ask your doctor. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Seats of Sovereigns.

The Coronation Chair at Westminster is the Most Interesting.

We often hear people talk about "the King upon his throne," but does it ever occur to us to ask "Which throne?" There are five in London alone; so this question is not so unnecessary as might at first appear.

The most magnificent throne of the British Sovereigns is that at Windsor Castle. This throne was presented to Queen Victoria by an Indian maharajah, and is of carved ivory inlaid with various jewels.

The throne from which the King opens, prorogues, and dissolves Parliament, is made of oak, and has a gilded canopy. It occupies a raised position in the House of Lords.

There are three thrones in the London palaces, that in Buckingham Palace being especially remarkable for the sumptuous dais on which it stands.

But of all, the throne, or coronation chair, in Westminster Abbey, is by far the most interesting. It is solidly put together, and is made of oak. Placed under the seat is the famous Coronation Stone of Stone, at which town generations upon generations of Scottish kings were crowned before the union of Scotland and England on the accession of James I. This is a large slab of sandstone and, according to the old Scottish legend it is the identical stone upon which Jacob laid his head when he dreamed of the angels and the ladder to heaven at Bethel, and which he afterwards anointed with oil.

In striking contrast to the costly throne at Windsor Castle is the throne of the Dutch kings at the Hague. It is a comparatively simple piece of furniture—a kind of glorified armchair with drapery. The throne in Amsterdam is more majestic. Over the seat is a crown, supported by ornamental lions studded with jewels. The canopy of this throne is exceptionally fine.

The Czar of Russia and the Sultan of Turkey each have a large number of thrones. But it is doubtful if there exists in the whole world one superior to the silver throne of the German Emperor in Berlin. This magnificent piece of workmanship has an enormous shield, also of silver, over the seat, and the canopy is profusely decorated with eagles and crowns.

Anti-Fashion League.

An anti-fashion league has just been started in New York with the highly praiseworthy object of combating the spread of the ridiculous fashions and crazes adopted by the very rich among less well-to-do people, says M. A. P. There is certainly plenty of work for such an organization to do here. Women who can with difficulty afford to spend as much on their dress, but yet insist on wearing hobble skirts, yards of hat, gloves up to their shoulders, and similar absurdities—made fashionable for a moment by women who can afford to spend a thousand a year with their modistes and milliners—ought to be objects of fashion league.

Then there are various "fashionable" cults, the spread of which an anti-fashion league would be doing good work by combating. For example, the cult of expensive pets, in the way of cats, dogs, mice, and lizards of rare type and breed is all very well for women who can afford to pay five hundred pounds for such a pet without missing the money, but when Mrs. Brown of Balham starts imitating their example by spending twenty or thirty pounds on some wretched animal probably not worth as many shillings, she badly needs some plain words of advice from an anti-fashion league.

Indigestion & Dyspepsia

In all its Forms can be Cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything, I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden."

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, Duckworth Street and Theatre Hill. Small size, 25 cents; postage, 5c. extra; large size, 50 cents; postage, 10c. extra. Mail orders must be accompanied by remittance.—Oct29, 1m.

LUCKY.

"I'm certainly a lucky man."

"How so?"

"I had on my good clothes yesterday morning when my wife made her collection for the rummage sale. She couldn't give any but old stuff away."

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

Cannot be cured with ordinary soothing syrups. The disease must be attacked at the root to eradicate the irritation of the lungs, heal the wounds and strengthen the respiratory organs. The composition of of Tar and Cod Liver Oil and other Medicinal Extracts marks it amongst all other remedies as the true specific for the diseases of the throat, the bronchial tubes and the lungs. Here are a few conclusive proofs:

A Remarkable Test!

Locally Made

By Messrs. W. & G. RENDELL.

To test Solignum as a preservative for Wood against the attacks of Worms, we tried a piece of 2 x 4 Spruce, about two feet in length, by painting one-third with Solignum, leaving the balance clear wood, this suspended by a wire through the centre, in the water about one foot from the bottom, immediately over a pile of stones the remains of a sunken wharf (which is the place where our Wharf Shores are eaten off first) for Three Months. On taking it up at the end of that time we found some half-dozen small holes only a very short distance in the clear part of the wood, which shows the liquid had hardly begun boring before coming in contact with it.

Last year as a test of some brands of Copper Paint we handle, we had a similar piece of wood treated at both ends, leaving the centre third clear; this was in exactly the same place as the piece for the Solignum test for Three Months and Three Days, when taken up the painted ends were perfect but the centre was riddled with worm holes.

Both these pieces of wood are to be seen at our Office by those interested in the preservation of Wharf Piles or any other wood work.
