Drowning Accident

Magistrate O'Toole of Conception Harbor wired the following message to-day to Deputy Minister of Justice Hutchings:—"Two men belonging to Cupids, Hayes and Kearney, were drowned at Angle Pond near Mahers siding yesterday by boat filling with water. Bodies not recovered."

In connection with the tragedy the Minister of Marine and Fisheries had a message from Brigus Junction asking him to arrange and have a dory sent from Avondale to connect with to-morrow morning's train to recover bodies of James Kearney and Stephen Hayes, of Cupids. The Fisheries Minister communicated with Inspector General Sullivan who is sending out Head Constable Sheppard and two policemen by special train this afternoon to make search for the bodies. The officers are bringing all kinds of gear with them such as jiggers, lines, etc., to aid them in dragging the bodies.

The Rev. J. Walsh, P.P.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Mr. Editor,—As several mistakes the late Rev. John Walsh, appearing in the account of the death of the public press, I would be thankful if you would please publish the following more exact account.

The V. Rev. Father Walsh was born in May, 1842, in Cappagh Hayden, in the County of Kilkenny, about three miles from Callan. He was consequently seventy years and six months old at the time of his death. In his early days he went to school to the Augustinian Monks at Callan, walking every day three Irish miles to and from. He made his Philosophical and Theological studies at the world-renowned Missionary College of All Hallows, Dublin. There he was a contemporary of the late Fathers Morris and Fitzpatrick and of Monsgr. Reardon, Fr. Doutey and others. He was Ordained by the late Bishop Power, on Sept. 10th, 1871. He was sent first as Curate to his uncle, the late Venerable Archdeacon (James) Walsh, at St. Kyran's. The Rev. Michael Walsh, of Placentia, who died in 1871, was his brother. After a few years he was removed from St. Kyran's and sent to Fermuse as Parish Priest.

Being a man of very large mind and progressive views, he soon saw that there was no room for expansion in the little "Admiral's Cove," in the Harbour of Fermuse, so he determined upon removing to the neighbouring harbour of Reneuse where his far-seeing judgment desecrated a more open and imposing site for the Establishment of Ecclesiastical buildings. He secured the ground and commenced the erection of that magnificent group of edifices, consisting of Convent, Church, Hall, Schools and Presbytery which now crowns the beautiful hill and forms a striking object to all who enter the Harbour, a group not surpassed by any other in the country outside St. John's. He did not, however, forget the old original Mission at Fermuse, but, in later years, erected a beautiful church in a more central part of that settlement. He proved himself the "good servant," leaving after him a Parish fully equipped with schools and churches, and we may be sure that when called by the trumpet-sound, he heard the consoling "Euge! Serve bone," and that he was able to answer "Domine, quinque talenta, tradidisti mihi, ecce alia quinque superlucratum sum."

The young man who was charged yesterday with the stealing of a horse the property of Mr. Berrigan, was up again to-day; he pleaded not guilty. The defence was that he got on the horse's back and rode off on him for a joke, he was half drunk at the time. The defendant was let off with a caution; the judge remarking that if he had been charged with disorderly conduct he would have been punished by a severe fine.

Porter Replies to the News.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The truth is sometimes better, and this has been again demonstrated in a rather amusing manner by the tiresome article of the Daily News in yesterday's issue, and which was intended to be an explanation of why the News discontinued the Waterfront Directory.

The classic editor informs us that the getting up of this list cost a large amount of money and labor and that he received very little thanks from some people for his trouble and slurs from others; and we are supposed to take it for granted that this is the reason why the Waterfront Directory was shut off.

Now, we would remind the genial and timid wielder of the goose quill that the public never sent a delegation to the News man asking him to publish the list; but he did so of his own free will, thinking, no doubt that it would be beneficial to the public and help at the same time to popularize his paper. That being the case, it certainly comes with very poor grace for Mr. Robinson to place the public under a compliment to him.

With regard to slurs and ungentlemanly treatment, I would say that I am glad that the Hon. J. Alex. Robinson is safely stowed away in that salubrious quarter known as the Upper House; and now that we are better acquainted with his refinement, we trust that he will not be "brought down" again to contest a district, for newspaper men who would give up the supplying of public news, of which they boasted, simply because they met with an odd rebuff are not the kind to fight a hard fight and will never reach the pinnacle of fame for saving a country.

Yours truly,

PORTER.
