The Big Bank Robbery at Forest Recalled

By & Clue Which Brought the Detectives te London on a Bootless Errand.

Up to the present time, the detectives have not been able to get any definite information as to the movements of the burglars who blew up the safe in Smith's private bank at Forest, some time ago. The burglary took place during the night, and if it had been discovered at an earlier hour in the day, it is possible that the thieves would have been captured, but as the affair did not become known until the clerk arrived to open the bank at ten o'clock in the forenoon, the burglars got a big start. Three men, whose movements have been traced from Forest to Kaiser's Corners, and from Kaiser's Corners to Strathroy, are believed to be the men who did the deed. Early on the following morning a farmer living near Kaiser's Corners had occasion to go to his hay was very much astonished when he began to fork the hay to see a big burly tramp make his way out of the mow. He gave the tramp a settingout, and started to take off more hay, when out tumbled another tramp. He gave them both a lecture, and proceeded to work again, when a third ramp emerged from the mow.

By this time the farmer thought that discretion was the better part of valor, and said nothing. He felt rather queer, and did not know but that he had stumbled across a county convention of Weary Walkers. Keeping a weather eye on the tines of the pitchfork, the tramps backed away, and made off. The night was cold, and the men had burrowed into the hay with their coats about their heads and gone to sleep. One carried in his hand a small valise, and on this valise hinges another story.

Three boys living not far from Kaiser's Corners entered a vacant house to play. They observed a loose board in the floor, and, boylike, they lifted it up. Underneath they found a small valise, which was taken possession of by the police. It was found to contain the whole of the papers which were wrapped around the money stolen from the bank. It contained many of the names of the bank's customers. clearly establishing the connection. But the valise also contained a starched shirt, with a London laundry ticket tacked thereon. This was thought to be a splendid clue, and the detectives came to London and investigated. At the laundry they found that the number on the shirt corresponded with the name of a well known bartender in this city. They visited him, and found that the shirt did not belong to him, but that the burglar, or whoever it was, must have given his name to the laundryman, or he must have had a

There Are Thousands Who Need Help - Why They Suffer -How They Can Get

Oh! what misery, what suffering, what anxiety and despair is endured by thousands of poor suffering woten they keep on suffering.

There seems to be no relief! Day after day, they are tortured with ness, faintness, disordered stomach, nervousness, moodiness. They seem to be afflicted with almost every disease that was ever known. No won-der that such women cry for help ful feelings?'

This is a sad picture, but it is true to life! It reveals the actual condi-tion of that vast number of women in whom the course of nature becomes interrupted. They suffer and they get no relief. But if women only knew it, they might easily find help. There is a way to prevent and cure these distressing ailments. Many women have discovered that there is a remedy which will cure them. It is a remedy that has made thousands of weak, suffering women strong, nealthy and well. This is what one woman has to say about it: Mrs. Isabel Green, of Colchester, recently said: "For years I suffered with backache, bearing-down pains and various other ailments peculiar to womankind, and tried many remedies, but until I took Warner's Safe Cure I received no premanent relief. As the result of taking the safe cure, I now feel like a new woman, and have not had an ache or pain for two years past. I cheerfully recommend this remedy to every woman who suffers as I did."

No woman can afford to be with-out this valuable remedy. By using it, she can safely avoid every form of sickness and suffering. No other remedy equals it for building up the system and restoring lost health. Every druggist keeps Warner's Safe Curb. Give it a trial!
