A VERN TIMY LOCKERY A VERY TINY JOCKEY. London, June 30.-Lester Rieff, the American jockey, was presented to the Prince of Wales by Lady Wm. Beresford at New market yesterday. The Prince was obvious ly interested in such a finy jockey, and asked his weight, whether he could ride awkward horses, and put other questions to him. Rieff, who was self-possessed, answered intelligently, and subsequently departed in company, with Mr. Richard Croker.

BASE BALL

KERN MAKES A "SHOW" OF HIMSELF. Pitcher Kern, of the St. Thomas team, made an exhibition of himself at Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon which made three or four hundred London enthusiaats wish they had never seen the grounds or that the manager of the visitors had seen his way clear to put another twirler in the hox Evank Pears, one of the St. Thomas has way crear to put another twirler in the box. Frank Pears, one of the St. Thomas pitchers, hinted that Kern was not in proper condition to play ball, and the way that Kern carried on certainly made it appear that there was something in it. He began his objectionable conduct at the opening of the game. Wirst of all while in appear that there was something in it. He began his objectionable conduct at the opening of the game. First, of all, while in the box, his sole object seemed to be to make the game spin out until dark, for he would deliberately stand near the box, hold the ball, and feast his eyes on the other members of the team. When he got weary of doing this he took a dislike to England, and by arguing with the umpire about decisions on balls and strikes, he managed to kill considerable time and make the game drag along slowly. The other players repeatedly urged him to play ball as he was paid to, but it was useless, and Kern continued to act to suit himself. The crowd in the stands called in vain for another pitcher, and Umpire England looked on in disgust, deeming it better to let the big infant amuse himself to his heart's content rather than molest him. England's patience became exhausted in Lendac's hele content rather than molest him. England's patience became exhausted in London's half of the seventh, when Kern continued to practice with Gunther for a minute or more after the first man stepped to the plate. For this England ordered Kern to the bench, but he did not insist on the order being obeyed, and Kern finished the game. The St. Thomas management would act wisely in future if they kept Kern out of the box in all games at London, unless he is in a better frame of mind than he was vesterday afternoon. He can nitch content rather than molest him. England' was yesterday afternoon. He can pitch Socialists, who interrupted him by whistling, the if he only wants to all the control of the socialists who interrupted him by whistling, be if he only wants to see if he only wants to.

The remainder of the St. Thomas team layed good ball, considering the way in The remainder of the St. Thomas team played good ball, considering the way in which Kern was conducting himself. But it was easy to be seen that they were equally as much disgusted as the spectators. Zinan, the new catcher, was behind the bat, and aside from a poor throw to second base, he put up a good game. St. Thomas had six runs to their credit when play ended, and of these England made them a present of two. In the first Hemphill made a double to centre, and went to third on Lyons' single to Mohler. The ball was batted slowly by Lyons, and when Mohler did not return it hastily. Hemphill made for the plate. He was declard safe, although Swartz easily touched him out. Again, in the fifth, Tibald got first base on a scratch hit to Cooper, and he attempted to score on Hemphill's long drive to left field for three runs. The ball was speedily returned, and put on Tibald before he reached the plate, yet England called him safe. The score would indicate that Cooper was not much of a puzzle to the visitors, twelve hits being made off his delivery, but it was easily seen that the clever left-hander did not exert himself. When the game was securely in London's hands, Cooper eased up noticeably.

Kern was given no quarter by the Londons, As the game advanced Lohman's men batted harder, until in the fifth, sixth dons. As the game advanced Lohman's men batted harder, until in the fifth, sixth and seventh home runs, triples and doubles and seventh home runs, triples and doubles seemed to be the rage among them. They stole bases fearlessly, and this, with their slugging and Kern's childish work, gave them the big score. They cinched the game in the fifth, put St. Thomas out of reach in the sixth, and made it a walk-away in the seventh. The Londons' batting averages were swelled at Kern's expense, and, although there were a few changes in the although there were a few changes in the team, their fielding averages did not suffer. Cope's three-bagger in the fifth, when the bases were full; Jones' double and Jones' and Swartz's home run—the latter with the bases full-were the features in the London batting.

Swartz caught for five innings, when he went to right field to replace Babbitt, who was suffering from an injured hand. Franks played at short, and although unused to the ground, he escaped with one The score:—

A letter asking for a strict technical interpretation of the law of 1897 was sent to the Attorney-General of the State this morning by Dr. Henry Beates, who, as President of the State Board of Medical Examiners, is called upon to take the initiative in prosecutions of the kind contemplated. The act has been declared to be effective, but there are one or two points that it is thought perhaps may give a sharp legal fighter a chance for his client on technical grounds, and so before taking action, if these are deemed to need

West Virginia also has a law which prohibits the practicing of osteopaths, Christian Scientists and followers of other systems that are not based upon sound medical principles for the treatment of morbid conditions. In Montana none of these costs is parmitted to carry on its morbid conditions. In Montana none of these sects is permitted to carry on its methods of healing, and Tennessee and Kentucky also have laws against the prac-tice of the Christian Scientists. Replies to letters have also been received from Utah, North Dakota, Connecticut, New York, Louisiana, Iowa and several other States.

Dreyfus's Own Story.

The Paris Figaro of May 27 published notes written by Dreyfus while awaiting trial. He says:-

On Saturday, October 13, I received de Clam and other persons in civil When quiet was restored the deputies drew dress whom I did not know. I am dress fall on me and search me. I give me at least an inkling of the indeputies were warmly cheered by the crowd. It is believed the Premier's declaration will committed. I am innocent; I am the victim of an infernal plot." proofs are overwhelming," was the reply. "The President of the republic and the cabinet are informed of your arrest." My reason gave way. I was questioned and know not what I answered. I was then conveyed to prison by Major Henry and a detective. I raved, and remember nothing except that I was kept in solitary confinement, treated like a prisoner, left to myself. During the seventeen days which followed I underwent several interrogations in my celi by the judicial officer. He came towards evening with his clerk, Stratford, Ont., June 30.—The trial when my tortured brain was at the last extremity. What I heard in those sad and gloomy days! My heart still thrills. I did not know half the time what I answered. I was always told: -"It is all up with you. Providence alone can extricate you." But in my feverish brain I invented story after story to explain a riddle which, simpleton that I was, I could not guess. I constantly asked for proofs of the accusation, but these were refused me. Is not a criminal first shown the weapon of his crime, and asks whether he identifies it? The weapon of my alleged crime was a letter. Why was it not shown to me? The judicial of-ficer and his clerk made me say all they chose. I had no consciousness, nor did I believe it necessary to de-fend myself against such an accusation. One evening, on asking to be at last told, the clerk replied:pose your watch was found in a pocket where it had no business to be." The judicial officer nodded assent. I then understood that documents of mine had been stolen. My imagination went to work. I remembered a long correspondence I had had while at the Second Bureau with Capt. Hadamard respecting the preparation at the War School. "Other documents," I said to myself, "will also have been stolen from the Second Bureau." bered a closet locked with only one key, and with no secret padlock. On these data I constructed a fresh story.

I became mad with indignation and grief. One day, when I said to the judicial officer, "How can you believe that I, an Alsatian, to whom the Germans refuse all passports, can be a traitor?" he replied, "It was the better to conceal your game." On another evening the judicial officer said, "They are on the track of your accomplices. Arrests are imminent, and you will be sent accordingly before the civil or the military jurisdiction." I became literally mad, and saw myself entangled in an inextricable plot. Another evening the judicial officer said plaining of considerable loss by reason of their evening the saw myself entangled in an inextricable plot. Another evening the judicial officer said St. Thomas, Ont., June 30.—A by-law to grant the Lake Erie & Detroit River Railway a bonus of $20,000 to extend the line from Ridgetown to this city, a distance of 50 miles, was defeated to-day. The vote was:—For, 548; against, 755; majority against, 207. This is the third time the by-law has been voted upon. It carried last fall, but was quashed by Chief Justice Rose on a technicality.

tangled in an inextricable plot. Another evening the judicial officer said to me, "Your arrest is secret, yet it is known in all German conclaves, and they ravages among their stock. Sheep appear to be their favor-ite with the most fearful of all. I was near killing myself. I had hours of frenzy. In the middle of the night, in a fever-by Chief Justice Rose on a technicality.

WAR ON CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS, diest everybody will believe thee to be guilty. Thou must live, whatever happens, to explain to the world that thou art innocent." * **

My brain sometimes refuses to comprehend so arbitrary an arrest. What? A man can thus be arrested, his honor ruined, his name and family dishonored, and he can be driven mad simply because an expert declares his writing to resemble that of an infamous letter, though this man has an irreproachable past and cannot have been tempted through poverty. Nobody has seen him or caught him in the act, yet he is arrested, and to make him entirely lose his reason there is flung in his face:-"Overwhelming charges rest on you." During the whole investigation of the judicial officer he is told:-"It is all up with you; nothing can save

Finally, after that officer has been kept in solitary confinement for months, after everything has been searched, the overwhelming charges disappear, and yesterday, when the Government commissary informed me that I should be sent before a courtmartial, he said:-"The presumptions are sufficiently established to justify your being tried." Thus the over-whelming charges of the first day and the "It is all up" of the following days became after two months only pre sumptions. Well, I here declare it em phatically a monstrous infamy. describable baseness has been commit ted against me. I have had to deal, not with investigations, but with ex-

Dairy Profits.

We believe that there is a good deal of faulty reckoning done in figuring on th actual cost of milk and its products. Every thing used is figured at the price it would cost if bought in the market. By this method of figuring, it would be possible t show that every dairyman in the land is running behind. The Maine Experimen Station figured that the food of its herd, whose yield of butter was 350 pounds each per year, cost $58 to the cow. This made the actual cost of the butter 17.4 cents per pound, a cost that would be sufficient to drive every dairyman out of the business drive every dairyman out of the business when butter is selling at the prices it has brought during the last two years. The reason of this excessive cost lay in figuring everything fed to the cows at its current market value, which would be correct in case the food all had to be purchased, and which perhaps was true in the case of the experiment station. But some practical dairyman took hold of the question, and showed that by estimating the food expense of each cow would be reduced to $39.37, and the food cost of the butter to 12 cents per pound, leaving a margin of 5 cents per the food cost of the butter to 12 cents per pound, leaving a margin of 5 cents per pound, or $18.30 a head, for the practical dairyman, over what was figured out at the station. It is worth noting that at the New Jersey Experiment Station the cost of feeding is given as only $42.50 per cow, which is only a small advance comparatively over the figures of our practical farmer. Apparently it depends very largely on the method of feeding adopted whether the owner of a herd figures out a profit or a loss.—Country Gentleman.

Care of Calves.

One of the reasons that young calves are sold so early in life is the difficulty in raising them on skim milk. Some calves thrive and make headway as soon as taken from their dams, but the majority are carried off with "scours." Considering the fact that calves are frequently taken away from the cows when but three days old, the care are more than dairymen are willing to bestow. When the calves are to be raised the rule at the Kansas Experiment Station is to leave each calf with the fresh cow four or five days. Feed the calf five quarts of whole milk daily, in three feeds, gradually increasing to six or seven quarts, changing to skim milk when the calf is two weeks old, increasing gradually, but not exceeding ten quants. Flaxseed gruel should replace the butter fat removed from the milk. The gruel is made by mixing ground flaxseed with cold water, adding boiling water, and allowing it to steam for a few hours in a cyvered vessel. A teaspoonful of the gruel mixed with the milk is sufficient at first, and the quantity may be increased at each meal until as much as half a pound is allowed. Use clean milk at a temperature of 100 degrees, hever using sour milk. Calves will begin to eat meal when ten days old. the rule at the Kansas Experiment Station

Orchard Cultivation.

There is no longer any question as to whether the orchard should be cultivated. Experience everywhere shows that cultivated orchards live longer, bear better, and are more profitable than uncultivated orchards. Many of the experiment stations of the best fruit-producing states have tried uncultivated orchards besides those that were cultivated, and have collected opinions of the most observant fruit-growers of their sections, and the considerate verdict in almost every case is that cultivation is necessary for healthy trees and tion is necessary for healthy trees and first-class fruit.

Plough the orchard in the spring, cultivate both ways, and keep all weeds down till September 1, at which time the soil will be in fine condition for a seed bed. Sow rye at the rate of two bushels per acre. This will coyer the ground well before winter, and therefore protect the ground from blowing or hard freezing during the winter. Let the rye stand till knee high in spring, then turn under and proceed with clean cultivation through the summer. with clean cultivation through the summer. Deep cultimation is not essential nor advisable, but the cultivation should be frequent. Go over the ground after every rain, if possible, with the disk or the harrow, to break the crust. This will give a mulch of loose earth two inches deep, which will greatly retard evaporation and therefore. therefore conserve the moisture for the use of the trees.—Bulletin Kansas Experi ment Station.

Reports from the ranching districts of the North-west Territories state that the large wolves so dreaded by the Western stock-owners appear to be rapidly increasing in numbers. In the early days before the railroad, these destructive animals were found all over the prairie country, but with the disappearance of the buffaloes, they appeared to forsake their old haunts, and, although they were always to be found in the vicinity of the "foot hills," it was thought that they were dying out. But within the last few years the gray wolves have again put in an stock. Sheep appear to be their favor- F.O. CALVERT & Co., Manchester
