Men of character are almost completely at the mercy of unprincipled, abandoned women, and when a case of blackmail can be traced home it should be severely punished as a most heinous crime, and, above all, newspapers in giving the particulars of a scandal in which a valued reputation is concerned, should first be sure they're right, then go ahead. In other words, it would be well if their reports were so temperately written that the case could be unjudged till judged. always bearing in mind that a man's good fame is his best stock in trade.

MR. JOHN BAILEY, chief clerk of the house of representatives at Washington, has found out a novel way of gratifying his theatrical tastes. He was in the habit of writing orders on the theatre for passes, which being honored by the lessee were furned over as collateral to the Washington Gas company, who would charge their value in the government's gas bill. These orders amounted sometimes to as much as twenty dollars a day. Truly American in genuity beats the world.

A BILL is before the New York legislalature providing for the appointment of matrons in the police station houses. It is correctly argued that there are occasions when decency, and as often when humanity, requires female official attendance upon prisoners or lodgers in the station houses. Something is undoubtedly due to womanbood, whether criminal or simply unfortu-
