STEINITZ AGAIN BEATEN.

ZUKERTORT SCORES HIS FOURTH VICTORY.

The Battle Ground Now to be Transferred to St. Louis—Tramp of the Toronto Snowshoe Club.

The fifth game in the chess contest between Steinitz and Zukertort was won yesterday by the latter. Zukertort opened with the Queen's gambit, which Steinitz declined. At the end of the thirty-second move Steinitz resigned. Zukertort having won four games according to the terms of the contest the next three games will be played in St. Louis beginning on Jan. 29.

Toronto Snowshoe Club.

Practically the first tramp of the season of the Toronto snowshoe club took place last evening. The members were out once before, but it was such hard going as to make snowshoeing a mockery. Last night the boys had a rattling time. There was a large muster, two guns in the park being the rallying place. From the ex-Russian artillery pieces Archie McKenzie, the leader, showed the way over to Rosedale and thence to Eglington. The snow was rather soft, making the tramping somewhat heavy. From Eglington, after resting at John Oulcott's, the boys snowshoed it back again, arriving down town all of a glow, but yet apparently able to re-cover the distance if time had permitted. J. George, the secretary member of the club, was whipper-in.

A Challenge to Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 20.—The following challenge has been received here:

TORONTO, Jan. 19, 1886.

I hereby issue a challenge to the West End rowing club tug of war team of Buffalo to pull one, two or three contests for medals, or a cup and the international championship.

JOHN V. KENNEDY, Captain of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union tug of war.

Amateur champions of Canada.

[The I. C. B. U. team are undoubtedly fine pullers, but it would be interesting to know where and when they obtained the title of champions of Canada. The police of this city could give them a lively time in an effort to establish their claim.]

The Horse's Love for Company.

A curious fact in connection with race-horses is their love of company, this being one of the strongest traits in many well bred animals. The Godolphin Arabian, when he had flattened out his own cat by mistake, missed it so much that he pined from remorse, and savaged every other cat with which it was sought to console him. In Sir Edwin Landseer's life-sized picture of Voltigeur, at Lord Zetland's country seat of Aske, the great horse is represented with his head down, whispering soft things to his furry companion, a tortoise shell cat with a leather collar round her neck. Her favorite snoozing place was on the yellow sheet which covered the horse's haunches, and when Voltigeur had been done up and dressed, he invariably put up his head to the rack that puss might make a bridge of his nose and neck. Sir Edwin was for painting her on the horse's back, but yielded when it was demonstrated by the groom that this would be untrue to nature, for the cat was too particular to rest on her friend's bare back.

Waxy never was happy without a rabbit in his paddock, and Camel had as his fairy genius a white bunny. Lanercost's attached companion was a dog. When in 1841 the string was divided, and Lanercost went on to Pigburn, while another detachment was sent to Doncaster, the dog followed the latter, but suddenly vanished, and though he had never been there before, went straight to Pigburn, found out Lanercost's box, and rushed in at a stable time. "Is was a question," says Mr. Dixon, "whether horse or dog was most pleased at the meeting, and although the latter was treacherously coaxed out with a cat, he would not quit the yard. During the night he climbed to a loft above the horse, and, after revenging himself for the cat cheat on all the ferrets kept there, departed for Doncaster, and met the bell-man, who was calling him at the gate. The gentleman who would have another peep at Lanercost in the van as the horse was crossing the Mersey to Chester, did not forget this sentinel very easily."

No cat or dog would satisfy Gemma di Vergy's desire of company; but a boy had to step by him at night and another to sit with him all day reading a book or newspaper. The habit began with him as a yearling when he was found at a window, with his fore feet on the sill, gravely looking out into the yard, having climbed over a partition in some unexplained manner—a performance as remarkable as that of Andover, who turned chimney sweep and had made very good progress up a chimney ere he was discovered. One Act was so fond of the company of other horses that she felt lonely when in front in a race and would look round anxiously and indignantly for the others. Phryne when in labor or suffering was insensible to pain provided she had the society of Lord John Scott's goat, which she had wooed away from his favorite charger, Helen, the same mare which he rode up the stone steps of the bank of Dublin to get a check cashed and down again with the money in his pocket. (More by token Helen never allowed a jockey to mount unless he had covered his colors with an overcoat, like another famous English racer, who, having one day picked his master's pocket and found the white handkerchief he drew out expanded in his face, would not let his jockey—whose colors were white—mount unless the obnoxious jacket was covered.) Pantaloon, the horse with whom Phryne was repeatedly mated with success, abominated dogs and boys, while the sight of a pig or a hen turned Irish Birdcatcher savage.

General Notes.

The Caledonian curling club of Buffalo will play a match in Toronto on Wednesday next with the Toronto curling club.

Four rinks of Toronto curlers played a match at Brantford yesterday with the local curlers, the Torontonians winning by 19 points.

Dave Bennett has undertaken to run twenty-seven laps at the Princess rink on Saturday night while Geo. Hill rides a safety bicycle 36 laps, the stakes being $25 a side.

A bank clerk in Westfield, Mass., has ridden 5065 miles on his bicycle, measured by a cyclometer, during the past six months, and challenges any one to produce an equal record.

At the annual steeplechase of the Montreal snowshoe club over the mountain last night the following won the first four places: J. G. Ross, time 18 m. 23 s.; J. B. Aird, 19 m. 25 s.; R. Starke, 20 m. 8 s.; W. Kerr, 20 m. 9 s.

A roller skating race of five miles for $300 a side has been arranged to take place in the Metropolitan rink Wednesday next between Charles Webber, champion skater of Hamilton, and Joe McMinnis, a forty-eight hour champion, also of Hamilton.

A small Harrow boy, being asked by his parent at a cricket match whether a youth named Cobden, who was making a splendid score, was "any relation to the great Cobden," replied, all unconscious of the exploits of the free trade champion, "He is the great Cobden."

Newcastle winter races commenced yesterday with a large attendance, but with a heavy track, owing to the newly-fallen snow. The first race, for the 3-minute class, was won by Mr. Jullen's b. m. Molly, McAlpine being second. The 2.37 race was not finished, Deadwood having the first heat, the second being a dead heat between Deadwood and Mayflower, and the third and fourth heats falling to Bob Reed's pacer Mattie B. To-day the unfinished race, free-for-all and 2.50 races will be decided.

John Teemer, the oarsman, has forwarded $300 to the Cincinnati Enquirer as a forfeit for a single-scull race with any oarsman in the world. Hanlan or Gaudaur preferred, for from $1000 to $5000. He offers Beach $1000 for expenses if he will come to America and row him.

Walter Over of Colborne street has had a great loss in the death of his celebrated imported bull terrier bitch Lillie, by the breaking of a blood vessel yesterday morning. She weighed about 13½ lbs. and had a record for killing 71 rats in 5½ mins. Mr. Over had a standing challenge to match her against any dog in Canada at rats. She has left behind her three splendid pups.

The French have looked with alarm upon the steady export of Percheron horses to the United States; but the most prominent breeders there now say that the progeny of these horses raised in the United States are an improvement upon their sires, and that it is profitable to re-import. It is known that Napoleon III. used to import Percheron horses from Vermont for the post chaises which he used so much, as Gen. Fleury, his master of the horse, found them much superior to the Mechlenburg horses, more generally in use.

A Wreck and a Matter.

Before Judge Rose yesterday the evidence in Russell v. Clarkson, the action to secure goods alleged to have been wrongfully assigned, was finished. The jury disagreed and were discharged. Blong v. Bater, a non-jury case, was settled. Imperial Bank v. Shields, another non-jury case, was adjourned till next court. International Wreckage Company v. Lobo was an action taken to recover $9000 for services rendered the defendant's vessel, Huron, while in distress on Lake Erie in 1883. The case was not completed when the court arose.

Before Chief Justice Cameron, Doty v. McInnes, an action for $2500 on account of a boiler and engine supplied by plaintiff to defendant, was not finished.

To-day's non-jury peremptory list is: Cochrane Mf'g Co. v. Lamon, Goldie v. Ball, Smith v. Taylor, Squelch v. Franklish, Paisley v. Broddy, Block v. Martens, McDonald v. Brown.

Desks for the Council Chamber.

Chairman Irwin, of the property committee, had the honor yesterday afternoon to preside at the first meeting of any council committee for 1886. His colleagues, Ald. Boustead, Defoe, Frankland, Maughan, Barton, Hastings, Galley, Low, Macdonald, Denison and Fleming were all in their places on time. It was decided that it would be advisable to appoint a sub-committee whose special province it would be to look after all affairs in connection with the city hall building. Ald. Boustead, Defoe, Frankland, Galley and Irwin will act. The subject for discussion was new desks for the council chamber. The committee rose and spent half an hour in the chamber and, returning to the committee room, spent another half hour in debating. It was finally decided that the whole matter be left to a sub-committee, who should have power to make all arrangements, advertise for tenders, etc.

Annual Meeting of St. Andrew's Church.

The annual business meeting of St. Andrew's church was held last night. The pastor, Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, presided. The reports presented showed a satisfactory state of affairs. Messrs. Inglis, Gillmour and Cosby were the retiring managers, Messrs. Inglis and Cosby were re-elected, and R. W. Sutherland was elected new member. There are three Sabbath schools in connection with the church, St. Andrew's, St. Mark's and Dorset. In connection with the latter there is a night school for street arabs, conducted by volunteer teachers. The debt on the church is now about $20,000. Efforts will be made this year to wipe it out. After business was over tea was provided by the ladies of the church.

Electoral District Agricultural Society.

The Toronto Electoral District Agricultural society held its annual meeting last night. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, Geo. Vair; 1st vice, P. G. Close; 2nd vice, A. McGregor; secretary-treasurer, J. P. Edwards; directors, J. E. Mitchell, Wm. Christie, J. J. Withrow, Col. Gray, Dr. Smith, D. C. Ridout, William Rennie, Capt. McMaster, and R. Davies.

John Snell of Edmonton was appointed representative on the Agricultural and Arts association board of district No. 6.

The thanks of the association were tendered Col. Gray for his able administration as president during the year.

Amusement Notes.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather a goodly house greeted The Passing Regiment at the Grand last night.

The Musin concert company gave their fine performance to a fair sized house at the Gardens.

At the Metropolitan Roller rink Sig Bennett endeavored to skate 2 miles while Dave Bennett ran a mile and a half. Dave succeeded in heading his opponent by a half-mile at the finish. The fourth race of the series to-night.

The Dill-Bell-Jennings benefit comes off at the Toronto roller rink to-night.

Mere Bricks and Mortar.

Judge McDougall heard a little more evidence in the Garrison creek sewer investigation yesterday morning. John B. Watson, contractor, testified to having inspected the sewer last December. He considered Godson's mortar and bricks, on the whole, hard. The mortar was soft in some places, but would harden in time. The whole work compared favorably to that in English sewers. The evidence brought out nothing new. An adjournment was made at 1 o'clock.

Pilfering Females.

At the county criminal court, before Judge McDougall, Mary Ann Phillips, found guilty of having stolen a keg of butter from Isaac Cowan of Weston, was sent to the Mercer for three months. Lucy Loads, a weak-minded girl, who stole $2 from Henry Scarlett of West Toronto junction, was also sent to the Mercer for three months. Albert Long, charged with indecent assault, was remanded to the assizes.

The Police Yesterday.

Arrested and lodged at No. 1 Maggie Greenwood on a warrant charging her with stealing a dress from one Kate Brown.

Ran Margaret Porter in for stealing a jacket from Ellen Williams of 260 Lippincott street.

Apprehended Richard O'Connor for stealing a cap from John Graham, a clerk at Woodhouse's, King street east.

And arrested Mark Checkley.

A Good Thing for Toronto.

Robert Berry, a notorious negro character, was convicted at the police court yesterday of keeping a disreputable house and fined $50 and costs or three months in jail. He was also fined $60 and costs for selling liquor without a license. Immediately on hearing the verdicts against him he left the city, his supposed destination being Chicago.

Interest Coming Down.

A mortgage of $50,000 at six per cent. on the Metropolitan church fell due the other day. It was renewed for five per cent. A capitalist of Buffalo advanced the money and thought he got a good investment.

THE POET'S POOR DAUGHTER.

Another Side to the Maud Miller Begging Story.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The story about Joaquin Miller's daughter begging in Chicago created quite a sensation among literary and theatrical people here. Mrs. Frank Leslie was very much disturbed, and after reading the story said: "This is a malicious piece of business. For fifteen years my husband was a close personal friend of Mr. Miller. He and his wife and daughter visited us, and I know that father could not have done for a child more than Mr. Miller did for Maud. She was educated at a Canadian convent at heavy expense to him, and after graduating made a tour of Europe. She had the very best opportunities, but being a little erratic she failed to avail herself of them. While in the convent in Canada the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise paid her a visit. Over the border this was considered a marked honor. She was very pretty and very intelligent, and should have been a bright ornament to society. She is now about 20 years of age."

"How long has she been on the stage?"

"She is but an amateur in that business and has been on the boards not more than four months. She appeared in a dual character in The Danites with some success, but it is not true that she has been playing important roles for two years."

"Under what name did she appear?"

"Under her maiden name, Maud Miller. You may not be aware that she is a married woman and that her husband, and not her father, is the person to whom she should look for support. Her husband is a son of Steele Mackaye, the theatrical manager. If report be true, he has never been able to support his wife. They were married against the father's express wishes; yet he generously contributed to her support afterwards. I know this because he instructed me to transmit to her checks in pay for what he had done for us, and I myself saw that these checks were forwarded. You see there are two sides to the story, and I think Mr. Miller's side does him credit.

Runaway.

—A gentleman and his lady were out driving the other day. A large black Newfoundland dog ran out and scared the horse, which ran away, upsetting the occupants out of the cutter in the ditch, bruising the gentleman very badly. The lady escaped without a scratch. She then assisted her more unfortunate companion to his feet, brushed the snow off, and said to him: Let the horse go to grass, and just step into some first-class house and buy some of Our Brave Boys or General Middleton brands of cigars and we will go right home, and you will be as right as a fiddle in half an hour, or less time. Manufactured only by W. S. DOBSON, 139 King street east.

Women Masquerading in Sleep.

New York letter in Albany Journal.

A thousand women sleep masked every night in this city. That is an estimate, but it is based on facts that make it entirely trustworthy. In one of the streets given over to retail trade in women's decoration, from the harmless necessary calico to the vain, superfluous satin—from essential coverings of feet with shoes to overlayings of faces with cosmetics—there hangs a signboard which tells that toilet masks are sold up-stairs. On entering I found that a traffic was actually going on. The article of humbug was a pliable mask, made seemingly of cloth, impregnated with an oily unguent, and meant to be worn on the face during bed-times, with the expectation that it would improve the complexion. The false visage was in a great variety of features and sizes, so that any woman could get a snug fit, the idea being that the skin of the entire face should come into close contact with the supposed medicament. The probability is that such a sweating of the skin really produces softness and smoothness, though exposure to the cold might easily chap the tender surface, and thereby more than spoil the gain. I learned to a certainty that about 2000 masks had been sold within a week, and it is fair to believe that, with so many distributed, at least 1000 women are nightly using them.

A Ride on a Head Light.

From the Montreal Star.

As a Grand Trunk train was approaching Island Pond on Thursday last it ran into a team which was crossing the track and killed one of the horses. As the train was close run for time, another train being close behind it, it was not thought safe to stop, and the train proceeded to Island Pond. Arrived there the front of the engine was examined and a man, the driver of the team which had been run into, was found upon the headlight. He was just recovering consciousness from the shock, and was taken down very little the worse for his terrible experience.

Courtesy Toward Our Own Household.

From Good Housekeeping.

One thing do remember—to have your home every-day table just as attractive as the one to which you invite your honored guest. It pays to exert one's self for one's family. They never lose sight of it. Ten to one, the honored guest, tired with social courtesies, will forget you in a day, or only remember your little affair as a debt to be paid back some time. We do not under-estimate the debt of hospitality, but we do think we are more likely to err in the lack of the courtesy toward our own households. Be hospitable to them, we pray; thereby some of you may entertain angels unawares.

Why Lady Macdonald Quit.

From the Brantford Telegram.

Lady Macdonald, wife of the premier of Canada, writes that she gave up wine drinking on Christmas day, 1867, in consequence of one of her guests saying at the dinner table that "practical total abstinence was impossible for anyone in society." Emptying a half glassful of sherry into the finger glass she said: "I will try." "Since then," she writes, "thank God, I have never found any necessity for wine."

Too Eager in Cross-Examining.

Witness—"Yes, sir. He struck me on the bridge—"

Lawyer (sharply interrupting)—"How is that? You said awhile ago that he struck you on the balcony."

Witness—"So he did, sir. I'm tellin' you no lie."

Lawyer—"Did he strike you more than once?"

Witness—"Only once, sir. Begorra, I was quite satisfied."

Lawyer—"How then could he strike you on the bridge and on the balcony at the same time with one blow?"

Witness—"Anyhow, he did, sir."

Judge (interfering)—"On what balcony?"

Witness—"The balcony of the hotel, your honor."

Judge—"And on what bridge?"

Witness—"The bridge of my nose, sir. Had the spalpeen waited I'd a told him."

519 pieces French all-wool dress goods, clearing at half prices at the Bon Marche.

Chance for Ladies.

—The whole of the dry goods stock of McKendry & Co., Waterloo House, is being disposed of at nominal prices, those who wish to buy seasonable goods for ridiculously low prices should visit The Waterloo House. The ordinary price of dry goods is at this popular store lower than the lowest, but with the reductions that have been made in order to clear out the stock, a veritable picnic is offered to purchasers of dry goods. 278 Yonge street, south corner Alice, is the place. 246x

—Stanton's Sunbeams—beautiful little photographs on tinted mounts, $1 per dozen. 134 Yonge street. All other sizes at lowest prices for first-class work. 246

DOMINION ORGAN AND PIANO CO.

One Hundred Organs to be Shipped at Once.

—A few days ago The World announced the fact that this company had just then received an order from New Zealand for a large number of their instruments, and also the fact that they had secured additional buildings, although their factory is the largest of the kind in Canada, and are compelled to run overtime to supply the orders for their home and foreign trade. Since then they have received from Germany another order for one hundred of their instruments to be shipped at once. Their claim of making the best pianos and organs in the world is certainly verified by such facts as these. x

Happy Sid—A Bad Soldier.

The history of this hypocrite, who was one of the lights of the Salvation army, is given in last week's Wingham Times by J. Auburn of Toronto, who knew him from his boyhood. He denounces him as a thief, liar and canting hypocrite. Numerous cases are recorded against him in London, England. He served three months in London jail for stealing a pair of boots from his employer, being caught in the act at the very time he was making great professions of christianity. He also robbed the Wesleyan Mission Fund house, London, and the detectives were after him but he escaped to Canada. He was also connected with robberies in Barrie, where he stole from Capt. Madden of the Saved army an overcoat and stole some money belonging to the Salvation army. His last episode was robbing the mail bag at Kippen and his escape to the States. Truly, Happy Sid is an ornament to the Salvation army.

Worth Knowing.

—What makes you pay more for harness than is necessary? We can give you a better article and later styles than any other house in the dominion. A $45 harness for $22; a $35 for $18; a $20 for $11.50; a $15 for $9. All hand-stitched. All work guaranteed. 200 sets to choose from. Salesmen take a pleasure in showing goods. The Difference.

—When a woman becomes flurried she feels for a fan. When a man becomes flurried he feels for a cigar. When you buy a cigar at most stores in town you can't smoke it within the city limits. But when you buy your cigars at The Jewel thousands follow you to catch the fragrance. We sell nothing but the best. 104½ Queen street west. 246 x

Lord Salisbury on Ireland.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—In the House of Lords the Duke of Abercorn moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne. He spoke of the grave responsibility of those who directed the affairs of the empire, and that was the condition of Ireland. He mentioned a number of points which the government must consider, in relation to that country, among them the maintenance of union, the suppression of the persecutions of which the National league was guilty, the defence of the loyal Irish minority, and no statesman, whatever party he belonged to, would sacrifice the interests of the country.

The Earl of Scarborough seconded the motion of the Duke of Abercorn.

Earl Granville congratulated Lord Salisbury on his possession of two strong supporters, and skilfully avoided dangerous subjects.

Lord Salisbury, in a speech reviewing the policy of the government, said that Germany had given assurance that she did not intend to annex Samo
