TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 17, 1890.

A Battered Party. Some few months ago, when Mr. Laurier was in his visit to the Province, he said that the platform of the Reform party should be but one plank, and that was Unrestricted Reciprocity.

In an article on Mr. Laurier's approaching visit to Toronto, La. Parle, the leading French Liberal paper, says that he stands on the tariff question by criticising Mr. Blake's attitude on this issue. Nothing is to be got, says La. Parle, by convincing the Liberal party to stand by Laurier about the tariff.

Without doubt the party papers speak truly enough as to the course taken by the party, and which at the election of the leaders it must continue to take throughout to next general election.

But there will be time enough to write this out afterwards. The important fact just now before us is that the party is in a position to be confirmed in the Grip leadership, also that it remains in position on the basis of Unrestricted Reciprocity as a policy.

But what is it that draws them on this banner after the phantom of Free Trade? We should answer that the party, demoralized before, has some new members who are cracked over the misleading Free Trade promises of forty years ago.

George Anderson, alias Thomas, a city bookbinder, was arrested yesterday by Detective Coffey on suspicion of being implicated in the robbery of two men, since from the words of J. Goodwin, 313 Queen-street east.

Mr. J. J. Hume, Columbus, Ohio, writes: "I have been afflicted for some time with a severe headache, and find Parson's Pills the best medicine for this ailment. I have taken several boxes, and find them to be a most reliable and effective remedy for all kinds of headache, neuralgia, and other ailments of the head and face."
